BLOCK ASSERTS SON SUGGESTED AIDING WALKER

PARK COMMISSIONER CONTRADICTS MAYOR

New York, May 27 (A.P.).—A newspaper publisher's explanation of a brokerage account from which Mayor Walker drew $246,000 profit without a cent's investment was given to the Hofstadter legislative committee today, after a city employe had contradicted some of the mayor's own testimony.

The aftermath of Walker's own two-day appearance before the inquiry board ended with Samuel Seabury attempting to link the personal finances of the mayor and those of Russell T. Sherwood, missing accountant.

Sherwood, testimony had shown, put nearly $1,000,000 into his bank and brokerage accounts between the day Walker became mayor and the day the $3,500-a-year accountant disappeared.

Seabury, gray-haired committee counsel, opened the day's session by attacking the mayor's testimony and contending the committee had proof, in spite of Walker's denial, that Sherwood for years had been his personal business agent.

Block's Explanation.

The session ended with Seabury introducing documentary evidence by which he sought to show that the finances of Walker and Sherwood were intertwined, and that the accountant drew checks for the mayor from funds Walker has said he knew nothing about.

The story of the joint brokerage account from which the mayor profited so handsomely was given by Paul Block.

The publisher said he established the account after his 10-year-old son, Billy, while waiting to go for an automobile ride with the mayor, asked how Walker could live on the $25,000 salary he was getting.

Block said he was loath to give the explanation because he feared it would sound "silly and sentimental."

It was a story of a great personal friendship, in which Walker figured as an individual and not as mayor of the world's largest city.

Walker Story Contradicted.

The city employe who was called to testify against his own chief executive was Park Commissioner Walter R. Herrick.

Walker had denied he ever owned, either directly or indirectly, any Interstate Trust Co. stock.

Herrick testified that he bought for Walker and with Walker's money 300 shares of the stock, which was issued in the park commissioner's name and part of which, according to testimony previously heard, was used by J. Allan Smith, a representative of the Girl Seeking Work Dies in Apartment

Police Seek to Learn Identity of Victim; Poison Evidence Lacking.

Police are seeking to learn the identity of an attractive girl who died mysteriously last night a few minutes after she collapsed in the elevator of an apartment house at 3220 Connecticut avenue northwest, where she had gone to apply for a position as maid.

An elevator boy told police that the girl asked to be taken to the fifth floor. She fainted at the third floor and was removed to the resident manager's apartment, where she died a few minutes later. She was pronounced dead at 9 o'clock by Dr. Saul Schwartzbach, of Emergency Hospital, who termed the cause of death "mysterious." There was no outward evidence of poison, the doctor said. Following unsuccessful efforts of members of a rescue squad to revive the girl, her body was removed to the Morgue to await identification.

The girl was described by police as 18 or 20, 5 feet 5 inches, 105 pounds, blue eyes, dark brown, bobbed hair, and dressed in a blue suit and yellow slipover sweater.

Bonus Army to Erect Own Camp Near City

Gen. Glassford Works With Veterans to Provide Food and Quarters; Communists Will Be Segregated From Main Body.

The bonus army of occupation, which is infiltrating the Capital to ask full payment of the veterans' bonus, will today begin to erect a concentration camp at either Camp Meigs or on District-owned property near Boiling Field, building its own barracks and patterning its organization after the Army.

After a conference scheduled for this morning with Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, the veterans' representatives will muster the 1,000 men now in the city and take them to the camp, where they will organize their own details and devise their own system of discipline.

The first of the series of successive waves of former service men which will descend upon the Capital within the next ten days is expected to arrive late tomorrow night or early Monday. The group from the Pacific Coast, numbering about 300, will be escorted directly to the improvised concentration camp.

Pressure will be brought to bear by the veterans to have their respective representatives sign the petition of Representative Wright Patman (Democrat), Texas, which is designed to bring his full payment bonus bill before the House for consideration. It is now before the rules committee of the House, having been rejected by the ways and means committee. Only 91 of the necessary 145 signatures have been placed on the petition.

A demonstration is being planned to take place on the Capitol plaza.

If the World War veterans are unsuccessful in their attempt to obtain a vote before adjournment, according to Harold B. Foulkrod, who was selected as their chairman, the majority of them will begin a trek to Chicago for the party conventions to demand

M'LEAN OUSTER SUIT AGREEMENT REACHED

Publisher Yields Post Control; Retains Voice in Remainder of Estate.

(Associated Press.)

A stipulation that Edward B. McLean surrender all authority over affairs of The Washington Post, but remain as cotrustee of the rest of his father's big estate, was presented yesterday to the District of Columbia Supreme Court by attorneys for Mr. McLean and his wife.

The agreement was offered to settle ouster proceedings brought by the three McLean children through their mother, estranged wife of the publisher.

It now awaits action of Justice Jennings Bailey, who heard the evidence in the suit to remove Mr. McLean as cotrustee of the legacy, including the newspaper.

The stipulation provided that Mr. McLean "resign forthwith and immediately from the offices he now holds as publisher of The Washington Post newspaper and as president and a member of the board of directors of The Washington Post Company."

It provided that after acceptance of the resignations, the court should enter a decree "limiting and restricting the authority and responsibility of the cotrustee, Edward B. McLean, so as to exclude therefrom The Washington Post Co., and all matters relating to the newspaper."

The proposed agreement also specified that the decree should provide that Mr. McLean should have no power, authority or responsibility, directly or indirectly, to vote or control the stock of The Post Co., and that he should have no voice in the sale or lease of the corporation or newspaper.

It was signed by Julius I. Peyser and George B. Fraser, counsel for Mr. McLean, and by Frank J. Hogan, Nelson T. Hartson and Albert W. Fox, for the plaintiffs. John S. Flannery, attorney for the trust company, signed under a handwriting notation: "No objection except that condition of trust estate requires immediate action."

Lebrun Closely Guarded On U. S. Embassy Visit

WET PLANK ADOPTED BY ILLINOIS G. O. P.

Hoover Is Not Mentioned in Platform; 22 Delegates Uninstructed.

Springfield, Ill., May 27 (A.P.).—Led by Len Small, its nominee for governor, the Illinois Republican convention for the first time since prohibition went into effect in 1920, today adopted the "wet" side of the question in a platform which did not mention President Hoover by name.

The 69-year-old former governor, who is seeking a third term, was roundly cheered as he declared for repeal of State and national prohibition laws and asserted that Illinois voters had plainly showed their sentiments on the issue in the referendum of 1930.

Prosperity will return, Small—hitherto a "dry"—said, and "the reign of terror in crime syndicates" will end when prohibition is terminated.

Small and former Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago, his political ally, controlled the convention, which also elected 22 uninstructed delegates at large with a half vote apiece to the national convention in Chicago next month.

The declaration of the former governor, who has had Antisaloon League support as a "dry" in previous campaigns, followed an address by Temporary Chairman Frank L. Smith, of Dwight, who urged the delegates to approve a plank for resubmission of the liquor question to the States. Mr. Smith blamed the Democrats for placing the eighteenth amendment in the Constitution.

The platform adopted formally indorsed the national and State administrations and recommended that Congress authorize a $5,000,000,000 bond issue for public works to provide unemployment relief.

United States Senator Otis Glenn praised President Hoover in an address for "courage and unselfish labor in a time of greatest crisis."

Polish Papers Continue Drive on U.S. Currency

Warsaw, Poland, May 27 (A.P.).—As a result of alarmist newspaper stories concerning America's currency, more than $150,000 in greenbacks are being changed daily into American gold coin at a premium of 2 cents on the dollar. A group of exchange operators is traveling between Warsaw and Paris, where gold is obtained at par.

Girl Is Kidnaped and Shot Trying to Foil Bank Holdup

Oklahoma Bookkeeper Sounds Alarm While Facing Pistols; One of Three Bandits Killed in Resulting Gun Fight and Companions Flee With $800.

Morris, Okla., May 27 (A.P.).—Kidnaped by three bank robbers, Miss Claire Aggas, 26-year-old bookkeeper, was shot today in a gunfight that resulted in the death of one of her abductors and the reported wounding of another. Two of the men escaped.

Guns blazed as the robbers emerged from the First State Bank of Morris with $800 loot and the girl their captive. Alone in the bank, she had sounded the burglar alarm, although threatened with firearms.

Forrest Bradley, whose store is across the street from the bank, heard the alarm and opened fire as the trio was getting ready to flee in an automobile, using the girl as a shield. Marshal I. Z. Thompson was nearby and joined in the shooting.

Miss Aggas was wounded in the exchange of shots with the robbers, but it was undetermined who was responsible. Neither she nor Bradley was able to explain. A bullet struck her in the lower jaw and penetrated her shoulder.

Marshal Thompson was wounded in the arm.

"When I heard the alarm go off I ran upstairs and grabbed a shotgun and rifle," Bradley said. "Looking through a window, I saw one of the robbers at the wheel of his car and took aim. He slumped in the seat dead.

"I saw Miss Aggas and one robber walking out of the bank, but I didn't dare fire. She was jumping around, but he held her close to him.

"She yelled when she was forced into the automobile. The getaway was made in a hurry. The dead robber was thrown into the rear of the

SENATE UNIT'S REBUILT SAVING PLAN IS READY

$200,000,000 Has Been Put Back in Bill by Bipartisan Body.

SILENCE UNBROKEN ON ECONOMY MEANS

But President's Furlough Program Is Reported in Place of Pay Cut.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Retrieving some $200,000,000 in budget-balancing economies stricken by the House from the omnibus savings bill, the Senate bipartisan economy committee yesterday completed its arduous three-week task.

The Senate appropriations committee will get the report Monday. Meantime the legislative appropriations subcommittee this morning will begin consideration of the basic bill to which the economy measure was attached as a rider.

Possibility that the Senate may consider economy legislation early next week was seen last night after Senate Democratic Leader Joseph T. Robinson forecast passage of the revenue act "Monday or Tuesday." The economy bill is scheduled to follow the tax measure on the floor.

Would Speed Senate Work.

Blockading action on nine appropriation bills whose provisions it vitally affects, disposal of the savings bill will throw open floodgates of activity that may lead to adjournment by the middle of June.

Provisions of the budget-balancing economy measure, launched from the White House and nourished alike by leaders of both parties, remained a secret known only to Senators Jones, Bingham, Dickinson, McKellar, Byrnes and Bratton, members of the bipartisan group.

These six throughout have kept their "gentlemen's agreement" not to divulge what retrenchment proposals have been approved or rejected. Yesterday they declined to deviate from this policy.

Appropriations Chairman Wesley L. Jones greeted newspapermen with his customary: "There is nothing I can tell you yet."

Furlough Plan Rumored.

But in Senate lobbies reports are current that the President's enforced Federal furlough plan has replaced pay cuts in the economy measure; that the George bill giving the President broad powers to reorganize the Government has been substituted for the limited House provisions, and that savings from curtailed veterans' allowances have been reinserted.

It is understood that the projected Army-Navy merger voted down in the House has been left out of the rebuilt bill.

Government personnel provisions prohibiting automatic pay increases, eliminating Saturday half holidays and eliminating overtime pay, are believed to have been retained.

The President's plan of furloughing Federal workers on the five-day week principle, as a means of taking up the slack in employment caused by

Elderly Victim Is Crushed as Auto Sends Him From Safety.

Theodore Beyer, 72, 3139 O street northwest, died shortly after midnight at the Emergency Hospital from injuries received when he was struck down by a Falls Church bus on Pennsylvania avenue at Twenty-fifth street early in the night.

The man had passed the bus operated by Cary D. Hall, of Ballston, Va., when an automobile, going in the opposite direction, forced him to step back in the path of the bus, according to police. He died of a skull fracture.

The body was identified late last night by Mrs. Emma Russo, of 3139 O street northwest, his daughter.

Mott and Starkweather To Seek Hawley's Seat

Portland, Oreg., May 27 (A.P.).—James W. Mott (Republican), and Harvey Starkweather (Democrat), will compete in November for the position of representative in Congress from the First Oregon District now held by Willis C. Hawley. Close races for the nomination in both parties were decided today with the completion of the official tabulation.

Mott, State corporation commissioner, defeated Representative Hawley for renomination by 30,852 to 30,714. Starkweather, Clackamas Democratic leader, won over William Delzell, of Salem, by 31 votes. The count was 12,143 to 12,112.

HOOVER BRANDS GARNER'S AID BILL GIGANTIC PORK BARREL; SENATE REACHES SALES TAX

Vote on Manufacturers' Levy Due at Memorial Day Session.

$270,000,000 IN NEW REVENUE IS ADDED

Postage Rate Increases and Charge on Bank Checks Are Approved.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Increased postage rates and special taxes on bank checks and furs were voted into the tax bill by the Senate yesterday in the midst of last-minute preparations by both sides for the test of strength on the general manufacturers' sales tax.

The taxes voted into the bill yesterday added $270,000,000 to the $669,500,000 already approved and the end of the day found the measure just $70,000,000 short of the $1,009,500,000 contained in it as reported by the finance committee.

Other committee proposals which were passed over when they were first reached in going through the bill are expected to be acted on today and Senator David I. Walsh (Democrat), of Massachusetts, is expected to launch the sales tax fight.

Both Sides Claim Victory.

Both sides in the dispute claimed victory was assured. Senator David A. Reed (Republican), of Pennsylvania, a leader in the fight for the general manufacturers' sale tax, claimed a majority of the Senate now was willing to vote for it. Senator Walsh, author of the amendment on which the fight will be based, said a conservative estimate put the number in favor of the tax at not less than 45.

Senator James E. Watson (Republican), of Indiana, majority leader, estimated the sales tax advocates were not less than four or five votes short of the number they needed. Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), of Mississippi, minority leader in the tax bill fight, also denied the sales tax had won enough votes for victory and predicted it would be defeated.

Debate over the sales tax is not expected to run very long and a vote is expected not later than Monday. Senator Harrison tried to persuade the Senate to finish up the bill today. Senator Watson said he would like to see that done, but didn't think it could be and the Senate would meet on Monday to go ahead with its work.

Will Add $33,000,000.

Of the $70,000,000 needed to bring the bill to the finance committee total, three items which have been passed over, but which are expected to be acted on today, will provide $33,000,000. The committee's recommendation of a 4-cent tax on stock trans-

20 Seized in Raid On Alleged Gaming

Two Held as Operators of House; Remainder Are Taken as Witnesses.

Telephone tips to police officials last night netted a raiding squad two men who were charged with permitting gaming on the premises of 1828 First street northwest and eighteen witnesses who were taken into custody at the establishment.

Acting on advice received from an unidentified party, Acting Lieut. B. F. McAllister and Sergt. R. A. Johnson, of the Second Precinct, entered the First street address, which is operated as a poolroom, and discovered an alleged gambling device in the rear of the building.

Irving P. Hoover, 28, 150 Rhode Island avenue northwest, and Boyd D. Souder, 25, 30 Seaton place northwest, were placed under arrest and held on the gaming charge under a $500 bond. About $35 in change was found near the gaming device. The establishment was in open operation when the raiders entered, according to police reports.

Chinese Band Seizes 15 On Train; Gets $40,000

London, May 27 (U.P.).—Fifteen passengers were kidnaped and $40,000 railroad cash was stolen by bandits who attacked a Manchurian train halfway between Harbin and the frontier, an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Harbin said today.

The train was the first to run since the Chinese Eastern Railroad, jointly owned by China and Russia, reopened service. There has been heavy fighting near Harbin recently, between Chinese rebels against the regime of Henry Pu-Yi, and the new Manchukuo state soldiers, supported by Japanese.

Text of Hoover Statement On Balanced Budget Need

The urgent question today is the prompt balancing of the budget. When that is accomplished I propose to support adequate measures for relief of distress and unemployment. In the meantime it is essential that there should be an understanding of the character of the draft bill made public yesterday in the House of Representatives for this purpose. That draft bill supports some proposals we have already made in aid to unemployment through the use of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to make loans for projects which have been in abeyance and which proposal makes no drain on the taxpayer. But in addition it proposes to expend about $900,000,000 for Federal public works.

I believe the American people will grasp the economic fact that such action would require appropriations to be made to the Federal departments, thus creating a deficit in the budget that could only be met with more taxes and more Federal bond issues. That makes balancing of the budget hopeless. The country also understands that an unbalanced budget means the loss of confidence of our own people and of other nations in the credit and stability of the Government and that the consequences are national demoralization and the loss of ten times as many jobs as would be created by this program even if it could be physically put into action.

An examination of only one group of these proposals—that is, proposed authorizations for new postoffices—shows a list of about 2,300 such buildings, at a total cost of about $150,000,000. The Postoffice Department informs me that the interest and upkeep of these buildings would amount to $14,000,000 per annum, whereas the upkeep and rent of buildings at present in use amounts to less than $3,000,000. Many of the other groups in this bill will no more stand the light of day than this example.

A total of over 3,500 projects of various kinds are proposed in this bill, scattered into every quarter of.

BANK GUARANTY BILL IS PASSED BY HOUSE

(Associated Press.)

Swiftly overriding stubborn opposition, Democratic leaders yesterday steered the Steagall billion-dollar bank deposit guaranty bill through the House.

The measure went to the Senate with only one major change from its original text, although Representative McFadden, of Pennsylvania, ranking Republican on the banking committee, said "it is striking the worst blow ever administered the Federal Reserve system."

He insisted that "not a single member of the administration officials approves it."

Chairman Steagall, of the committee, contended, however, the measure assuring depositors they would get their money back even though their banks failed is "essential and indispensable toward restoration of confidence and a revival of business in the United States."

The bill passed without a record vote, and a motion by Mr. McFadden to send it back to the banking committee so that the guarantee provi-

Capital Man Found Shot To Death in St. Louis

St. Louis, May 27 (A.P.).—A man who registered as R. M. Robertson, Washington, D. C., was found shot to death in a room in the Claridge Hotel here today.

There was a revolver on the floor and a note signed with the initials, "R. M. R.," directed hotel employes to "sell my body and forget it." The man was about 42 years old, 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighed about 200 pounds.

U.S. URGES DECISION ON ARMS REDUCTION

Gibson Asks Geneva Conference to Continue Until Accord Is Reached.

Geneva, May 27 (A.P.).—Despite serious divergence of opinion within the naval commission named to appraise armaments, the American delegation does not favor adjournment of the world disarmament conference until there has been some concrete result.

Hugh Gibson, head of the American group, so informed President Arthur Henderson, of the conference, today. His declaration was in direct conflict with sentiment among the European delegations, who favor an adjournment of several months.

The disagreeing naval commission today made a report which showed that the great powers not only differed among themselves, but also held views on important points contrary to those of small powers.

For instance, the American delegation held the submarine specifically an offensive weapon and catalogued battleships and aircraft carriers as defensive. Great Britain and Japan

Austria May Ban Foreign Funds and Debt Interest

Vienna, Austria, May 27 (A.P.).—A noisy Parliament today heard the new chancellor, Engelberg Dollfus, outline a program probably calling for an embargo on foreign exchange and interest payments.

Dollfus, successor to the recently deposed Karl Buresch, said a decision on a money embargo must be made within a few days, but he still hoped for a loan from the League of Nations. Socialists and Fascists of the Heimat bloc shouted insults across their desks.

Borah Drafts Own Plank To Fight Dry Law Change

Holds Only Congress Can Initiate Amendment of Constitution; Fess Tells Hoover Hill Can Not Finish Task by Convention Time.

Senator William E. Borah (Republican), of Idaho, who told President Hoover at a secret White House conference last week that he would not support a moist prohibition plank in the Republican platform, has drawn up a plank of his own.

A national political convention has no right to pledge members of a political party to submit an amendment to the Constitution. Drys would ignore such a pledge anyway.

A change in the Constitution can only be initiated by Congress. Therefore, if the people want to vote on the prohibition question they should send senators and representatives here who will, by a two-thirds vote, submit the question to them.

Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, chairman of the Republican national committee, called on President Hoover at the White House last night and told him that he was convinced Congress could not adjourn in time for the Republican national convention in Chicago June 14.

"I don't see how we can finish our work before the Republican convention opens," Fess told reporters afterward. "It is our duty to remain here and wind up the business before both houses adjourn."

Fess said he and the President "went over details of the convention in a general way." He said he told the President that he doubted whether a member of Congress should be named chairman of the platform committee in view of the outlook.

James R. Garfield, of Ohio, was reported earlier in the day as being President Also Labels Speaker's Plan Raid on Treasury.

MOTIVE POLITICAL, IS HINT IN ATTACK

Executive Says He Will Back Relief When Budget Is Balanced.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

President Hoover late yesterday branded Speaker John N. Garner's $2,100,000,000 unemployment relief bill as "the most gigantic pork barrel ever proposed to the American Congress."

In the same breath the President called the bill an "unexampled raid on the public Treasury."

Lately President Hoover has unburdened himself of some pretty strong statements. There was the one, for example, in which he blamed Congress for the "fear and alarm" that prevail in the land. But yesterday's statement was by far the most torrid, the most devastating that has left his lips since he has been in the White House.

President's Accusation.

In effect, the President accused Speaker Garner of loading down his bill with "pork"—unneeded and extravagant postoffice buildings and the like—simply to win the support of the cities, towns and villages that would benefit.

Senator David A. Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, often a spokesman for the administration, issued a statement at about the same time in which he put the matter more baldly. He said that Garner's relief plan "springs from a political motive."

"In endeavoring to promote his personal prospects," said Reed, "he would destroy the credit of the Federal Government."

Third in Delegate Strength.

From the standpoint of delegate strength, Speaker Garner is now third in the race for the Democratic nomination for President, the two ahead of him being Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith.

Garner, who recently declared that the country would be better off if President Hoover would "keep quiet" for 30 days, had this to say about the President's blast:

"He calls it a 'pork barrel' bill because some one else suggested it. If he had suggested it, it would have been a 'statesmanlike bill.'"

President Hoover read his scorching statement at his regular Friday afternoon press conference, an hour or so after Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, the Democratic leader, had dropped a dummy bill into the House hopper pending a revamping of the Garner plan.

Stresses Budget Balancing.

The President at the outset said that the urgent need right now is a prompt balancing of the budget. When this is accomplished, he said, he would be ready to support adequate measures for relief of distress and unemployment.

In dissecting the Garner relief plan, he attacked only that part of it calling for a billion dollar bond issue and the expenditure of about $900,000,000 for Federal public works.

The President said that such a program would call for additional appropriations to the Federal departments, and would thus make a balancing of the budget hopeless.

The consequences of this, he said,

SHEET METAL WAGE SLASH IS ANNOUNCED

Union Will Not Accept Cut to $9 Scale; Labor May Be Imported.

With a threat of importing labor unless some agreement was reached on the wage scale before June 1, the sheet metal contractors of Washington yesterday announced a cut in wages from $12 to $9 a day. Negotiations for a cut have been under way for a month, but no agreement was reached. Notices of the cut were posted in Washington shops yesterday. Existing contracts expire May 31.

Edward Faulconer, business agent for local No. 102, stated positively last night that the union would not accept the $3-a-day cut. A meeting was held Wednesday night at which the union members voted definitely against the proposal.

Mr. Faulconer said the union would have been willing to accept a "reasonable" cut in wages, but could not accept the cut proposed by the contractors. He said the union had been eight years in gaining a raise from $8 a day to $12. The first cut proposed was $8.40, he said.

Mr. Faulconer said that the existing contract between the union and the contractors called for four months notice in case there should be any desire to change the wage scale. This notice had not been given, he stated.

Representatives of the contractors stated that they had tried for a month to get the local to agree to a cut, but that no agreement had been reached. The resolution adopted by the contractors in a meeting Wednesday night stated that since an agreement could not be reached with the union in regard to adjustment of wages, the contractors had adopted the $9 a day scale.

Arrangements have been made to send representatives to Baltimore, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh to import labor to Washington in case the local fails to agree to the $3 wage cut before June 1. The action is tantamount to a lockout.

BORAH DRAFTS OWN PROHIBITION PLANK

under consideration for chairman of the platform committee.

Borah will not push his prohibition plank at the Republican National Convention, for the reason that he is not going to that conclave. He is not going because he does not want to embarrass the President by fighting any prohibition proposal the latter chooses to approve.

That Borah's plank will figure in the wet and dry battle at Chicago, however, seems certain. The drys are expected to rally around it. They will try first to have the resolutions committee insert it in the platform, and, failing in that, will embody it in a minority report and carry their fight to the convention floor.

President Hoover's position on the prohibition question remains a mystery. The indications are that he is in a real dilemma, with drys like Borah advising him to stand on his present ground, and wets like Postmaster General Walter Brown urging him to take a more liberal attitude.

Wet Members Insistent.

The Republican wets are convinced that the party can not afford to ignore the tremendous wet trend, another evidence of which came yesterday when the Illinois Republican convention declared for outright repeal. Republican candidates in the other wet areas are fearful of what will happen if the Democrats adopt a liberal prohibition plank and their own party fails to match it.

Whatever happens in Chicago, Senator Borah will not join or head any third party movement. This can be put down as a certainty.

"There is a great deal more noise being made over prohibition now than will be made after the conventions," Borah said yesterday. "Once they are over, people are going to turn their thoughts to the really important things—the economic situation."

James R. Garfield, Ohio, who may be chairman of the Republican platform committee in the event Congress has not adjourned by June 14, is a son of President Garfield.

Reed President's Choice.

Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, is understood to be President Hoover's choice for that post, but if Congress has to remain here somebody else must be chosen. Garfield, it is said in high administration circles, is being seriously considered as a substitute.

Garfield is a lawyer in Cleveland, and is regarded as a liberal. In the Roosevelt administration he was Secretary of the Interior.

Reports were circulated yesterday that a movement is under way to have the two big parties adopt identical planks on prohibition and thus take that question out of the campaign.

Such a truce is regarded as impossible. It could only be carried in the Democratic convention over the dead bodies of Al Smith and John J. Raskob.

Busts of Two Former House Leaders Ordered

Busts of Nicholas Longworth and Oscar Underwood soon will join those the Capitol rotunda. The House yesterday allotted $2,500 each for acquiring the busts of Longworth, Speaker in the last Congress, and Underwood, once Democratic floor leader and later senator.

Seat on Stock Exchange Offered for Rural Home

By JOHN J. DALY

FOR sale: A seat on the stock exchange.

Old gentleman, wishing to retire, offers at prewar price, a lovely old seat that has been in the firm for years. The price is $73,000, or will exchange for a quiet place in the country with all modern improvements except telephones or tickers. The object is to get away from it all.

This, it would seem, is the bargain of the century. Imagine a seat on the stock exchange going for the low price of $73,000—$7,000 under the 1931 quotation. It reflects the decline in the market. At a lower price, the bottom would fall out of the seat.

Like other things, a seat on the stock exchange has its ups and downs.

In prosperous times, these fellows who have seats on the exchange never forsake them. They live in their seats, like Eskimos in igloos.

NOW, the seats on the stock exchange are being vacated; one by one, sold at public auction, private sale or barter.

Once the seats of the mighty, their owners are now looking for standing room only—out in the aisles, in the back of the exchange, anywhere; for they can not sit still, they can not rest or relax, being so nervous. As they pace back and forth, watching the market trend out of the corner of their eyes, they want to sell—not stocks, but seats.

FOR all the action a man can get from a seat on the stock exchange he might just as well have a pew in church; if he can only afford the collections.

There is just this alternative: a seat on the exchange, or a seat on the curb—and a seat on the curb is but one step to the gutter.

Ah, dear!

would be a "national demoralization" and the loss of ten times as many jobs as would be created by Mr. Garner's public works program.

Pointing out that Mr. Garner's plan called for the construction of 2,300 new postoffice buildings, President Hoover said that the Postoffice Department had informed him that the upkeep of these buildings would amount to $14,000,000 a year, whereas the upkeep and rent of buildings that they would supplant amounts to less than $3,000,000 a year.

Many of the 3,500 projects embraced by the Garner bill, the President said, have already been discredited by Congress as "useless and extravagant." Not more than 20 per cent could be completed in a year, he said, and added that a group of $400,000,000 of the projects would give employment to only about 100,000 men for one year.

"This is not unemployment relief," the President said. "It is the most gigantic pork barrel ever proposed to the American Congress. It is an unexampled raid on the public Treasury."

Says Pressure Expected.

Now that the lists of the projects have been broadcast to every part of the country, the President said, it apparently is expected that the towns and villages to be benefited will bring pressure on their senators and representatives to "join in this squandering of money."

"I just do not believe that such lack of intelligence or such cupidity exists among the people of the United States," the President said. "Our Nation was not founded on the pork barrel, and it has not become great by political log rolling."

The type of bill drafted by Speaker Garner is, as a rule, almost irresistible. To begin with, the bill is specific. In it a State, a city or a town can see just how much it is to receive. The State of Maryland, for example, would get more than $800,000,000 for new postoffice buildings and other Federal buildings.

It is only natural that the Maryland towns to be benefited—Hagerstown, which would get a $300,000 postoffice; Silver Spring, which would get a $70,000 postoffice, and the others—would bring pressure on the State's senators and representatives to support the bill.

What the President has now done is to ask the citizens of these communities to forgo their bits of "pork" in the interests of a balanced budget.

Speaker Garner has insisted that his $1,000,000,000 bond issue would not unbalance the budget. The money needed to pay the interest charges on the bonds, he contends, could be paid with the revenue from a special Federal gasoline tax which he includes in his bill.

In view of yesterday's developments, one thing would seem to be certain, and that is that the President would veto the Garner bill if it were enacted by Congress.

The President insists that whatever money is laid out by the Government for public works be for "reproductive" public works—that is, toll bridges, tunnels, docks, irrigation projects and the like—projects that will pay for themselves in time.

Compromise in Order.

One other thing seems almost equally certain, and that is that the Democrats in Congress will not accept the plan proposed recently by the President. Under this plan there would be no Federal bond issue. All money would be raised through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

With both the White House and Congress convinced that something must be done for the unemployed before next winter, a compromise is in order.

In this connection, it was regarded as significant yesterday that Senator Robert F. Wagner (Democrat), of New York, was summoned to the White House for a conference with President Hoover.

Wagner is the author of the official Democratic relief bill in the Senate, which calls for a Federal bond issue of $500,000,000, the money to be used to complete building projects authorized but not appropriated for and $191,000,000 in new projects.

Senator Wagner would not reveal the outcome of the conference. If the New Yorker spoke his mind, he told the President that he could see no difference between raising money through a Federal bond issue and through the sale of debentures of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Speaker Garner indicated late yesterday that he is determined to push the bill regardless of the President's attitude. First, however, he will trim it of some of the projects which it carries in its rough form.

A hearing is to be held on the measure Tuesday, and Speaker Garner will be the chief witness.

Would Debate Hoover.

"I sometimes wish I could have just one joint debate with the President, with these 435 members of the House as a jury," Garner said. "It would be the happiest moment of my life."

He said that 50 Republicans had promised him to support his bill. At a caucus Thursday evening, virtually all the Democrats in the House indorsed the bill in principle.

However, it is known that many Democrats in the Senate are opposed to the measure.

fers is estimated to produce $22,000,000, and the tax on bond transfers is expected to produce another $5,000,000, while the tax on the charge for transmission of oil by pipe lines another $6,000,000.

There is expected to be a fight over the stock transfer tax, but it is not expected to be an especially lengthy one. Several other committee proposals which were passed over are to be considered.

Of the $270,000,000 put into the bill yesterday $160,000,000 was due to increasing the first-class postage rates from 2 to 3 cents and the second-class postage rates to the 1922 rates. There was quite a battle over the second-class rates. Senator John H. Bankhead (Democrat), of Alabama, proposed to exempt newspapers, agricultural, scientific, fraternal and religious publications from the increases, but he was beaten, 43 to 32. Senator George H. Moses (Republican), of New Hampshire; Senator Tasker L. Oddie (Republican), of Nevada, and others led the fight against the second-class increase. Two publishers, Senators Bronson Cutting (Republican), of New Mexico, and John Cohen (Democrat), of Georgia, announced they refrained from voting because of their personal interest in the question.

Fight on Check Tax.

The second big fight of the day came on the committee proposal to tax bank checks 2 cents each. Senator Robert Howell (Republican), Nebraska, proposed to exempt checks of $5 or less. He said that the tax was unjust and would work undue hardship on the farmers, particularly dairy farmers, who were paid in small amounts by checks on their daily deliveries.

Senator George W. Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, joined in the battle right lustily, and Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), of Kansas, also took up cudgels in behalf of the farmers against the check tax, and Senator Harry Hawes (Democrat), of Missouri, proposed to exempt all checks under $100. The Howell proposal was beaten, 39 to 39, the first tie vote of the session and a proposal by Senator Reed, offered in response to requests from the bankers, to make the tax a straight stamp tax was voted down without a record vote.

The 10 per cent tax on furs which was voted into the bill was estimated to produce $15,000,000.

The Walsh sales tax amendment on which the test will come provides for a "licensing" of manufacturers by imposing a tax of 1¾ per cent on the sale of their products. Several things would be exempted from the tax, including foods and feeds, shoes costing not more than $5, clothing costing not more than $35, medicines (except patent medicines), workmen's hand tools, agricultural products, farm implements, fertilizers and ingredients, newspapers and magazines, religious articles and any other article on which there is an internal revenue tax.

An effort to combine the sales tax and higher income tax forces failed when Senator Tom Connally (Democrat), of Texas, refused to go along on the sales tax in return for his proposal to put the 1922 income tax rates into the bill. The Connally proposal already has been voted down, as were other higher income tax proposals advanced by Senator James Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, but motions to reconsider those votes are pending.

Reports that President Hoover favors the sales tax were being used in the effort to round up votes for the Walsh amendment. Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), of Utah, chairman of the finance committee, and, as such, in charge of the tax bill, was said to have urged the President to come out publicly for the sales tax.

Democratic leaders in the fight for the committee bill declared they would meet any such declaration by the Chief Executive with sharp criticism for failure to act before the bill had been practically finished.

Warning in House.

Warning that the House would not accept the sales tax if the Senate voted it in the bill was given by Representative Fiorella H. LaGuardia (Republican), of New York, and Representative John E. Rankin (Democrat), of Mississippi, in a joint statement.

Advocates of the tax in the Senate have argued that the sentiment in the House had changed to such an extent that the tax would now be accepted by the body which repudiated it.

Opponents of the tax have argued it would be futile and only mean delay for the Senate to adopt it because the House wouldn't accept it. Apparently, however, there has been a swing back toward the sales tax on the part of several members of the House. Its proponents predict it would be accepted now. Representative LaGuardia and other opponents declare they will beat it again if the Senate adopts it.

EFFECTS OF SLUMP ON HEALTH SERIOUS

Report of Social Hygiene Society Shows Problems Sharply Increased.

The depression has sharply accentuated problems of health in American communities, according to the annual report of the executive secretary of the Social Hygiene Society of the District of Columbia, given last night at the annual meeting of the organization at the Y. W. C. A., Seventeenth and K streets northwest.

The report quoted data compiled by the national organization for public health nursing as saying that "two years of financial depression and unemployment have taken their toll in undernourishment of children and young mothers."

Social Disease Increase.

The depression is also blamed for a decided increase in social diseases, according to the report. Figures quoted an increase of 50 per cent in the principal cities of the country over the figures of 1930 and 1931.

An educational committee led by Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, has incorporated the following program for the ensuing year: "Further extension and integration of sex education in schools and colleges; discussion meetings for religious groups, particularly young people; discussion meetings for parents; institutes and seminars dealing with sex character education and problems of family life."

Platform for Current Work.

The report recommended the following platform for the 1932 period: Extension of clinic facilities for those who can not pay for treatment, a further extension of courses dealing with family life in the public schools, continuance of the special social hygiene work among the Negroes, the addition of an educational worker to the staff to carry forward the work with parent and other groups, the holding of a conference on family life, an increase in the supervised recreational facilities for young people, constant education of the public in the care and prevention of the social diseases, and the stimulating of ideals of wholesome family life.

Statement by Hoover On Budget Balancing

the United States. Many of these projects have heretofore been discredited by Congress because of useless extravagance involved. Many were originally authorized as justified only in the long distant future. I do not believe that 20 per cent could be brought to the stage of employment for a year. I am advised by the engineers that the amount of labor required to complete a group of $400,000,000 of these works would amount to only 100,000 men for one year, because they are in large degree mechanical jobs.

This is not unemployment relief. It is the most gigantic pork barrel ever proposed to the American Congress. It is an unexampled raid on the public Treasury.

Detailed lists of all these projects have been broadcast to every part of the country during the past 24 hours, to the cities, towns, villages and sections who would receive a portion of this pork barrel. It is apparently expected that the cupidity of these towns and sections will demand that their congressmen and senators vote for this bill or threaten to penalize them if they fail to join in this squandering of money.

I just do not believe that such lack of intelligence or cupidity exists amongst the people of our United States. If that shall prove true, then this is not the United States that had the intelligence to frame the Constitution of this Republic, which fought the War of the Revolution, or the Civil War, or the World War, that it might be forged into the greatest Nation of the world, the whole foundations of which are common sense, honesty, character and idealism. Our Nation was not founded on the pork barrel, and it has not become great by political log rolling. I hope that those many members of Congress of both parties who I know will oppose this bill will receive the definite support of the people in their districts in resisting it.

agreed so far as battleships went, but the smaller nations declared the big dreadnoughts offensive.

On the other hand, Japan defended submarines as defensive, but held aircraft carriers as offensive.

Argentina, while holding battleships as offensive arms, indorsed in general the position of the United States and Great Britain on aircraft carriers.

One bright note was sounded in the announcement that American and French military experts had reached an agreement in principle on American proposals for determining military defense requirements.

This plan follows the general lines embodied in the treaties written at the end of the World War, which limited the armed strength of the central powers virtually to police requirements.

Wounds Girls Inflicted Cause Death of Youth

Decatur, Ala., May 27 (A.P.).—Wounds he claims were inflicted by two strange girls who invited him to take a ride and shot him without reason caused the death of Jack Carter, 19, at his home here today. He was found in a serious condition beside a highway near here last January 21. He said a girl he met casually at a dance the night before and a companion dumped him out of their automobile after shooting him in the shoulder.

He spent two months in a hospital and his right arm was amputated as a consequence of the shoulder wound. The Misses Hilda and Lorraine Hargrove, of Ardmore, Ala., were arrested as suspects some time ago at the instigation of the youth's uncle, but Carter failed to appear as a witness against them and they were released.

2 Capital Women End World Cruise.

New York, N. Y., May 27 (Special).—Mrs. William E. Shannon and Miss Elsie Whitman, both of Washington, D. C., returned here today aboard the SS. Resolute from round-the-world cruise of 143 days, traversing over 38,000 miles and visiting 30 countries.

Garner Held Only Texas Bloc Chief

(Associated Press.)

Representative Rayburn, of Texas, chairman of his State's delegation to the Democratic national convention, yesterday issued a statement saying "control of the Texas delegation is with Mr. Garner and no one else."

"In a dispatch from New York stating that Col. House, formerly of Texas, had visited Gov. Roosevelt, an impression was given that the delivering of the Texas delegation to Roosevelt by Col. House was discussed.

"The convention at Houston, May 24, instructed the Texas delegation to the national convention for Garner first, last and all the time, unless released by Mr. Garner. Therefore, control of the Texas delegation is with Mr. Garner and no one else."

U.S. GIVES REQUISITE OF PARLEY ON ORIENT

Willing to Participate in World Conference if China Is Invited.

The United States is expected to participate in an international conference on conditions in China, if representatives of the Chinese government are invited.

The State Department has conferred informally with the governments of Great Britain, France and Italy on the suggestion of Japan that a round table conference be held as an outgrowth of the recent Sino-Jap fighting. All probably will agree if China also attends.

The exchange of views has not yet developed any definite agenda, and no time or place has been agreed upon.

After Japan had agreed to evacuate Shanghai without any guarantees for the preservtion of order there, diplomatic representatives of the four major powers involved were told immediately that the conference would be timely. Tokyo officials in a statement said they looked to these neutral powers to maintain order in Shanghai.

It seems likely now that the problems coming before the conference will be very general in scope. The protection of foreign life and property throughout China by a concerted action of interested powers will doubtless be considered.

The United States and the European powers are agreed that China should have a part in any conference and that any plan for stabilizing conditions in that country which involve infringement of its territory, such as the creation of a neutral zone about Shanghai or the creation of a free city, cannot be approved.

REBUILT SAVING PLAN IS READY FOR SENATE

the 10 per cent Senate appropriation cuts has gained support since the House rejected the plan in favor of an 11 per cent pay cut with $2,500 exemption.

Big Savings Claimed.

One of the more convincing arguments is the $82,000,000 in savings claimed. District officials recently told an appropriations subcommittee that District employes would prefer it to a pay cut.

The plan received new backing in the House yesterday, when Representative Roy O. Woodruff (Republican) took the floor to espouse "dividing up the available amount of work" as the one economically sound way of meeting the unemployment problem. He said his complaint was that the President's plan "did not go far enough."

"It should have also provided the six-hour day," he said. "It was unfortunate that the proposal as submitted was defeated in the House. Accepted, it would not only have preserved the jobs of the Federal workers now employed, but it would have added to the numbers thereof and at the same time effected a substantial saving to taxpayers."

To Urge Six-Hour Day.

He said he intended to lay his proposal that a six-hour day be incorporated in the furlough plan before the Senate economy committee.

"If Congress would adopt the plan I am now offering, and if such action would be immediately followed by a conference between a coalition of leaders of both parties in the House and Senate with representatives of finance, industry, labor and commercial organizations like the United States Chamber of Commerce, there is no question but that the plan could be put into execution to be effective in every line of industry in this country within a short time," he said.

"Missing Relative" Held in Fraud.

Chicago, May 27 (A.P.).—Ben Williams, alias Ben White, who allegedly obtained large sums of money by posing as missing husbands, sons and fathers and telegraphing for train fare "home," was indicted today by a Federal grand jury for using the mails to defraud. Most of his women victims, officials said, were in Michigan, North Dakota, Minnesota, and surrounding States.

PARTY IN FINAL LAP OF JUNGLE RESCUE

Rattin Expedition Now Past Last Civilized Point in Wilds of Brazil.

Editor's note—The following dispatch by runner, telegraph and cable was written by Horacio Fusoni, of the United Press staff at Rio de Janeiro, just before he plunged into one of the most dangerous sections of the Brazilian jungle. Fusoni is accompanying the Stephan Rattin expedition to rescue the missing British explorer, Col. P. H. Fawcett. The expedition will be out of touch with civilization on the present stage of its venture.

By HORACIO FUSONI.

(Copyright, 1932, by the United Press.)

Porto Velho, Matto Grosso, Brazil, May 24.—The Stephan Rattin expedition advances into the treacherous wilds of the Brazilian jungle today on its journey to rescue an aged white man, believed to be the famous British explorer, Col P. H. Fawcett.

Determined to keep his pledge to rescue the white man from the hands of hostile Indians, Rattin has ordered us to leave this "City of the Dead," last outpost of civilization on our route.

We depart within the hour in canoes down the Arinos River, which flows northward from this hill land toward the mighty Amazon. Somewhere ahead, Rattin believes he will find again the Indian village where he spoke to the man who identified himself as Col. Fawcett and asked civilization to rescue him from the tribe.

Dangerous Obstacles.

But there are many obstacles, some of them dangerous, to be overcome. In addition to the hardships and tortures of the jungle, we may find the hostile tribes which have threatened other expeditions seeking a trace of Col. Fawcett.

Already the dangers have been strongly brought home to us. Dan Fangen, son of the British rancher, C. L. Fangen, of Laguina, Matto Grosso State, left the expedition and returned to Diamantina, declaring the trek was too dangerous.

Then there were two Paraguayan hunters who had promised Rattin to join the expedition here. They have failed to arrive.

"It makes the future difficult to judge," Rattin said. "But we will push on."

We shall not be heard from for some time.

Rattin is anxious to get away. He calls, "All aboard!"

Here we go.

Sao Paulo Quiet Again.

Sao Paulo, Brazil, May 27 (U.P.).—This city, second metropolis of the republic, has returned to normalcy since the state interventor announced that the federal government had permitted appointment of a state cabinet by local leaders. Commercial establishments, which had closed earlier in the week in protest against alleged interference by the government at Rio de Janeiro again opened for business.

Copper Mines May Close.

Mexico City, May 27 (A.P.).—A dispatch from Santa Rosalia, Lower California, says the El Boleo copper mines will be forced to close down as soon as the United States places a copper tariff in effect. Some 2,200 miners and 10,000 other persons will be affected directly or indirectly, the dispatch said.

Wees Insists He Saw White Indians.

Buenos Aires, May 27 (A.P.).—Dr. Donald Wees, American explorer, who recently returned from a trip into the interior of Paraguay, said today he would present ample evidence to prove that white Indians exist in the Paraguayan Grand Desert when he returns to the United States. His evidence, he said, would be presented to the Harvard University Museum, which challenged his statement as "a revival of an old hoax." It would be substantiated, he said, by many authorities in Paraguay.

Chilean Oil Monopoly Considered.

Santiago, Chile, May 27 (U.P.).—President Juan E. Montero has taken under advisement a proposal made by C. H. Truchard on behalf of the New York bankers, J. Ullen & Co., to finance a state petroleum monopoly. Details of the proposal were not made public. The government will be required to expropriate tanks, filling stations and other property here of the two oil companies, Standard Oil and Shell Mex, if it carries out its project of establishing a monopoly.

Uriburu's Body Returned.

Buenos Aires, May 27 (U.P.).—The body of former President Jose F. Uriburu was brought back to Buenos Aires yesterday from Paris, where the revolutionary leader died early this month. Thousands of friends and admirers of the former president paid silent homage as the steamer Atlantique docked. A funeral cortege composed of naval and military cadets and the famous San Martin Grenadiers escorted the flower covered casket to the Casa Rosada, where the body lies in state.

Japanese Win Match Monopoly.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, May 27 (U.P.).—Susando Company, a Japanese firm, was the successful bidder for the state match monopoly, Quito dispatches report. The monopoly formerly was held by the Swedish match trust, headed by Ivar Kreuger.

EXAMINER IS HEARD IN COBLENTZ TRIAL

Will Continue Detailing of Bank's Transactions When Court Resumes Tuesday.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., May 27.—Court adjourned late this afternoon until Tuesday when the trial of Emory L. Coblentz, president of the Central Trust Co., of Frederick, indicted for receiving a deposit when he knew the institution to be insolvent, will be resumed.

R. E. Meeks, an auditor examiner of the State bank commissioner's office, was on the stand today from 10:30 until 3:30 p. m. He was excused until Tuesday, when he will be heard again, in order that a number of witnesses whose testimony would be short could be heard today and then excused that they might return home. Those witnesses were largely guarantors of bonds and notes of the Central Trust Co. and of syndicates with which it dealt. The witnesses were presented by the State, and the defense in cross-examination attempted to bring out the financial worth of those testifying to show they were able as Coblentz honestly believed they were to meet all their obligations and under the circumstances he regarded the Central Trust Co. as solvent.

Among these witnesses were Thomas B. Hayward, once director of Bartlett, Hayward & Co., Baltimore bankers, who owns a fruit farm near Frederick; Oscar Coblentz, vice president of Merritt, Chapman & Scott, a salvage corporation with offices in New York; Howard E. Town, Frederick, treasurer of the Potomac Edison Co.; John S. Herahey, manager of the Francis Scott Key Hotel, Frederick; Richard P. Ross and Guy Motter, Frederick attorneys; Foster C. Remsburg, officer of the Valley Savings Bank, a branch of the Central at Middletown; Leslie M. Coblentz, Middletown; Harry Evert and Mrs. G. Lloyd Palmer, whose husband, superintendent of Frederick County schools, died last August.

The witnesses generally found some difficulty in arriving at what they might now be worth on account of holding stock in the closed institution and having obligations which grew out of its failure and also having met with other reverses.

Attorneys for Mr. Coblentz said they were questioning to show that he had a number of men guarantee certain assets to carry on and that he had faith in the guarantors and the agreement and the capacity of the men to live up to it.

German Riots Kill One; Many Injured

Several Dead in Austria in Fascist-Socialist Disorders.

Berlin, May 27 (A.P.).—The riots which have harassed police in many German cities for three days continued throughout last night and part of today in several cities.

Casualties numbered more than a score of persons injured, and one dead. There were many arrests. Disorders occurred at Wuppertal, Gladbach-Rheydt, Recklinghausen, Remscheid, Duesseldorf, Stettin, Chemnitz, Brunswick, Eisenach, Magdeburg and Cologne. Vice President Bretschneider of the Saxon Diet was brutally beaten, apparently by political foes at Chemnitz.

Vienna, Austria, May 27 (U.P.).—Thirty-two persons were injured, three seriously, today when rioting broke out between Fascists and Socialists. Troops and gendarmes were mobilized and restored order. The Fascists recently have gained strength in Austria by uniting ultranationalist factions. They are represented for the first time in the new cabinet.

June 1 Treasury Bills Bring 99.919 Average

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Mills announced last night the Treasury had sold $100,022,000 of Treasury bills at an average of 99.919, or at an average rate on a bank discount basis of 0.32 per cent.

The bills, which will be dated June 1 and mature August 31, brought total subscriptions of $296,503,000. The lowest bid accepted was 99.915, equivalent to an annual interest rate of 0.34 per cent. The money received for the bills will be used to retire an equal amount of the securities which mature on June 1.

Nomination of Rustgard As Judge Is Withdrawn

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday nominated Lester O. Gore to be Federal Judge of Division No. 2, Alaska, succeeding G. J. Lomen.

At the same time the President withdrew the name of John Rustgard, who had previously been nominated as Federal judge in Alaska to succeed Lomen. He sent to the Senate the nomination of Henry C. W. Laubenheimer, of Illinois, for reappointment as United States marshal for the northern district of Illinois.

CURTIS GRAND JURY REPORT DUE TODAY

Col. Lindbergh Expected to Take Stand if Hoaxer Is Brought to Trial.

Hopewell, N. J., May 27 (A.P.).—While John Hughes Curtis, confessed faker of contacts with the Lindbergh baby kidnapers, expressed contentment with the treatment accorded him by Hunterton County jail officials, the hunt for the baby's killers continued without important development today.

Curtis, asked by county officials if he were being given proper treatment and attention, was described by them as uncomplaining. Both he and his family were said to be anxious to have his future status disposed of quickly.

One step in that direction is expected tomorrow when the findings of the grand jury which heard charges that Curtis obstructed justice by giving false information in the search for the kidnapers and slayer of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., will be handed to Justice T. W. Trenchard at Flemington.

It has been reported that the grand jury indicted the Norfolk ship builder and that Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck expects to push for a start of Curtis' trial during the week of June 13. W. C. Pender, Curtis' Norfolk attorney, however, has indicated he may ask a postponement to July.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is expected to take the stand for the prosecution in event of a trial.

Mrs. Lindbergh, who is expecting another baby in August, will not be called to testify, Hauck said.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of State police, said no developments of importance had occurred in the hunt for the killers and kidnapers.

Fredericksburg, Va., May 27 (A.P.).—Ten Caroline County school children were injured tonight when their school bus was forced from the Richmond-Washington highway 20 miles from here and overturned several times.

Although the extent of their injuries could not be immediately determined, it was feared that several were in serious condition. Passing motorists and State traffic officers rushed them to a Fredericksburg hospital. The children were en route to C. T. Smith High School, near here, to attend commencement exercises.

3 Children Arrive to Ask Hoover to Release Father

Say Parent Will Die if Put in Jail for Taking Automobile.

(Associated Press.)

Tired, travel-stained and a little bewildered, three Feagan children—Bernice, 13; Irene, 11, and Clifford, 10—stepped off a Detroit bus yesterday with high hopes of personally asking President Hoover to keep their father out of prison.

"They are taking father tomorrow," Bernice said as the three, bare-headed and carrying suit cases, were taken to a hotel. "He's awfully sick, and he will surely die if he goes to jail. And that's why we came to see the President."

Clifford was slightly ailing from eating candy on the way, but Irene, plump and jolly, was smiling as she tried to see everything at once. Bernice was serious and told their story.

Charles R. Feagan, the father, was arrested on a charge of unlawfully driving an automobile from St. Joseph, Mo., to Detroit. There are four other children at home with their mother. Feagan is now in the Detroit County Jail.

"My father is not guilty of the charge," said Bernice. "He was out of a job in St. Joseph and a man gave him permission to drive the car to Detroit to see if he could sell it. He won't last long if they take him to jail, and we want to keep him as long as we can."

A student in the seventh grade, she related the story without faltering. Her plans to see the President are indefinite. The local manager of a bus line which is helping them hopes to arrange an appointment today.

When the father first was arrested, Bernice appeared before Gov. Brucker, of Michigan, to urge him not to order extradition. Feagan was released in circuit court on a habeas corpus writ, but immediately was rearrested by Federal authorities.

Husband Kidnaped Wife Is Charge

Society Matron Escaped After Mate Failed in Reconciliation.

Oakland, Calif., May 27 (A.P.).—Kidnaping complaints charging her own husband and three other persons with abducting her were sworn out today by Mrs. Marion Young Read, young society matron.

Warrants were issued and officers were ordered to Placerville, Calif., to return the husband, Albert C Read, broker, and Stewart Trumbauer, one of the others accused, who were arrested last night after Mrs. Read escaped from them. Mrs. Read, who recently named Claire Windsor, motion picture actress, in an alienation of affections suit for $100,000 and in a suit for divorce, made the charges upon returning home from Placerville, where she appealed to the authorities after her escape.

The escapade was an outgrowth of an alleged desire of Read to effect a reconciliation. Mrs. Read asserted her husband seized her from in front of a friend's home here and forced her with a pistol to accompany him. Mrs. Read said her husband took her into the hills and "used his sales talk" in an effort to get her to drop the suits. She said she took the key to their motor car from Read when he dozed, and drove to Placerville, leaving the broker and Trumbauer asleep in camp.

WORLD OIL ACCORD DENIED BY LEADERS

New York Parley With Russia Reported Near Agreement; Hitch Delays Pact.

New York, May 27 (A.P.).—C. E. Arnott, president of the Socony-Vacuum Corporation, denied today an agreement had been reached between the American-European and Russian oil executives, now conferring here in search of stabilization of world oil export markets.

Reports from abroad said an agreement was to be signed today, and an informed source here said he believed there was an agreement, but that acceptance was frustrated by an unexpected hitch which developed on renewal of the conferences late yesterday or early today.

What caused the hitch in the supposed accord was the subject of much conjecture. An oil expert said he had received information indicating it might have arisen because of objections by executives in Europe of some of the companies here to too many concessions to the Russians.

Mr. Arnott, who is chairman of the subcommittee of the American-European group negotiating with the Russians, said, however, that he was optimistic about the present conversations. He declined to discuss the report of agreement, and no information would be given out until next Wednesday, if then.

Three Juvenile Passengers on "Blue Line" Coach Among Injured.

Four passengers on the Alexandria-Washington Buses, Inc., locally known in Alexandria as the "Blue Line," were injured yesterday afternoon when, according to the Alexandria police, a bus of the A. B. & W. Line, of the red bus line, collided with a blue bus at Russell road and Walnut street.

Those hurt were Miss Nellie Schroth, 14 years old, of 702 Maryland avenue northeast, Washington, who suffered a lacerated lip; Miss Helen Finotti, 15 years old, of 5525 Fourth street northwest, Washington, bruise on forehead; L. F. Morris, of 2856 Twenty-eighth street northwest, Washington, with a contusion of the back, and Miss Dorothy Ross, 10 years old, of Washington avenue, Alexandria.

The blue bus was driven by Wilmer Meades, of 1212 King street, Alexandria, and the red bus by Oscar Henderson, of 416 South Fairfax street, Alexandria. Neither driver was hurt.

It is said that each driver has issued a warrant charging the other with reckless driving. The case was originally scheduled to be heard in police court this morning, but a continuance has been granted.

Pratt Asks Public To Support Navy

Admiral Addresses Class at Naval War College Commencement.

Newport, R. I., May 27 (A.P.).—A plea for support of the Navy by the American public was made here today by Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, at the forty-eighth annual commencement exercises of the Naval War College. Alluding to the parade of apprentice seamen shortly before the graduation exercises, Admiral Pratt, who is soon to be retired, said:

"What that sight meant to me and what it means to the young men coming from all parts of the country and being prepared for the Navy, caused the thought that if some of the well-meaning people of the country could see these young men and know what is being done for them and for the Navy here, they would forget what they are doing, trying to tear down the defenses of our land."

Admiral Pratt, who was once a student at the college and later its president, spoke with emotion as he recalled that today's exercises would be the last he would participate in as an active officer. Both the admiral and Secretary of the Navy, Charles Francis Adams, who presented diplomas to the 79 graduating officers, praised the memory of the founder of the college, Admiral Stephen B. Luce.

Committee Rejects Hawley Tariff Plan

Bill Would Raise Rates on Nations With Depreciated Money.

(Associated Press.)

The Hawley bill for an upward adjustment in tariff rates against nations with depreciated money was rejected yesterday by the House ways and means committee by a 16 to 9 vote.

Acting Chairman Crisp did not make public the individual votes of the members, but said party lines were split on the ballot.

The Treasury Department declined to make any recommendation regarding the Hawley bill, but John L. O'Brien, chairman of the Tariff Commission, vehemently opposed it at a hearing last week.

$7,000,000 SOUGHT FOR HUGE U.S. DAM

President Asks More Funds to Continue Work on Hoover Project.

(Associated Press.)

An additional $7,000,000 for construction work on the Hoover Dam project on the Colorado River was requested yesterday of Congress by President Hoover.

In a supplemental estimate for the second deficiency bill being formulated by the House appropriations committee, the President said the fund was needed to continue work on the $165,000,000 project at its present rapid rate.

Originally, the President requested $10,000,000 for the work in the fiscal year beginning July 1, but Congress reduced the figure to $6,000,000. Mr. Hoover asked for that $4,000,000 and $3,000,000 more.

Chairman Byrns said off the floor hearings on the estimate would be held Tuesday. Secretary Wilbur, who has protested the cut made by Congress, is expected to testify.

The President said funds already appropriated were sufficient to carry the work at the present rate only until early fall and physical limitations imposed by seasonal variations of the flow of the river made it impossible to adjust the expenditure so as to spread this money over a longer period.

"As this project is of a nature which is not only self-supporting, but also income-producing, delay in its completion would not only postpone the time when revenue will commence to come in, but would actually reduce the ultimate amount of such revenue," he wrote, adding:

"In addition to this loss to the Government there would be involved in any temporary cessation of work, because of lack of funds, the throwing out of direct employment of over 3,000 men at a place where other employment would be unobtainable, together with several thousand engaged in supply of materials, and the resultant distress to these men and their families is unthinkable."

LONG PLUNGE KILLS HARVARD SCIENTIST

Dr. Troland Topples 250 Feet Into Canyon on Mount Wilson.

Pasadena, Calif., May 27 (A.P.).—Dr. Leonard Thompson Troland, 43, distinguished Harvard scientist, toppled over a precipice and fell 250 feet to his death in a rocky canyon on Mount Wilson today. Apparently he fainted while standing near the edge of the cliff for a photographer.

Dr. Troland played a part in the development for the Navy during the World War of submarine listening devices and later gained fame as the coinventor of a process for making motion pictures in natural colors.

Dr. Troland was on a leave of absence from Harvard University and had come to California in the hope of regaining his health. He had been living in Hollywood with his wife. His home was at Fresh Lake Pond, Cambridge, Mass.

Following his work for the Navy during the war, he became chief engineer for the Technicolor Motion Picture Corporation of Boston, and in 1925 he was made director of research and process control. During this association he participated in the invention of color films for motion pictures. He was the author of several scientific works dealing with electricity, visual science, and psychology.

Protest Made in Assembly Against Money for Federal Council.

Denver, May 27 (A.P.).—Indications of a fundamentalist-modernist quarrel crept into deliberations of the 144th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America today during consideration of the budget.

The budget, presented by J. Willison Smith, of Philadelphia, contained an item for $14,500 for participation in affairs of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Objection to the item was raised by the Rev. H. McAllister Griffiths, of the Philadelphia fundamentalist group.

Mr. Griffiths urged the assembly to withhold approval of the item until action had been taken on two overtures pending before it. In one the presbytery of Chester, Pa., asks the assembly to sever its connection with the Federal Council. A second overture from the presbytery of Hudson asks the assembly to sever all connection with the Federal Council, including financial support.

Liberal Policies Criticized.

Certain commisisoners look upon some activities of the Federal Council as too liberal and as moving away from historical precedents of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. One of the most highly controversial questions involved is that of birth control.

The proposal by Mr. Griffiths to eliminate the item for the Federal council was lost. A viva voce vote was close, but a standing vote showed little opposition to the $14,500 expenditure.

The budget, as presented and adopted for the year 1932-1933, was for $10,000,000, of which $1,375,000 shall be assigned to the women's interests of the board of national missions and $1,375,000 to the women's interests of the board of foreign missions. The remaining $7,250,000 is apportioned as follows:

Board of national missions, $3,059,500; board of foreign missions, $2,370,750; board of Christian education, $1,239,750; board of pensions (relief department), $507,500; American Bible Society, $58,000, and Federal Council of Churches, $14,500.

Salary Cuts Ordered.

Salary reductions were also ordered effective April 1, 1932, with the understanding that unless further action is taken by the general council of the church all salaries will on April 1, 1933, be restored to the level of March 31, 1932. Up to $3,000, an exemption of $1,200 is allowed, and the remainder reduced 10 per cent. All salaries above $3,000 are reduced a straight 10 per cent.

Applause greeted a report to the general assembly today that the prohibition stand of the Methodist Episcopal Church has the unqualified approval of the Presbyterians.

The Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, of Pittsburgh, who represented the Presbyterians at the Methodist assembly at Atlantic City, said his reception there was cordial and that he had assured the Methodists their attitude on prohibition would receive the plaudits of the Denver meeting.

Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, reported that consideration of a plan of union between the Presbyterian and Methodist churches had been delayed because the commission of the Methodist Episcopal Church was considering plans of union with the Methodist Protestant Church and the Methodist Church South.

Overchurched Communities.

"There are," he said, "overchurched communities, where Presbyterian and Methodist churches are adding to the confusion and waste. We regard the Presbyterian and Methodist churches as so closely akin that they should be recognized as cooperating bodies."

Turning to the proposed union with the Protestant Episcopal Church, Dr. Stevenson said the difficulties center around "the divergent conceptions of the ministry and the sacraments and the varying degrees of importance attached to these divergent conceptions.

Vice Moderator Named.

Dr. Stevenson, Dr. Kerr and Dr. Joseph A. Vance, of Detroit, who also spoke on proposed unions, urged attention be given proposals for mergers with "members of our own ecclesiastical family." He referred to the Presbyterians in the United States, the Reformed Church in America and the United Presbyterian Church of North America. These are to be considered later in convention sessions.

The newly elected moderator, the Rev. Dr. Charles W. Kerr, of Tulsa, Okla., appointed Dr. Leon D. Young, of Dallas, Tex., as vice moderator.

Scottish Church Votes To StudyAnglican Union

Edinburgh, Scotland, May 27 (A.P.).—The general assembly of the Church of Scotland today voted to accept an invitation of the last Lambeth conference of Anglican bishops for a conference to explore possibilities of closer union between the two churches.

The invitation was brought to the assembly by the Most Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, Archbishop of Canterbury, who is himself a son and grandson of the Presbyterian manse.

GIRL SHOT TRYING TO BALK ROBBERY

car; one of the men took the back seat and the other man, using the girl as a shield, took the wheel.

"As the car sped out of town the two robbers, guns in hand, answered gunfire from Thompson and me. After the girl got into the car we didn't dare shoot to hit for fear of wounding her."

Two miles from Coalton, the driver puled to the side of the road and into a woods. Miss Aggas was thrown out and the car abandoned, the dead robber being left in the machine.

One of the two survivors was critically wounded, Miss Aggas reported. He was believed to have driven away in another car, while his companion fled through the woods on foot.

The bleeding bookkeeper staggered to the road and fell unconscious. She was soon found by her fiance, Baron Skinner, who had joined in the pursuit.

Bank Besought to Decide Shah's Right to Throne

Ruler of Persia Asks Guaranty Trust Co. to Turn Over Estate of Predecessor, Whose Wives and Children Are in Its Care.

New York, May 27 (A.P.).—The Guaranty Trust Co. is playing long-distance Lorsemaid to the offspring of the late Shah of Persia and austere "angel" to his forgotten wives.

More than that, the institution as executor of the will of the exiled Sultan Ahmed Shah Kadjar may force the surrogate's court to decide in effect the right to the peacock throne by ruling on a claim to the estate by the present Shah of Persia, Reza Khan Pehlavi.

These wondrous matters were unfolded today when the trust company filed an accounting of its stewardship showing that when Shah Ahmed died in Paris in February, 1930, he left of this world's goods $151,688 in jewels and $3,000,000 in securities, most of them in this city.

But it developed that when Shah Ahmed, seventh of his line, was about to be gathered to the bosom of his ancestors he provided handsomely for eight of his wives and chose to forget the others. At the same time he decreed that his four children should be reared in the Mohammedan faith and set up a trust fund for the care of his tomb.

Thereupon the forgotten wives knocked upon the figurative portals of the Guaranty Trust and demanded they should be admitted to a share of their master's hoardings. The executors bowed to their rights and reopened the probate of the will so that the ten wives should be treated equally.

No sooner had this problem been solved than the harrassed bankers were forced to turn their attention to the upbringing of their client's children in a befitting manner. They brought three of the wives from Persia to Paris and there set them up so that they could watch their sons while they read the Koran and learned of the glories of the prophet.

Now comes the present Shah of Persia, a former stable boy and nomad soldier, and makes out that, having seized the throne and overthrown the Kadjar dynasty, he is also entitled to the estate of his vanquished predecessor. If the surrogates' court approves or denies his claims it will be placed in the position of ruling on the legitimacy of a foreign potentate.

Shah Ahmed was deposed in 1925 by the lower house of Parliament and fled to Paris. There he lived in splendor with a few faithful friends until he died in the American Hospital, at the age of 32. He was crowned at the age of 11 and spent an energetic life.

With a swing toward democracy, Shah Reza ascended to the throne in 1926 on his election by the Constituent Assembly. He had forced himself into the premiership two years before and had undermined the reigning sultan's power while the latter was in Europe. He once curried the horses of the sultan's officers and once served in the Turkish army.

PRESBYTERIAN PLAN OF MERGER WEIGHED

Union With Federal Council of Churches of Christ Is Proposed at Parley.

Montreat, N. C., May 27 (A.P.).—Conflicting views of whether the denomination should affiliate again with the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America came before the seventy-second general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States here today, but action was deferred until Monday while a committee studies the overtures pro and con.

Another proposal that has been under discussion for several years—union with other Presbyterian groups—was treated in a report submitted by the committee on church union, which informed the assembly that four of the five denominations suggested for the union have declined to enter negotiations, and that it is "inadvisable" now to press for union with the fifth—the Associate Reformed Church.

The committee submitted, however, a proposed basis for union that would be acceptable to the Presbyterian Church in the United States, generally known as the Southern Presbyterian Church.

The report was referred to a special committee consisting of one minister and one layman from each synod, with the Rev. D. Clay Lilly, Winston-Salem, N. C., as chairman.

BANK GUARANTY BILL IS PASSED BY HOUSE

sions could be stricken out was defeated the same way.

The one major change affected conditions for the participation of State banks in the guarantee fund. Originally Mr. Steagall proposed that they be required to meet stipulations set by a new Federal bank liquidating board and then pay twice as much for admission as national or Federal Reserve member banks.

An amendment by Representative McGugin (Republican), Kansas, was accepted by Mr. Steagall, however, to permit admission of State banks provided they furnish certificates of soundness from the State regulating authority. They would pay the same fees as reserve member banks.

The bill proposes the establishment of a billion dollar fund to guarantee deposits, obtainable in this manner:

One hundred and fifty million dollars from the Treasury, representing the amount the Treasury has received in franchise taxes;

One hundred and fifty million dollars contribution from the $300,000,000 surplus of reserve banks;

A $100,000,000 assessment upon reserve member banks; an additional assesament of $100,000,000 a year, if necesary, upon reserve member banks;

Loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to total $500,000,000 if that much is needed.

Would Reimburse Depositors.

If a bank that joined the guaranty fund failed, the Federal Liquidating Board would be required within 90 days to pay to depositors not less than 50 per cent of their deposits if they did not exceed $1,000, and not less than 25 per cent if they did.

Within six months more a second installment would be paid, covering the balance of $1,000 accounts, and 25 per cent on all others.

The larger accounts would be repaid in two more six months' installments of 25 per cent.

The bill also would:

Prevent organization hereafter of national banks having a minimum capital stock of less than $50,000.

Prohibit the payment of dividends by national banks except upon the basis of the surplus. Banks with a capital of $25,000 would have to have 25 per cent surpluses before paying 6 per cent dividends; those with capital between $25,000 and $50,000 a 50 per cent surplus before paying 8 per cent; those with $100,000 capital could pay the dividends they chose provided the surplus remained equal to the capital.

Immediate Credit on Checks.

Require Federal Reserve Banks to give immediate credit on checks drawn against them by members, but permit charging the current interest rate until the checks were collected.

Provide that stockholders in national banks can be held responsible for double liability one year, instead of 60 days, after a transfer of their stock.

Authorize the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to issue such securities as may be necessary to furnish all or part of the $500,000,000; require that the corporation's loans shall be made to the liquidating board without security.

PRESBYTERIANS ASK CHURCH AWAKENING

United North American Unit Plans Huge Evangelistic Campaign.

Beaver, Pa., May 27 (A.P.).—The "awakening of the church," through a great spiritual and evangelistic campaign, was urged at today's sessions of the seventy-fourth General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church of North America.

Plans for the campaign were embodied in the report on spiritual life submitted by the Rev. R. B. Johnson, of Pittsburgh.

Selection of a vice moderator also was urged.

The report on church administration was submitted by Dr. A. J. Randles of Newcastle, Pa. It proposed a budget of $700,000 for missions and outside church activities, $500,000 less than that of three years ago.

The assembly was addressed today by Dr. J. A. Pinkerton, of Mansfield, Ohio, secretary.

Foreign missions were discussed by Dr. H. H. McConnell, of St. Louis; Dr. W. B. Anderson, of Philadelphia, and Dr. Mills Taylor, of Philadelphia.

Dr. C. R. Watson, president of the University of Cairo, Egypt, told of the success of Christian missionaries in the Moslem world.

Dr. M. E. Dunn, of Seattle, reporting on ministerial relief, said that because of financial stringency, it has been necessary to reduce pensions to ministers and their families 20 per cent.

The pension board reported assets of $1,500,000.

Lottery by Radio Nets 5 Sentences

Wife Included as Heavy Fine Also Is Given at Corpus Christi.

Corpus Christi, Tex., May 27 (A.P.).—Four men and a woman were convicted in Federal Court here today of violating United States laws in the operation of a lottery advertised over radio station XED at Reynosa, Mexico. Will Horwitz, Houston theater man, was sentenced to eighteen months in the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kans., and fined $5,000. He gave notive of appeal.

Government prosecutors said Horwitz, who was convicted on ten counts of sending lottery literature through the mails, owned the radio station. Mrs. Horwitz was given a six-month jail sentence, which was suspended for five years during good behavior.

Manuel C. Guerra was sentenced to a year and a day in the Leavenworth Prison, and Milton G. Hall and Manuel B. Gonzales were given 60-day jail sentences. Horwitz testified the largest single prize paid in the lottery was $4,000. He said the Mexican government collected taxes on the prizes.

Farmers Behind Times, Prince of Wales Holds

Yeovil, Somerset, England, May 27 (A.P.).—The Prince of Wales, who has been a farmer for almost 20 years, told an audience of farmers at the county fair today they were behind the times.

"We farmers must study our markets," he said. "A couple of cutlets for mother has replaced the great joints of beef that used to be eaten with relish by the family on the Sabbath. It seems to me we still are producing goods that were suitable in England 30 years ago—big cheeses and big joints of meat."

Sweden May Copy U. S. Tariff.

Stockholm, Sweden, May 27 (A.P.).—The Swedish government has asked Parliament for permission to adjust import duties by executive decree somewhat the way President Hoover and the Tariff Commission do in the United States. This power would be exercised after Parliament has adjourned for the summer. Under the government's proposal, no foreign countries would be granted tariff exemption.

Ohio 1-Pound Baby Dies.

Youngstown, Ohio, May 27 (A.P.).—Eugene Jordan, infant, who weighed only 15 ounces when born, last January 13, died today at Charleston, Pa., near here, where his mother had been keeping him for the advantage of rural surroundings. The child weighed 54 ounces a few days before his death. Relatives said there seemed to be no specific cause of death, which they attributed to a general lack of vitality.

4 LOST AS STEAMER SINKS IN COLLISION

City of Chattanooga Crashes Into Freighter Grecian During Dense Fog.

New London, Conn., May 27 (A.P.).—In the murky dark of dense fog, the cargo steamer Grecian sank with a loss of four lives today in a collision with the Savannah liner, City of Chattanooga, off Block Island. Two other members of the Grecian's crew were injured.

Two bodies, those of E. L. Forest, of Portsmouth, Va., second assistant engineer, and Charles Crowley, steward, of Providence, R. I., were recovered. The others missing were Jim Merriweather, of Philadelphia, mess boy, and Zanry Lomes, of Portsmouth, Va., ordinary seaman.

The Chattanooga picked up the remaining 32 members of the Grecian's crew and proceeded for Boston. The vessel left New York for the Massachusetts port last night and reported her own passengers and crew uninjured.

The Coast Guard patrol boat CG 405 brought the two recovered bodies here this afternoon, about eleven hours after the steamers had crashed 5 miles south of Southeast Light. Another coast vessel reported the finding of an overturned life boat among the debris.

The sea was heavy and the fog dense as the Grecian, a steel screw steamship of 2,827 tons, built in 1900, left Boston last night for Norfolk. The City of Chattanooga, a newer vessel almost twice the Grecian's size, carried 36 passengers and a crew of 80.

At about 1:50 a. m. (Eastern standard time) the Chattanooga struck the Grecian and the smaller vessel sank quickly. Within about two hours, while the Chattanooga's siren shrieked three blasts at intervals, the Coast Guard cutter Upshur arrived to assist in the search for the four missing men. On the Upshur's heels came the cutter Hunt while several smaller vessels put out from ports near Block Island.

The Grecian, formerly a passenger vessel, survived a similar collision four years ago. Struck by the Evangeline, of the Eastern Steamship Line, off Monomoy Point, Nantucket Sound, the vessel was beached off Cape Cod, salvaged, repaired and put in service again.

Chief of Police Bill Passed in Honolulu

Would Remove Five-Year Residential Clause in New Law.

Honolulu, May 27 (A.P.).—The House today passed and sent to the Senate a bill to remove the five-year residential clause in the recently enacted law governing appointment of Territorial chiefs of police.

The residential requirement was included in a measure passed by the legislature after the revenge slaying of Joseph Kahahawai. It was designed to remove the Honolulu police force from control of the sheriff's office and place it under an appointive chief of police.

Strong objection to the clause was aroused in Washington as a result of a report by Assistant Attorney General Richardson, who made a study of the legal situation here after the Massie-Fortescue murder investigation. Richardson recommended that law enforcement conditions be improved. The measure met little or no opposition and the Senate was expected to pass it Tuesday on convening.

The House tabled a resolution introduced by Representative Harry T. Mills expressing legislative sympathy for the parents of Kahahawai and proposing payment to them of $5,000.

Peary's Comrade Jailed On Gun-Threat Charge

Hickory, N. C., May 27 (A.P.).—Dr. Clarence Christian Craft, 52, member of Admiral Peary's expedition to the North Pole in 1908, and associated with many Federal geodetic surveys, was jailed today when he is alleged to have threatened a Federal narcotic inspector with a revolver.

He was charged with an assault with a deadly weapon by John Dickson, of Charlotte, Federal narcotic inspector for this district, with whom Craft quarreled in a drug store yesterday. Dr. Craft has long been connected with various works for the Government and with the Carnegie Institution at Washington.

ROOSEVELT SENDING IDLE BACK TO LANDS

Governor Announces Plan for Relief; 244 Families Now Placed on Farms.

Tuckahoe, N. Y., May 27 (A.P.).—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt announced today a plan whereby New York State's unemployed would be assisted by turning them back to the land.

In his first public appearance since he came back from the South the governor, leading candidate for the Democratic nomination for President, told Westchester County Democrats of the temporary emergency relief administration's plan for "subsistence farms."

Numbering the jobless at 10 per cent of the population, he explained that dependent families from cities and towns, especially those with agricultural experience, would be transferred to the land where they might obtain "the permanent jobs they have lost in overcrowded, industrial cities and towns."

"The plan, to be financed by State and local relief funds, seems to me to be a profoundly significant one," he said, "Because it is a bold step forward toward alleviating the critical situation of some of those who have suffered so devastatingly in this depression. It is a plan that can give to some a foothold and confidence again in a civilization which has hurled them as a machine does parts of a bolt."

The administration authorized every public welfare commissioner in the State today to place as many families as possible on the farms, he continued, and to pay for rent, tools, seed and household necessities. He said 244 families already had been taken care of.

In a previous address at commencement day exercises at Todhunter School, in New York, Gov. Roosevelt said New Yorkers should change the impression of Americans generally that they do not understand the remainder of the United States.

Vienna, May 27 (A.P.).—Joseph Schildkraut, film and stage star of Hollywood and Vienna, and Mary Mackey, of London, were married today in Vienna's city hall. One of the witnesses was John William Scott, American vice consul.

After their wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Schildkraut will go to Hollywood, probably some time in the fall.

Vice Presidency Story Is Denounced by Cox

Dayton, Ohio, May 27 (A.P.).—James M. Cox, former Governor of Ohio, in commenting on reports from Washington to the effect that he was being considered for the Democratic vice presidential nomination, today said.

"The report connecting my name with vice presidential ambitions is too absurd to be dignified by a denial."

PAUL BLOCK TELLS REASON FOR WALKER STOCK PROFITS

Equitable Coach Co., to obtain a $23,000 loan.

(While on the stand, Walker was questioned at length about the granting of a bus franchise by the city to the Equitable and denied implications that any personal financial transactions had influenced his vote on the matter.)

After Herrick had told how the $39,000 for the purchase of the stock had been sent to him from the city hall, either directly from the mayor or his secretary, Seabury asked:

"And there was no misunderstanding on your part, was there, that this $39,000 was to be used to purchase the 300 shares of Interstate stock that the mayor asked you to purchase in an earlier conversation?"

Money Lost as Collateral.

"Not the slightest," Herrick replied.

Herrick added he asked the mayor some time later if he still had the stock and Walker replied:

"No, I put it up for collateral on a loan and it's all gone."

Seabury read the following endorsements on certificates for the 300 shares, which Herrick said he delivered to the mayor's secretary with the understanding that they were going to the mayor.

Two 100-share certificates—J. Allan Smith, Equitable agent, who made the purchase of a $10,000 letter of credit Walker used on a European trip.

One 50-share certificate—Kincaid, Florentino & Co.

(Herrick said Federal agents told him State Senator John A. Hastings, friend of Walker, who was interested in the Equitable, put this certificate up as collateral for a loan.)

One 25-share certificate—Mrs. Mary A. Smith, of Syracuse, wife of J. Allan Smith.

One 25-share certificate—Frank R. Fageol, Equitable backer.

This was Block's story of the joint brokerage account:

"The mayor telephoned me one day—it was a Sunday—and asked if I would take a drive with him. I told him I had promised my youngster, who was about 10, to take him for a walk.

The mayor said:

"'Why not have Billy go with us for a drive?'"

Block said he and the boy were waiting for the mayor on Fifth avenue, when Billy asked him what salary the mayor received.

"I told him it was $25,000," Block said, "and he asked:

"'Does the city give him a home?'

"I said, 'No,' and he asked:

"'Does the city give him an automobile?'

"I said, 'Yes, but not to Mrs. Walker.' Billy then asked:

"'Can he live on what he gets?'

"I said, 'Yes, he probably can, but it may be difficult.'"

Mayor Voiced Objection.

The idea of opening the joint account occurred to him then, Block testified, but before opening the account, he discussed it with Walker, saying:

"Jimmy, I'm going to try to make some money for you. I'm going to open a joint account for us and see if I can make some money for you."

He said Walker replied:

"Aw, you ought not to do that, Paul."

Block testified that he never discussed with Walker the matter of the mayor's being responsible for a portion of any possible loss in the joint account. He said it was never his intention to allow the mayor to lose any money.

When Seabury asked Block if he knew why Walker objected to his opening the account, Block replied that he thought that possibly the mayor thought he was being too generous.

Block denied that the money from the joint account was a "donation to the mayor."

"The mayor and I were great intimate friends for a great many years," he said. "He was my friend, Jimmy Walker, and not the mayor of New York to me."

Seabury said he thought Block was making a very fine distinction by refusing to say the money from the joint account was a donation to the mayor.

Seabury's Interpretation.

"At any rate," Seabury said, "as far as the mayor was concerned, it was something for nothing, wasn't it?"

"Yes, certainly," Block replied.

The publisher said the payments to the mayor had on occasions been in excess of the account's profits. He said he did not know how much payments of this sort amounted to.

Seabury asked Block how payments from the account were made to Walker. Block replied:

"We'll say we had luncheon and there was some remark, probably by me, that, 'Did you see what happened in the market yesterday?' Meaning that it had gone way up. The mayor would say—not each time, but this has happened:

"'Gee, that's great. I wonder if I could get some money.'

"And I would always say:

"'Certainly. How much do you want?'"

Block said the mayor never knew what the profits of the account were when he made his requests. Except for a period after the account was first opened, he said, there always were profits.

JUNIOR LEAGUE ENDS ANNUAL CONVENTION

Mrs. John G. Pratt Elected President; Philadelphia Gets 1933 Session.

Los Angeles, May 27 (A.P.).—Mrs. John G. Pratt, of New Orleans, was elected president of the Association of Junior Leagues of America at the closing of the twelfth annual convention here today, and Philadelphia was selected for the 1933 assembly.

In bringing the four-day convention to an end, the 250 delegates adopted only one resolution, which called upon league members to become aware of their responsibilities as citizens.

Most of the day was taken up in filling vacancies in administrative offices. Mrs H. H. Armstrong, of Hartford, Conn., was reelected treasurer. Mrs. B. B. Gates of Dayton, Ohio, and Miss Abigail von Schlegell, of Pasadena Calif. will remain for another year as vice president and secretary, respectively.

In filling the posts of four of the seven regional directors, the association elected Miss Elizabeth Taylor, of Little Rock, Ark., to succeed Mrs. Pratt in Region 4; Mrs. C. L. Meyer, of Omaha, was reelected in Region 5; Mrs. G. A. Hill, former president of the Houston, Tex., league, succeeded Mrs. T. K. Alexander, of Denver, as director of Region 6, and Miss Averick Allen, of Pasadena, was reelected for Region 7.

Mrs. Gordon Konantz, former president of the Winnipeg League, was elected Canadian representative.

The association laid plans for four conferences to precede the 1933 convention. A conference on welfare will be held in Boston, October 17 to 20; in Cleveland, from December 6 to 8, a conference will be held on the Little Theater program; a shop conference will be held in Denver next January and an interest conference in Richmond next April.

Big Program Will Precede Congressional Ball Game

Although the game will be the thing and the slogan "As the game goes, the elections will go," there will be more than baseball to entertain the crowd who will flock to Griffith Stadium a week from today when the Republicans meet the Democrats in the national pastime.

A meeting yesterday of the committee on arrangements headed by Edward F. Colladay and Joseph Tumulty brought out many plans for an elaborate program to precede Umpire Gene Tunney's cry of "Play ball."

Tentative plans have been made for Floyd Gibbons, staccato radio announcer and war correspondent, to broadcast the play by play account of the game over the Columbia network, Lawrence Williams, chairman of the program committee, announced.

The political symbols of the two great political parties will be present in the flesh to lead the players in their parades around the field.

Republicans, when they march, will be headed by an elephant. They will march to the music of the Marine Band, with Vice President Curtis as their formal sponsor.

Speaker Garner, a donkey and the Navy Band with the ball players of the Democratic side, will form the parade of the Democrats.

Deportation Is Sought For Dry Act Breaker

Luigi Dickviala yesterday was sent to jail for a year and a day on a charge of violating the national prohibition act. He was caught with a load of liquor in a Northeast alley by Lieut. George Little and his squad of raiders last month.

Dickviala, it was shown, is being investigated by immigration authorities, who wish to establish how he entered this country. He claims he came here from Argentina, but the immigration authorities believe he came here from Italy. If it develops that the latter is true, he will be deported.

Night Visit to Girl Defended by Cleric

Davidson Asserts Immorality Is Not a Matter of Time of Day.

London, May 27 (A.P.).—Immorality is not a matter of the time of day, the Rev. H. F. Davidson asserted today before the church court trying him on charges of intimacy with young girls.

The 62-year-old rector testified that one night he missed the last train to Stiffkey, where he was the vicar, and subsequently he went into a room occupied by Miss Barbara Harris. There was, he said, no harm in that visit, even if it was late at night.

"I don't take notice of hours," he said. "It doesn't seem to me that because I go into a room at five minutes to twelve my presence there becomes immoral at five minutes past twelve. As a clergyman one spends one's whole life in bedrooms."

The rector submitted a letter which he had written to the Bishop of Norwich and in which he told of his efforts to help erring women.

(Associated Press.)

A nonaviator, who learned to fly alone in midair and saved his own life and that of a companion, yesterday was awarded the Navy's Distinguished Flying Cross.

He is Corpl. Hilmer N. Torner, of Alida, Kans., an operations clerk attached to the Naval Air Station, San Diego, Calif. The cross had never been awarded before except to aviators.

Torner was taken aloft at the air station March 22 by Staff Sergt. O. S. Hoffer, naval pilot, on a test flight. While in midair Hoffer became unconscious and fell forward on the controls of the plane. The plane, out of control, went into a spin and Torner was preparing to jump with his parachute when he observed Hoffer's inability to save himself. The corporal seized the pilot's inert body, pulled him from the controls and righted the plane just before it would have crashed. He then climbed to a considerable altitude to experiment with the controls and made a creditable landing on a nearby field.

"By his actions on this occasion he displayed presence of mind, self-sacrificing heroism and extraordinary achievement in the face of great danger far beyond the call of duty," the citation of the award read.

Howard Leads in Vote Of Typographical Union

Indianapolis, May 27 (A.P.).—Charles P. Howard, of Chicago, incumbent president of the International Typographical Union, today held a lead of 1,194 votes over Leon P. Rouse, of New York, when the vote of 274 locals had been reported. The locals cast their ballots for international officers.

The locals not yet reported gave Howard a majority of about 7,000 two years ago. The incomplete returns gave Howard 18,624 votes and Rouse 17,426. All other candidates on the Progressive ticket with Howard had leads of 5,000 to 10,000, which apparently assured their elections.

Former Representative From New Jersey Dies

Orange, N. J., May 27 (A.P.).—Charles N. Fowler, 80, former representative from New Jersey and for many years a member of the House banking and currency committee, died today.

Mr. Fowler was one of the "Old Guard" Republicans in Congress and was a close associate of the late "Uncle Joe" Cannon, of Illinois. He fostered many banking reforms and was often credited with providing the main principles which later were included by Senator Glass in the banking laws. He was a member of Congress from 1895 to 1911.

GET A TAX BILL FIRST.

Sentiment in Congress is unquestionably swinging back to the manufacturers' sales tax. As the Senate comes to grip with the problem of balancing the budget its members realize more and more that a sales tax would have been the easiest way out of the dilemma.

The situation in the Senate emphasizes the folly of the House's riot against the sales tax, but it does not follow that the Senate should reinstate this general levy. Conditions now are vitally different from what they were when the ways and means committee brought forth its sales tax plan. The Senate finance committee has worked for nearly two months on the assumption that the sales tax has been killed and that the budget must be balanced in some other way. It is apparent, too, that the Senate is taking that attitude. Otherwise it would not have adopted the finance committee's excise taxes with a minimum of debate and without roll calls. The Senate seems to be intent upon adopting the committee's bill with as few changes as possible.

Reports from the House indicate that some members of that body have changed their minds about the sales tax. Quite a number who voted against it seem to be ready to support it. But it must be remembered that the ways and means committee counted on majority support for this tax in the first place, and that only a stampede led by the insurgents defeated it. Another effort to put the sales tax through the House would certainly give rise to another insurgent riot, and the result would be extremely uncertain.

This danger that the House might not accept the sales tax, even though the Senate should write the Walsh amendment into the bill, forbids any enthusiasm about it at this time. The country is building hope on a balanced budget as soon as the tax bill is passed by the Senate. If the Senate should base its revenue program on the sales tax, and the House should again revolt, the country would be in danger of panic. All confidence in Congress would be shattered, and foreign nations would begin to question the financial stability of the Government. The Senate should deliberate carefully before risking such a shock to public confidence.

In any circumstances Senator Walsh should withhold his amendment from consideration until the Senate finishes its work on the main provisions of the bill. The Senate will then know whether or not it has balanced the budget. If no difficulty is experienced in raising enough revenue without the sales tax, it would be unwise to risk another upset of the tax program in the House. But if the Senate should refuse to follow the recommendations of its committee, it might be necessary as a last resort to turn to a levy on the sale of all goods, except the bare necessities of life. In that event the House might be constrained to approve the sales tax to save the country from the effects of the Senate's impotence.

The impracticability of trying to rewrite the revenue bill at this late hour must impress even the ardent sponsors of the sales tax. To the public such efforts merely add to the uncertainty which surrounds the whole legislative situation. The prime need of the hour is definite, swift and courageous action. An unsatisfactory tax bill on the statute books now would be far more welcome to the country than a more perfect bill enacted a month hence. Let the Senate drive ahead with a bill that will surely balance the budget, and not risk everything upon the presumption that the House will reverse itself on the sales tax.

THE PORK-BARREL BILL.

As guardian of the Government, President Hoover is compelled to resist with all his strength the enactment of the bill bearing the name of Speaker Garner, which proposes to spend $900,000,000 upon unnecessary Federal public works. The money borrowed for this program would sink the Government further into debt, unbalance the budget, and imperil the national stability. The mere threat of such legislation is sufficient to increase public anxiety and prolong the depression.

At the moment when the Senate is endeavoring to frame a tax bill which will stabilize the Nation and give the people a chance to resume business, the House Democrats put forth a plan to unbalance the budget and squander the taxpayers' money on unnecessary works.

President Hoover states that after the budget is balanced he intends to support adequate measures for relief of distress and unemployment. But he wants national stability first. His description of the Garner bill as "the most gigantic log-rolling bill ever proposed to the American Congress" is as true as it is emphatic. He relies upon the people to resist the appeal to their cupidity in the proposed distribution of taxpayers' money to favored localities.

If the $900,000,000 proposed to be expended could be really effective in immediate relief of unemployment, something could be said for the bill in spite of the fact that it increases the deficit. But the President states that not more than 20 per cent of the projects could be brought to the stage of employment for a year. As a relief measure the bill is a foredoomed failure; but as a panic breeder it would bring immediate results by demoralizing the Government itself, taking all business down with it.

It is impossible to accept the thought that Congress will deliberately wreck all attempts to stabilize the Nation by passing this bill. Of what avail would be the months of work already done? Public confidence in the Government would disappear. The instantaneous result of universal loss of confidence would be panic. All the safeguards adopted to avert panic and relieve the depression would be swept away in a day.

There are patriotic Americans of both parties in the House and Senate who can be depended upon to resist this temptation to run amuck. These legislators will fight this bill to a finish, and President Hoover will surely veto it if it should pass Congress. The more closely the bill is examined by the public the greater its iniquity will appear. A determined public protest, from all parts of the country, will surely develop if the sponsors of this pork-barrel raid should persist in trying to enact it into law.

CHILDHOOD'S CHANCES.

Dr. Lawrence A. Averill, in The Scientific Monthly, indicts the handling of childhood by present-day civilization. What has been done, he wants to know, for childhood in this wonderful modern age? In America there are some 45 million children under 18 years of age. He finds that six million of these are undernourished; one million have defective hearts; one million are stammerers or have other defects of speech; about two-thirds of a million are incorrigible or otherwise "unadjusted" to normal life; half a million are mentally retarded; more than a third of a million are tubercular; more than a third of a million are deaf or hard of hearing; three hundred thousand are crippled; and two hundred thousand are criminal or delinquent.

But even on Dr. Averill's own showing there are approximately 33 million normal children in the United States.

Childhood does not necessarily signify the possession of unimpaired faculties or undamaged bodies. Born and reared under a variety of conditions, children differ, as adults do. The perfect individual at any age is so rare as to be almost non-existent.

With what period would Dr. Averill compare the present era? Were the children of antiquity better cared for, more tenderly loved or more carefully educated? The chronicles of the thirteenth to sixteenth centuries read very much like the annals of today. There were plenty of crime, plenty of insanity, and vastly more disease.

Dr. Averill has the right to warn parents to be on guard, but it is easy to adopt a pessimistic view. Parents, teachers, physicians and nurses are steadily improving the condition of children. Moreover, handicapped children have great possibilities. Starving poets have written beautiful verse. One of the most promising of young American scientists had a leaking heart, but he did wonderful things despite his handicap. Genius triumphs over disabilities. Granted that poverty, neglect and illness are the enemies of childhood and ought to be dealt with, it is equally true that the mass of children are healthy and keen.

CREDIT MOBILIZATION.

The Young committee of bankers and prominent industrial leaders formed in New York to assist in restoring normal business activity has lost no time in getting to work. Its first move has been to arrange for a group of banks to underwrite a bond issue that will make funds available immediately to the institution that acts as a central bank for the savings and loan associations of the State, which in turn will assist small home owners to secure or renew loans and to improve or recondition their dwellings. There are over 300 savings institutions in New York State, holding 137,000 mortgages with a total face value of $380,000,000.

Another group of financiers and industrialists in New York is working to have the Young committee sponsor and assist in popularizing a plan to inaugurate a general use of trade acceptances as a credit instrument in order to distribute credit more widely for business uses. Following this prompt organization in the metropolis both Secretary Mills and Governor Meyer of the Federal Reserve Board went to Chicago to assist in the formation of a similar committee in Chicago. Here again the most prominent men in industry and finance joined the movement to determine the most practical means of utilizing more bank credit to stimulate business.

The work of the New York and Chicago committees will be coordinated whenever practical. While local conditions will differentiate the efforts, both cities are interested in plans to form a banking pool to support the corporate bond market. Investigations will be made as to the needs of the real estate bond situation, and a survey undertaken at once to determine the industrial enterprises that would benefit from additional credit facilities. The Federal Reserve has launched a campaign in this committee movement that should be of prompt benefit in making available increased credits for commercial purposes and thus stimulate business and relieve unemployment. Since easing the credit situation was not sufficient, these committees will attend to its practical application.

WHAT PRICE PREDICTION?

The prophets of the world are not in good standing. Good time and bad time predicters have missed the mark so frequently that their reputations have suffered seriously. The superoptimists who said prosperity would never end were no more mistaken than those who have tried to set dates for the end of the depression. The few voices raised in warning during bull market days were drowned in the hurrahs for mounting stocks. Today advice to found fortunes by buying at present low levels encounters equal skepticism. No one with the least knowledge of economic and financial history can doubt that this country will recover from present business stagnation. It cannot be seriously questioned that Congress will balance the budget. Prosperity always has returned; but it is wise not to be too specific as to dates.

The woes of one of the great nations of Europe are summarized in this fashion: "She is stripped of her armaments, her artillery, her muskets, her swords. That she may not be in an immediate position to supply their place she is loaded with a pecuniary indemnity which must exhaust the energies of another generation. She is not likely to recover her physical strength in our day, and when vigor returns to her shattered frame it will be only to feel she has lost her place in the councils of Europe."

What a picture of ruin! Naturally, it suggests Germany of today. But the quotation was printed in the Quarterly Review of London in 1871 and, of course, referred to France. "The Perils of Prophecy" are amusingly set forth in the current Harper's by Roy Helton, who recalls that no less keen an observer than H. G. Wells published his "World Set Free" in 1914, the very year the World War started, in which he predicted that the great European conflict would begin in 1956 after fifty years of unbroken peace.

Victor Hugo knew history and human nature, yet he predicted that "by the twentieth century there will be neither dogmas nor frontiers." What determinists will not reckon with, Mr. Helton says, and by determinists he means nearly all economic, social and biologic forecasters, is the fact that the direction of human events can be analyzed only when facing toward the past; the future of a democracy cannot be controlled. The chief lesson of modern prophecy, this writer finds, is that the future is its own concern and that long-term planning is the greatest indulgence of egotism man ever engaged in and the most dangerous; that we cannot shift our troubles to the shoulders of our grandchildren, who may not approve of them at all.

PHILIPPINE COMMISSION

By VICENTE VILLAMIN.

One of the reasons advanced in support of the Hawes-Cutting bill is that it will end the separatist agitation in the Philippines during the next 19 or 21 years, making for a quieter political condition and encouraging the entry of outside capital for the development of the islands. The question is, Will the bill and the circumstances surrounding its passage accomplish that end?

A Filipino legislative commission has been in Washington since last January functioning under a concurrent resolution of the Philippine Legislature "to petition the Government and Congress of the United States for the early granting of the independence of the Philippines." This mandate is the same as that given to eight similar commissions in the past and is in line with the resolution passed at every session of the Legislature since its inauguration.

Before sailing from Manila the chairman of the commission assured the Filipino people that the aim was immediate absolute independence and not mere local autonomy with independence in the future. This position was reaffirmed when the commission arrived in Washington.

Last September, on the occasion of his official visit to the islands, Secretary of War Hurley received from the Legislature a resolution asking "for the immediate and complete separation of the Philippine Islands from the United States."

Now a few days ago the Philippine commission petitioned Congress to act favorably on the Hawes-Cutting bill. In so doing the commission went outside of its instructions, for the bill purports to grant independence, not immediately or in the near future, but two decades from its passage.

The regular democratic process seems to be that the commission should first obtain a modification of its specific instructions from the Legislature. The fact that the five members of that body are influential political leaders does not justify the disregard of the regular procedure. In fact, since the commission arrived in Washington the party which was represented by two of its members has been dissolved.

The passage of the Hawes-Cutting measure at this time may be the very cause of a more virulent agitation in the islands. To obviate such unfortunate result the friends of the bill should omit no act to render it welcome to the Filipino people and thereby make it serve the cause of good government.

Still More Cooperation. (Copyright, 1932.)

POST HASTE.

Whether or not the present situation indicts legislative government, the party system has proved no more effective than the systems devised to break the bank at Monte Carlo.

Resort to the sales tax as a way out of the morass of revenue expedients is probably too simple and practical for any hope of such action.

Picture a House membership big enough to rehabilitate itself in public confidence by saying: "Fuller discussion has shown we were wrong; we will reverse ourselves on the sales tax." No, we weren't thinking of LaGuardia.

At the end of a long procession of relief bills Speaker Garner's brainchild arrives with the novel suggestion of a Federal tax on gasoline. Congressmen should keep on the shady side of the street.

A Paris banquet furnished inspiration and an appreciative audience to Gen. Pershing for a frontal attack with big guns on prohibition and racketeers.

A fantastic scheme to fix prices and a plan to put a premium on irresponsible banking are going to rob Representative Steagall of the prestige he got from being hyphenated with the Glass bill.

Politics does make strange slumber companions, but it can't get a balanced budget and a big bond issue even into twin beds.

Gov. Roosevelt confers with Col. House. We trust the governor is not counting on the colonel to hold the Texas delegation, as he did for Woodrow Wilson.

Senator Wheeler says "either we must adopt bimetallism or go off the gold standard." The complete answer is, neither is so.

We propose a special club for the betrayers who talk revolution in this country—with instructions as to how to wield it.

Prime Minister MacDonald telephones Washington on "economic conditions;" but is that an economical way to settle them?

Gen. Pershing's idea that we are being governed by a lot of cheap politicians differs from the popular opinion that they are at present the most expensive luxury the country ever possessed.

Congress had better hurry up and donate some more wheat before the Farm Board sells it.

It was a 16-to-1 bet that old-fashioned side-Wheelers like the Senator from Montana should still favor free silver.

Indications are multiplying, says the New York Times, that the best way out of the taxation muddle would be to go back to the general sales tax. As though such a reason would impress Congress!

You know which crowd it is that says it will require a lot of forgotten men and a miracle to elect a Democratic President without New York.

COMPLETELY INFORMED.

Recently, says the Weekly Underwriter and Insurance Press, a resident of a suburban town received two tickets for a "first-night" performance in a New York theater with a note reading: "Guess who sent these." Of course, the recipient and his wife used the tickets and upon their return found their home had been burglarized and on the table was a note reading: "Now you know."

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE:

Yesterday, when your mother teased you about wearing a garment in need of repair, you answered with an alibi as old as the history of clothing: "It doesn't show."

It seems a harmless statement, and certainly it reveals a proper pride and a wholesome respect for the opinion of mankind; but it also reveals a fault much worse than the one that is hidden.

If you were required to make a choice, which would you prefer: clean and beautiful undergarments with a frock of the cheapest gingham, or a beautiful and costly outer garment with soiled and ragged things beneath?

The difference is the difference between reputation and character.

All of us, being eager to win the world's approval makeshift to look presentable on the outside; but there are many of both sexes and all ages, lacking the excuse of poverty, who find it easy to endure a soiled garment or one worn to shreds, or even an unwashed hide, so long as it doesn't show.

That is a confession. It confesses want of character—want of true pride. It says in effect: "I'm not above indecent and shameful things in secret, provided I can make a show of virtue and culture to fool the public."

It is the creed of pretenders—those who buy books as furniture develop imaginary family trees, boast of acquaintanceship with celebrities they haven't met or affect a culture and a knowledge far beyond their poor limits.

That part is merely amusing, perhaps, but the thing goes deeper. The habit of being indifferent to faults that are hidden confuses values, and soon the victim of the habit comes to regard the hiding of faults as a greater virtue than correcting them. He no longer tries to be; he is content to seem.

The punishment for fooling the world is that eventually you fool yourself as well, and then your case is hopeless.

"To thine own self be true" is the grander way of saying: "Don't kid yourself." And the way to play safe is to mend the hidden tears, for the sake of secret pride and dignity, more neatly than you mind the ones that show.

Love,
DAD.

Alfalfa Bill Considers Himself.

Philadelphia Record.

Alfalfa Bill Murray, Governor of Oklahoma, probably the most engaging figure in American politics, displays a new and impressive ability.

He can consider himself and his prospects as coldly and dispassionately as he can size up the rest of the world.

Reporters in New York asked him what he thought of his chances for the Presidency.

"Everybody at the convention will have a chance, but me," he said. "I haven't any money. You can't get the nomination without money."

Achilles Sulks.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

It has finally happened. Senator Borah has said good-by to the Republican party. At least, it sounds like good-by, though it may be merely au revoir. Anyhow, he will not attend the Chicago convention. Whether he will take part in the campaign is not exactly clear. He declines to say.

What Price Mayors?

Philadelphia Record.

Cities may go brankrupt, but few mayors retire poor. Mayor Walker, it seems, will be no exception. The Seabury probe in New York takes testimony that "Jimmy's" trip to Europe in 1927—one of his many rest cures—was financed to the extent of $13,000 by the backer of a bus line which had just obtained a lucrative franchise from the city.

Far be it from us to condemn gratitude. But $13,000 does seem a rather low price to obtain the favor of our greatest city's chief executive. Walker, always on hand for beer parades, conveniently ill during investigations, seems to have made hay while the sun shone. But who would have thought that a New York mayor would stoop to glean such straws?

Might Stiffen Backbones, Too.

Macon Telegraph.

Mental expert says stupidity is due to a lack of iron in the brain. How about a law compelling Congress to have a crowbar minced in its soft-boiled eggs every morning?

France Is Out.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The attitude of Republican voters toward Mr. France's candidacy was shown in his own State, which pledged its delegation to Mr. Hoover. The President has kept out of the preference primaries in the other States, and so Mr. France, as the only active candidate, received the indorsement of a number of them. But since Mr. Hoover now has more than enough pledged delegates to give him the nomination on the first ballot, it is difficult to understand why Mr. France should keep up the fiction that he is himself any longer in the race, particularly since he is not even a "favorite son."

Hung Up to Dry.

Springfield Republican.

Perhaps Mr. Raskob no longer matters much, with his tenure as chairman of the Democratic national committee so near its end. It is incredible that Mr. Smith himself, in case he should win a second nomination for the Presidency, would ask Mr. Raskob to manage his campaign this year. The Senate committee investigating the stock market last week pinned Mr. Raskob out on the line to dry, and he is still there.

Baker Speaks Out.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

Standing firmly on his refusal to campaign for the Democratic nomination, Newton D. Baker nevertheless speaks out occasionally to let men and women know just how he thinks on major issues—which is more than some Democrats are doing who are actively seeking the coveted position.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Veteran Appeals for Just View of Aid to Soldiers—Does Not Ask for Bonus.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Gobs of propaganda daily tell us what the country has done for World War veterans. Gen. Frank T. Hines says Uncle Sam to date has given the veterans about $15,000,000,000. Bonus objectors are numerous, but it seems it is all right to appropriate billions to railroads, farm relief, &c.

I am a World War veteran, but it is immaterial to me whether the bonus is paid now or never. However, I do object to being held up as an object of charity because of my war record. And when I speak of my record I speak of that of the typical soldier.

When I went to war I left a job paying me $35 a week and got one in the Army paying me $30 a month and board, such as it was. Uncle Sam, generous chap that he is, gave my wife $15, but took half of my $30 to add to the $30 he figured ought to support her. The much-talked-of war risk insurance that a good many people in the United States think was a donation to the soldier just cost me, like every other soldier that took it out, $8 a month in premiums.

I served ten months, the average service, and when I was discharged Uncle Sam gave me $60 bonus and a uniform to wear on Decoration Day. In 1920 or thereabouts the politicians decided that there ought to be a little more equality between the pay given the war veteran and the stay-home class, and a bill was finally passed awarding me $600, or about an additional $2 a day for my war service, but it was stipulated that I must wait 20 years to get it. This was the way the average veteran was rewarded.

I feel the average World War veteran is being portrayed to the American public in the wrong kind of light. I, as one of them, do not feel that Uncle Sam has been a bit liberal with me or that I owe him anything other than what every American owes his country. In fact, I think that the service I gave him for ten months puts Uncle Sam very much in my debt, considering that those that stayed at home were treated so liberally.

This is no argument in behalf of bonus. The payment of the bonus might retard the return to normal conditions. Again the average soldier is willing to do his bit for the common weal. I can sympathize with thousands of my buddies who need money now more than they have at any time heretofore in their lives, but the United States must live.

Perhaps this letter may appeal to you as rather raw, but in view of the fact that the average World War veteran is being unmercifully panned, I appeal to your justice to print our side of the matter. C. R. COTTON.

Reader Pleads for Careful Driving Over Country Roads This Summer.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The highways leading to the beaches and into the country will be crowded with traffic over the week-ends for several months to come. They will be more crowded than usual this year, as Government employes will be able to start on their week-end trips shortly after 1 o'clock on Saturday afternoons. Such congested conditions means that there probably will be many accidents unless the motorists are very careful.

Every summer the list of automobile fatalities increases over the fatalities of the winter months. Those who plan to take short trips should make up their minds that they will drive carefully; leave all forms of intoxicants alone, at least during driving time; and be considerate of the other fellow and not hog the road. Automobile fatalities do not necessarily have to increase in the summer time, but in order to avoid such a condition, motorists continually must be on their guard, must keep their minds on driving at all times, and must remember that there are other drivers on the road besides themselves.

Let's make this a summer of few, if any, automobile fatalities in and around Washington. It can be done, and it should be done. K. L. F.

Mr. Knott Discusses Mrs. Sabin's Campaign for the "Reform" of Prohibition.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Mrs. Sabin and her organization are advertised as on a hunt for one single case of prohibition reforming a drunkard. If by "drunkard" is meant a confirmed sot, then prohibition was not designed to cure him. Neither was the war against tuberculosis designed to cure the person far gone in the disease.

Mrs. Sabin insists that she does not wish to see the saloon return. But she is strong for the return of beer and other intoxicants. This is about equivalent to desiring to possess a live skunk for its beautiful fur, but insisting that there must be no odor of the skunk on the premises. How can it be done? J. O. KNOTT.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE PATIENT BOOKS.

Books on the shelves stand patient and serene,
Like old, true friends who for my call await,
Then gladly come full-handed to the gate.
Though long neglectful of their love I've been,
And though each other we have seldom seen,
They have not turned away from me in hate,
Nor do they answer that I cry too late,
They can not bridge the years which lie between.

Just as old friends in trouble's hour return,
All gentle, tender, glad of use to be,
Eager at once my pressing need to learn,
So from the shelves old books come down to me.
Happy to serve me every page appears,
Though I have seemed ungrateful through the years.

26 STAR GRADUATES IN ANNAPOLIS CLASS

Two Maryland Students and One From Virginia Among Highest in Rank.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 27.—Twenty-six midshipmen of the class of 421 to be graduated from the Naval Academy next Thursday, attained the "star" grade; that is, they received 85 per cent or better of the general aggregate for the four-year course, it was announced today. They will, therefore graduate with distinction.

As had been previously indicated the "honor" man is Richard S. Mandelkorn, of Peoria, Ill., whose aggregate was 912.53. He was closely pressed by Emerson E. Fawkes, of Iowa, whose mark was 907.62, and third honors go to Edward A. Ruckner, of Westwood, N. J., who attained 898.77.

Sixteen from the District of Columbia, fourteen from Virginia, and eleven Marylanders are among those who will receive diplomas. Appointees from the Middle West and East took major scholastic honors. Of the first ten in order of merit, there is one each from Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Virginia and New Jersey, two each from Iowa and Pennsylvania, and one from Washington State.

District Graduates.

The academy board today passed upon the scholastic work of the entire student body, and announced that sixteen midshipmen were found so badly deficient as to be compelled to resign. This is a smaller number than usual. One of the delinquents is a third class man, and the others are of the fourth, or lowest class.

The "June week" period was officially ushered in today, although the only events on the program were band concerts morning and afternoon. The off-day gave the seniors and undergraduates opportunity to visit with their relatives and friends who are assembled here from practically every State in the Nation. Tomorrow will be known as "alumni and athletic day," because of the annual reunion of old grads that will culminate with a banquet at night, and a program of athletic competition to be presented during the afternoon.

Start on Festivities.

The day's festivities will get under way at 8:30 in the morning, when the midshipmen will put on special drills. At 11:45 ceremonies marking the dedication of the handsome new gates at the Maryland avenue, or main entrance to the naval reservations, will be held. The gates, a gift of the class of 1897, have been installed at a cost of $10,000. Commander Russell S. Crenshaw is expected to make the presentation in behalf of the donors, and Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent, will deliver an acceptance address.

Featuring the athletic program will be baseball and lacrosse, with University of Maryland, at 2:15 and 3:30, respectively; field and track meet with Ohio State University at 2:15, and tennis with University of Pennsylvania at 2:30. The Plebes will engage in two contests of more than usual interest, baseball with the champion team of Washington high schools at 1:15, and field and track, also with the champion District group, events to be run concurrently with the varsity meet.

At night midshipmen of the three upper classes will be hosts at a dance in Dahlgren Hall. At the Sunday morning chapel services, the chaplain, Commander Frank H. Lash, will preach the baccalaureate sermon. There will be a cessation of activities Monday because of the observance of Memorial Day.

Alexandria to Receive $10,160 for Road Fund

Announcement was made yesterday that the City of Alexandria will receive approximately $10,160 from the provisions of the Byrd bill based on $2,000 per mile for road improvement. Based on $1,500 per mile, the portion would be $7,260. The total miles estimated for the city under the provisions of the bill is 5.08.

City council will ask that the money be allocated for the improvement of the so-called River road within the city limits, and Patrick street, to form part of route 1. All trucks now use Patrick street.

BONUS ARMY TO BUILD CAMP OF ITS OWN NEAR CAPITAL

full bonus payment planks in each platform.

By consent of the representatives of veterans, a group of former service men, now members of the Workers Ex-Service Men's League, affiliated with the Communist Party, will be segregated from the main army so as to avoid any untoward incidents. The veterans now affiliated with the Communist unit are attending the convention of the Communist party in Chicago. They will leave for Washington early next week.

Glassford Secretary-Treasurer.

A survey of available camp sites was made by Gen. Glassford and five members of the bonus marchers, following a conference yesterday afternoon. Those who are working in concert with Gen. Glassford are Mr. Foulkrod, who now resides at 19 Second street northeast and who served in both the British and United States armies and was wounded four times; Hearne Walker, of California, representing the veterans from the West; Martin A. Mahon, former sailor, of New York, representing the veterans from the East; Bennie B. Sprouse, former sailor, of Union, S. C., representing the veterans from the South, and Lester McGowan, former sailor, of Washington.

Gen. Glassford, who has been designated by the veterans as their secretary-treasurer, has procured rolling kitchens from "a military unit," to be used temporarily to cook food for the men. Field kitchens will be brought from the Third Corps Area to prepare food during their stay.

Under plans, mutually agreeable to the men and the police chief, the erection of the barracks will begin this afternoon after the camp site is definitely chosen. Pup tents will be brought from Army posts nearby to shelter the marchers, if the temporary barracks prove inadequate. The barracks will be roofed but not walled.

An army organization will be perfected, the men being formed into companies, with details for mess, kitchen police, &c. A system of registration will be established so that only bona fide veterans will be admitted. The veterans have agreed that any one using liquor in the camp or returning intoxicated will be expelled.

Gen. Glassford says he hopes to get the food through donations of merchants, and the money for the lumber, fuel, &c., he hopes to obtain through donations from private citizens and veterans organizations. The veterans have expressed willingness to cooperate to the fullest extent with the police, so that no unpleasant incidents will occur.

Through benefit boxing and wrestling shows, which Gen. Glassford will promote, the veterans and police hope to clear any deficit that may arise from their stay in the Capital. Jimmy Lake, manager of the Gayety Theater, made an offer, accepted by Gen. Glassford, to stage a special benefit show Friday midnight.

Progress of Columns.

There are 700 veterans in Philadelphia, ready to leave for the Capital, according to Foulkrod. All are members of the United Veterans League, which took an active part in the unsuccessful campaign to obtain the Republican senatorial nomination for Smedley D. Butler. Another group is reported to be in Camden, N. J., preparing to start for Washington.

An Associated Press dispatch from Cincinnati said the bonus brigade from Oregon, numbering 300, camped last night at Zanesville, Ohio, and will reach the West Virginia border today. They will be transported across the Mountain State in State-owned trucks to Pennsylvania, and the Keystone State highway department will bring them to Maryland.

New Orleans, La., May 27 (U.P.).—At least 600 World War veterans are scheduled to leave tomorrow night for Washington as a "boxcar brigade" to demand payment of the bonus. They say they plan to remain in the Capital City until they get it. Plans for the forthcoming trip were completed at a special meeting held here tonight.

STATES UNION URGED FOR SPANISH NATION

Plan Similar to U. S., Except Divisions Would Be Under Federal Control.

Madrid, May 27 (A.P.).—Premier Manuel Azana presented to the Spanish Assembly tonight a plan that eventually would convert Spain into a union of federated states similar to the United States, except that they would be under complete control of the national government.

This, in effect, was his solution of the long-deferred Catalonian problem, and he was speaking on the Catalonian statute, which would give that rich industrial area of Spain a limited autonomy of government.

Fundamentally the Catalonian statute allocates to the state government of Catalonia the right to employ the Catalan tongue; the direction of Catalonia's educational, economic and social system, and the right to police its own territory. Questions of foreign relations, naval and military protection are conceded in the statute to the central government.

The premier counseled the Chamber to concede all provisions of the statute compatible with the constitution and indicated that he thought such conflicts were unimportant and few. He inferred that the government expected other regional statutes will be presented to the assembly.

The premier declared, however, that full separation of Catalonia was unthinkable because of the consequent weakness it would bring to Spain and the misfortune it would visit upon Catalonia.

The Chamber cheered and applauded as the premier finished. Various political leaders were hesitant, however, to give their reaction at once on the most important political problem of Spain, but most Catalonians, especially the moderates, appeared in agreement.

Funds From Poppy Sale Not to Feed Marchers

The local organization of the Veterans of Foreign Wars yesterday issued a statement denying current rumors that the funds obtained from the sale of "buddy poppies" will be used to feed the bonus marchers who are reported en route to Washington. The entire proceeds, it was stated will be expended to help worthy veterans living in Washington.

The statement reads, "If it is necessary to aid other social organizations in meeting the emergency, the District of Columbia department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will do its share, but not from any funds obtained from a most generous Washington public from the sale of 'buddy poppies.'"

Garden Party Held For Lee Memorial

Gov. Ritchie Speaks at Stratford Function in Silver Spring.

The garden party for the benefit of the Robert E. Lee Memorial Foundation yesterday at the home of Mrs. E. Brooke Lee, Silver Spring, Md., was slightly marred but not spoiled by the sudden thundershower which sent the guests scurrying into the historic old mansion. Luncheon had been served and the guests gathered in the reception rooms to hear Gov. Albert C. Ritchie extol the purpose of the foundation, restoration of Stratford, the birthplace of the Lees, which, he said, was a living inspiration to the descendants of old Virginia.

Fisk Kimball, director of the Pennsylvania Museum of Art, and Gov. Ritchie were guests of honor at the affair, which was attended by some 250 guests. Mrs. Cazenove Lee, Washington director of the foundation, said that the group was gathered together not so much to raise funds as to gain new friends for the birthplace of the Lees—Richard Henry Lee and Francis Lightfoot Lee, both of whom signed the Declaration of Independence; "Lighthorse" Harry Lee and Gen. Robert E. Lee. Mrs. Charles Lanier, of Greenwich, Conn., national president, also spoke. Mrs. Cary Grayson presided.

CIVIC ASSOCIATIONS AID LAWN CONTEST

Federation Supports Plan for Beautification of Neighborhoods.

Support of the Federation of Civic Associations was pledged last night, at a meeting held in the boardroom at the District Building, to Mrs. Lillian W. Smith, in charge of a contest, under auspices of the Bicentennial Commission, for beautification of grounds in colored neighborhoods here and in adjacent counties of Maryland and Virginia.

A cup will be given to a colored community showing the best lawns and plantings here; another to a colored community in Arlington, Fairfax, Montgomery or Prince Georges County for the best lawns and plantings; and another to a colored community here showing the greatest improvement in lawns and plantings during the period between the first two weeks in July and the first two weeks in September.

With reference to securing bus service for Capital View, a report of the committee on public utilities favoring such service was returned to the Capital View Association for a spot map of the section and the proposed bus route. A question of use of facilities of the United States Public Health Service for examination of eyes of colored school pupils was referred to the committee on education to take up with Assistant Superintendent G. C. Wilkinson.

A request for a bridge or underpass where Meade street northeast crosses railroad tracks joining Eastland Gardens with Deanwood, for benefit of children attending Deanwood School, was directed to be sent to the District Commissioners. Removal of unsanitary conditions in the Southeast section, at New Jersey avenue and K street, where garbage is loaded on trains, was favored by the federation, as well as the immediate removal of such loading stations from the section.

Establishment of a scholarship fund by the federation was referred to the committee on education.

A resolution was introduced yesterday by Representative Gilbert (Democrat), Kentucky, to appoint the following members of the board of regents of the Smithsonian Institution: R. Walton Moore, of Fairfax, Va.; Robert W. Bingham, of Louisville, and Augustus P. Loring, of Boston.

MRS. WHALEN HEADS MONTGOMERY CLUBS

Other Officers Are Elected; Meeting at Sandy Spring Adopts 5 Resolutions.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post. 9103 Conn. ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Mrs. B. Peyton Whalen, of Alta Vista, was reelected president at the annual meeting of the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs held in the old Meeting House at Sandy Spring yesterday.

Others elected were Mrs. Eugene W. Scott, Woman's Club of Rockville, first vice president; Mrs. Walter L. Kline, Woman's Club of Friendship Heights, second vice president; Mrs. Mortimer O. Stabler, Wednesday Club of Sandy Spring, recording secretary; Mrs. Harry Elkins, Woman's Club of Woodside, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Edgar W. Moore, Community Club of Kensington, treasurer; Mrs. George Landick, jr., Woman's Club of Kensington, parliamentarian.

Six resolutions which had been circulated among constituent clubs were acted upon. The federation adopted the following: Resolution of the Woman's Club of Woodside, requesting more stringent quarantine laws for communicable diseases; resolution of As You Like It Club of Germantown, asking that a trained worker be appointed to the post of public welfare director; resolution of the same club asking better police protection for the rural sections; resolution of the Civic Study Club of Garrett Park, petitioning the State and county to provide suitable trash receptacles along the State and county highways, as is done in New England; resolution of Woman's Improvement Club of Silver Spring, asking that a minimum of two women be appointed to the county school board.

A resolution offered by the Civic Study Club, of Garrett Park, asking that suitable footpaths be provided along the main highways for pedestrians, was voted down on the grounds that it would cost too much money and increase taxes.

An emergency resolution was adopted deploring sensational headlines in the newspapers with lurid details, which "excite morbid curiosity of men, women and children" and are against the invasion of the citizen's right of privacy in domestic affairs. The resolution had been prepared apparently with the Lindbergh baby kidnaping in mind.

Judge Granville Curry, of the county juvenile court; Dr. J. W. Bird, president of the Social Service League, and Dr. V. P. Ellicott, county health officer, addressed the meeting. Mrs. Edgar W. Moore, treasurer, reported that $2,428 had been donated to the Social Service League; $493 expended for educational purposes, exclusive of scholarships, and $349 donated to the Montgomery County General Hospital, in addition to jellies and other articles. The Wednesday Club, of Sandy Spring, acted as hostess club.

Bladensburg Audit Asked by Citizens

Association Demands Old Commissioners Turn Over Books.

The Bladensburg election, which has been in dispute since the balloting on May 2, "has not been legally contested in accordance with the charter of the village," it is claimed in a letter sent by the Bladensburg Citizens Association to both the old and new commissioners of the town.

The letter demands that the old board turn over books and property of the town to the new board and threatens legal action if this is not done. It also asks for a public audit of the accounts of the town under the old board.

The controversy is based on the election of Elroy Gasch, one of five candidates supported by the citizens association. The old board, two of which were reelected, declared the election invalid on the grounds that Gasch did not have $300 worth of property in the town, as required by law. Both sides engaged counsel. The association's letter calls the present government of the town "wholly intolerable and without lawful precedent under constitutional government."

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Expert Answers Readers' Questions.

H. G.: The cream you are using made of equal parts of lanolin, cocoa butter and olive oil is very good as a softening and lubricating cream. In itself it will not help to round out hollows. Exercise is necessary for this. I am wondering whether you are generally underweight. If so, do take more nourishing food and try to gain. My weight gaining suggestions are yours for the asking. Arm flinging exercises are excellent for you. After these, sponge the hollow parts with hot water and then massage with cream in a firm, rotary motion. Two weeks are not enough time, my dear, to show results. Be patient.

"Foot Conscious:" Many women have complained that the sudden change from very high to low heels hurts their feet. Leading chiropodists advise only low, substantial heels, like the Cuban heel (or even lower; the sport oxfords for business and shopping wear). They feel that wearing very high heels is injurious not only to the feet but the entire body, as the foot is thrown out of balance and the vital organs therefore suffer. In changing from high heels, get the next pair of shoes slightly lower, the next still lower until the heel is quite low. The gradual change will avoid the pain you mention. When purchasing new shoes, be sure to try both on, also stand up and walk about. Remember that the feet expand when walking, as compared to a relaxed position when one is seated. The shoe should be three-quarters of an inch longer than the foot. The heel of the shoe should come directly under the heel of the foot. Also be sure that your stockings are not too short. The stockings should be one-half size larger than necessary.

L. F. B.: For your ash-blonde hair and fair coloring soft pastel shades, blue violet, deep warm rose grays, soft, chalky green shades, orchid, soft, old-rose shades, yellow—if it exactly matches you hair—black if softened by accents and soft, off-white shades should be becoming. Avoid any color that has a sallowing effect on your skin. Do you know that you are a few pounds underweight? Try to gain, because at your age it is better to be a few pounds overweight than too thin.

J. Q.: Since your gums bleed so badly, I would advise your seeing a dentist immediately. Don't delay, or the consequences may be serious.

D. E.: Moles can be safely removed by electrolysis. I do not advise experimenting with removing liquids or acids at home. Go to your doctor and have him recommend an expert.

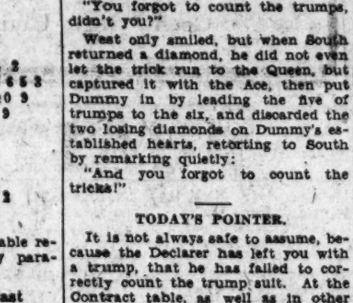
MISCOUNTING TRUMPS.

A COMMON fault at the Bridge table is inability to count up to thirteen, and Dummy and both opponents usually give a half derisive and half pitying smile at the Declarer who miscounts the trump suit, particularly. It is not wise, however, to always assume that because the Declarer has left a trump in an opposing hand that he has failed to count up to thirteen. Even though he permits it to win a trick that might otherwise have been won with a high card in his hand or the Dummy, he may only be concealing a Machiavellian plot. We were warned in our school days to watch the Greeks most closely when they came bearing gifts.

Today's hand is an illustration of the proffering of a Grecian gift, the acceptance of which permitted the Declarer to make his contract, which was otherwise as unattainable as the moon itself. A "forgotten trump" in the hand of South loomed large for a moment, but it lost its significance when the Declarer scored up four-odd for game and rubber.

South—Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in the table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♣	2♠(1)	Pass	3♡(2)
Pass

1—A Jump Overcall—a stronger bid than a Takeout Double—disclosing a strong two-suiter or a single powerful suit. Partner is required to respond to this with a weak, but not a bust hand, in order that the player making the Jump Overcall may have a further opportunity to bid.

2—With a five-card major suit, headed by ½ honor-trick, and another Queen in the hand, East must give his partner a chance to play for game.

3—West's hand justifies the game bid in spades.

North and South took 2 club tricks, South winning the second round of that suit and leading the singleton heart. The Declarer could see the contract easily made if the four adverse trumps were held 2-2 in the hands of his adversaries. He, therefore, led two rounds of trumps, only to find, to his disappointment, that South still held a trump. Success now rested possibly upon the location of the diamond honors, and both of these seemed to be marked in the South hand, as otherwise South was without the strength for an Opening bid. West could defer testing the accuracy of this surmise until later.

He, therefore, decided to try a ruse which, if successful, would make it immaterial where the King and Knave of diamonds were located. He laid down the Ace of hearts, as he correctly read South's lead up to East's apparent strength in that suit, as being a singleton. South played his remaining trump, and pityingly remarked to West:

"You forgot to count the trumps, didn't you?"

West only smiled, but when South returned a diamond, he did not even let the trick run to the Queen, but captured it with the Ace, then put Dummy in by leading the five of trumps to the six, and discarded the two losing diamonds on Dummy's established hearts, retorting to South by remarking quietly:

"And you forgot to count the tricks!"

TODAY'S POINTER.

It is not always safe to assume, because the Declarer has left you with a trump, that he has failed to correctly count the trump suit. At the Contract table, as well as in other pursuits, it is well to beware of the Greeks when they come bearing gifts.

VITAMIN DISCOVERIES.

RECENTLY the papers have carried stories announcing that scientists have isolated different vitamins and are able to show them as pure chemical substances. Some who have read these stories have asked just what it all means.

Until these discoveries were made it would have been better to say that we accepted vitamins on faith. There were certain things that made us believe there were substances, named vitamins by Funk, but they had not been discovered. When foods of certain kinds were fed to animals for a long time things happened. When other foods were fed, other things happened. By very scientific feeding, weighing and otherwise observing it was concluded that a certain substance must be present in some foods and absent in others, and, when present, were there in certain quantities.

In the course of time information had accumulated until we suspected, and even believed, that there were at least five of these substances called vitamins, and probably the number was seven instead of five. So definite was the belief that we had the faith to say a given man, under given circumstances, must eat such and such or he will suffer the consequences. Faith was so strong that the system of feeding was greatly changed in order to make it meet the new views.

The several recent discoveries amount to not much more than an announcement that some explorer had found an island in a spot where everybody knew there must be one, and where every mariner's chart was marked with a notation: Land here suspected and almost certain."

Since the everyday man is now eating spring fruits and vegtables inorder to get vitamin C. or eating another diet in order to escape pellagra, or otherwise acting on his faith in vitamins, the discoveries mean nothing of immediate practical interest to him, or, for that matter, to anybody. This does not mean that they never will be of practical interest. Let us use sugar as an example. The Biblical characters ate milk and honey.

They soured the milk, made curd of it, and put the curd in a bag and went their way into the desert with a skin of solid milk. But they could not take a jug of honey. They had to eat dates with their curd as they crossed the desert because it was not practicable to lug along honey. Then came a scientist who learned how to crystallize cane sugar. Eventually the man of the desert changed his practice. He took along a bag of dry sugar crystals to eat with his curd. He told his one time friend, the bee, that he was unnecessary. Thus, in time, the discovery of some laboratory changed the habits of the Arab in the desert.

This may happen with vitamins, not to mention the possibility that some day we may make our vitamin C. in factories and use all of our present orchards and vegetable gardens for dog tracks. We may make our vitamin D artificially and leave the cod and halibut to swin the seas.

WHY NOT FIND OUT!

I. C. C. writes: My tongue has been sore for about five months on the side. It looks real dark and seems to be chopped and swollen. Sometimes it bleeds for a few minutes. Would you say it is cancer?

REPLY. .....

Your description does not indicate that you have cancer, but it does call for an examination.

DOESN'T KNOW ANSWER.

1. What is the cause of low blood pressure?

2. If one has it what can be done to remedy it?

3. What is the correct weight for a girl of 15 years, 5 feet 3½ inches tall?

REPLY.

1. No one knows the cause. Some appear to have been born that way, some to have too little adrenal solution, prolapsed organs, or starch indigestion. Some appear to be without the ability to get exsited. Part of this is effect and part cause. No one has an answer to your question.

2. Many wear supporters; others avoid starches and sugars in their diet. Some train their capacities for enthusiasm and excitement.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

NEW YORK, May 27.—She drops her exquisite head in the most grotesque ways, but somehow manages always to look extremely graceful! She, my dears, is our pet vice! She is only a doll, but heartlessly beautiful, breathlessly exotic, unspeakably wistful as she droops against the mantelpiece or upon a satin pillow.

Have you ever noticed how one of these lovely dolls in a small studio or apartment can seem to be the very personality of the room? Such a doll I have sketched for you today. A graceful doll, dressed in the costume of the Russian peasantry.

Wouldn't you like to make this lovely doll for yourself or for a gift? This week's leaflet gives you your choice of wee lovely ladies of different nations—six of them. A modernistic Russian lady with oblique eyes, a Hindu princess with large and deep dark eyes barely hidden by her huge enveloping veil, a seductive Moorish lady and others. Six beautiful boudoir doll designs, and the direction for making them! Just send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post and see if it won't inspire you to make some or all of them! Oh-h-h and don't forget to clip today's sketch of the Russian peasant doll—you will need her!

* * * *

Vacation time is the ideal time in which to make that boudoir doll you have always wanted to make. And Christmas may seem a lo-o-o-o-ng way off, but remember how it sneaks right upon you after vacation! Take the "makin's" for Dah-ray boudoir dolls with you on your vacation, and have a lot of fun making them—for yourself and for Christmas gifts.

A dainty woman is dainty always, but there are some weather and other conditions that are more trying to her than others. Summer is always a trying time, and soap and water cleanliness is not enough.

You must be lavish in the use of talcum powder, and in the use of one of any of the neutralizing powders that are on the market, which actually do destroy body odors. Sprinkle it in your shoes, in your stockings, elsewhere on your body where you know it is necessary.

A lovely lady never appears to be suffering from the rise in the thermometer, and therefore, does not add to the general misery of others around her. Cool, quiet, calm and sweet always—in her appearance and in her mind. Just proper hygienic measures will make you not only look but feel that way!

Cleanliness, and the extra little gestures of elegance that our present-day civilization offers with one hand and makes compulsory with the other, and you have nothing to fear from an "unusually hot summer."

Enjoy your summer! Protect your loveliness in all of these little ways, and then spend a few weeks recovering any lost ground when you return. Thus do you pay no price in lost beauty to the seasons!

Au revoir.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES McDONALD

A Lonely Child.

DEAR Frances McDonald: I wonder if it would be possible for you, who have shown so much wisdom in solving the problems of others, to help a hopeless case like myself.

I am a girl in the early twenties, attractive, intelligent, good character, well dressed and yet lack the most important thing in life—love.

I can no longer be glad because I have the above-mentioned qualities. If I were old, an ugly duckling, ignorant, of a weak character and untidy, I could not be more miserable.

I have lived in hopes too long. Tomorrow always comes in vain.

Why should I be denied the love that is due every woman? I do not care to be a social butterfly and I am not a flirt. I just desire to give to one man all the love and devotion that is in me.

I am not a silly girl looking for a Romeo, but a women seeking the one man. I want a home and babies.

My parents died when I was young, so my life has been lacking in affection. I am starved for love. I feel as though I were dying by inches. Most of all I fear losing the best that is in me. I am desperate. Sometimes I feel as though I would throw myself at the feet of any man that would have me, at any cost.

I have no money to travel or I would do so. At my office I come in contact with only married men. I very seldom meet any single men, and feel that is the greater part of my trouble. How does one meet these extensive creatures called men?

I meet so few men that I am not the least at ease when I am in their company. How can I overcome this?

I hope you can understand this letter, even though it's all a jumble; just like my brains. I do so need your guidance, for I am, oh, so tired, mentally! I shall thank you from the bottom of my heart, if you can only help me.

"THE LAST ROSE."

Two things you should do, my dear. First, find a lively boarding house, where, at least, you will make new contacts to keep you alert and develop your personality, and second, begin taking some course of study evenings.

You have at least correctly analyzed your own case when you state your difficulty is that you do not meet men. To meet men you must know people. Most girls alone make the mistake of taking a room and eating in restaurants. You could do this for years and never meet a soul. At a boarding house there are always people going and coming, music in the evenings, usually dancing, and it costs no more than the hermit life of the furnished room and restaurant. Try several until you find one where the people are congenial. You will find men in all of them. They will do to practice on.

Now, as to the class. That is to develop you and broaden the scope of your interests and life. Men gravitate toward women who are absorbed in interests other than love—did you know that? You see, man is a jealous being by nature, and when he sees a woman wrapped up in something other than himself, he leaves no stone unturned until he has thrust himself between her and the object of her interest. Besides, the busy woman seems so safe that the weariest of bachelors is disarmed by the activities and forgets to run to cover—until it is too late. A woman may pine for love and never see love's face. But let her flee from love and he is at her heels.

Try these two experiments. You will be cheered, at least, and quite likely married before you know it.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWER TO INQUIRIES

PLEASE tell me whether a birch tree is considered hard to transplant and whether it pays to pay an extra price for balled and burlapped specimens.

MRS. JAMES K. N.

A birch tree is considered hard to transplant successfully. Never purchase such variety unless it is balled and burlapped.

Last year ants simply covered my peonies. I don't want a repetition of such trouble this year if you can tell of any way to prevent it. They even found their way into my house as the bushes are near the side door.

HELEN R. B.

If you care to write again I shall be glad to send you the name of a proprietary preparation which, if you follow the directions carefully, will soon rid your premises of ants. Please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Please tell me some variety of weeping or drooping tree besides the willow. I have two willow trees and I have places for two other trees that droop. Mrs. SETH F.

Weeping beech, Tea's weeping mulberry and Japanese weeping cherry are all desirable forms of drooping trees.

Cutworms are destroying my young seedlings. What shall I do to get rid of them? I have sprayed with tobacco, but it has no effect.

MRS. HARRY B. L.

The only practical way to get rid of cutworms is to use a poison bait. If you do not care to make a poison bait I will be glad to tell you the name of a proprietary preparation which measures up to the claims made for it. Please inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

I have treated my Easter lilly as you suggested. The leaves are all yellow and I ceased watering it several weeks ago. When shall I plant it in the open and shall I set it in the sun? Mrs. BENNY D.

Plant it in a sunny location in your garden around the end of this month.

When is the proper time to prune rambler roses? I pruned mine in April. So far they have developed no buds. Why is this? They all seem like healthy bushes.

MADGE M. K.

Rambler roses bloom on wood made the previous season and for this reason they should never be pruned until after they have bloomed. When you pruned the bushes in the spring you likely moved the blooming wood.

What Today Means

"GEMINI."

IF May 28 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:15 a. m. to 10:45 a. m., from 2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m., and from 10 p. m. to 11:20 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8:15 p. m.

Curiously upsetting astrological influences will affect both your mental and material life on May 28. It will be a day of half results, incomplete joys and threatened misfortunes. Musicians and writers are amongst the favored, and they may expect to have their creative powers enhanced.

The little girl born on this May 28 will have a frank, delightful, fun-loving nature; the boy an original, puckish personality. Both sexes will seem to resent babyhood, and will be unusually old and wise for their years. They will always be ready to meet peace and harmony half way.

Born on May 28 there are few destructive forces in your nature, and you are full of creative ideas and energy. An aura of tranquil benevolence and common sense radiates from your individuality. You are useful, sympathetic and optimistic; equipped, as it were to give manual, spiritual and mental assistance where it is needed. You are not a man or woman of straw. You are not afraid to roll up your sleeves, or to dirty your skirts, if need be, for the sake of some cause. As long as your motives are free from dishonesty or filth, you care little for appearances.

Your disposition is not all milk and honey, and your pockets are full of tone, ready to be thrown at hypocrites, snobs and bullies. Your tongue can be either tart or tender, and you do not hesitate to speak up for yourself or another. You do not always follow a safety-first policy, and enjoy risking a gamble now and then. Your luck will about break even.

You make endless friends, but like all positive people, have your enemies, too. You take an active stand for what you believe, regardless of popular feeling or opinions. If you be a man, your real talents will probably not be recognized until you are nearing the "thirties," but you will eventually land where you belong. The Stars say "lucky in love."

Successful people born on May 28:

Louis McLane, Secretary of Treasury under Jackson.

Nathaniel Chapman, founded Medical Institute of Philadelphia.

Jean Louis R. Agassiz, naturalist.

Daniel L. Braine, rear admiral.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

AN ACCOUNT of The Withers, $25,000 race for three-year-olds over a one-mile course at Belmont Park, N. Y., will be broadcast by Thomas B. George, turf commentator, beginning at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon over WMAL.

The first of a series of six recitals of Armenian music, by the Armenian National Musical Society, under the direction of Grikor Suni, will be heard tonight (WMAL, 8:15 o'clock). Among the artists who will appear on the broadcasts will be Suni, conductor-director; Marie Arakian, soprano; Henri Narcissian, tenor, and Florence Der Mateosin, pianist.

The program will consist entirely of the works of Suni, who studied under Rimsky-Korsakoff at the Imperial Conservatory of Leningrad. Among the numbers to be broadcast will be "Hoontzk," a selection descriptive of peasant life in Armenia; "Gakav Terav," a composition based on the plaintive call of the mating bird, and "Alakiaz," the song which won the first prize at the Boston International Music Contest.

Student singers of Bonn University, Germany, will be heard in a program of chorales, folk songs and German student songs this afternoon (WMAL, 1:30 o'clock). The singers, conducted by Johannes Lieske, will broadcast direct from the university in the German city, distinguished as the birthplace of the famous composer, Ludwig Beethoven.

EDUCATORS to be successful at the microphone must disregard many pedagogical practices which have been developed for decades, according to Levering Tyson, director of the National Advisory Council on Radio in Education. Transferring a classroom lecture to the air has been found the least effective and most unsatisfactory procedure in educational broadcasting.

"The educational broadcaster must not only attract his audience to him in the first place, but he must do what the commercial broadcaster has learned so clearly; he must hold his audience," said Mr. Tyson. "He will find, however, that if he can get the American public, or even a section of it, to listen it will be worth the effort."

Five series of educational programs on the subject of economics, psychology, vocational guidance, civics and labor have been broadcast and the public has responded to the extent of purchasing at cost nearly a quarter of a million copies of the printed material prepared to accompany these series.

"The question of financial support for educational broadcasting is no nearer solution than it ever was," said Mr. Tyson. "Costs are exceedingly heavy and stagger the uninitiated. How are these enormous costs to be met in America if educational broadcasting is to be developed and persist?

"It is hardly conceivable that private funds can be secured to develop a well-rounded program of educational broadcasting. It is not likely that a proposal that the industry should support educational broadcasting would receive much response. There is about as much likelihood that support should or could be secured from our Federal Government for this purpose. This question remains the most elusive and puzzling in educational broadcasting."

"NOT all of the bad news that concerns this hectic old world is printed on the front page," writes a reader. "I found a small item in your column that caused me real sadness. Is it really true that we shall no longer be able to hear the lovely, soothing Slumber Hour?

"It will surely make the depression harder to face each morning if we can no longer have the beautiful strains of the Slumber Hour music at night to help us forget the stress and struggle of life all day! For what quieting comfort can be derived out of the now prevalent commercial programs, with longwinded, tiresome advertising announcements, the throb and shrieking of the savage-like jazz—crooners sobbing to 'take all of me?' Can anything be more harassing to a public with nerves already frazzled from the wear and tear of the day?"

While the old Slumber Hour, as conducted by Ludwig Laurier, will be ended tonight, a new series of late evening concerts will begin on Monday night, under the direction of Cesare Sodero. The concerts will be heard over the WJZ network from 10:15 until 11 o'clock every evening except Wednesdays and Sundays. WRC will take as many of these broadcasts as it is possible for them to work in their present schedule. Only the higher type of orchestral music will be played by Mr. Sodero during this period.

A ballet suite, "Sold Down the River," will be performed in full for the first time by Clara Ross and Alice Griselle, concert pianists, over the air today (WMAL, 12:45 p. m.). The suite, written by Eastwood Lane, assistant director of the Wanamaker Auditorium, was originally composed for Ted Shawn and the Denishawn dancers. It is descriptive of the plight of the plantation negro during the days of slavery, when the most harrowing fear in the minds of the slaves was that of being "sold down the river." It will be presented with symphony orchestra next fall by Ferde Grofe.

The Chautauqua Opera Hour, under the direction of Albert Stoessel, will be heard for the first time this season today over WRC. The series will be similar to the Chautauqua programs heard over N. B. C. last year. Artists summering at the resort will be featured in the operatic programs.

Included in the first program will be numbers by Marion Selee, contralto; Willard Young, tenor; Warren Lee, tenor; Florence Vickland, soprano, and Ruby Mercer, soprano.

Senator Hiram Bingham, Republican, of Connecticut, will discuss "The Pending Tax Bill" over WMAL tonight. An authority on tax matters, Senator Bingham is a member of the Senate finance committee which framed the legislation now before the Senate.

Last week the bill was discussed by Senator Pat Harrison, Democrat, of Mississippi, also a member of the finance committee.

EDDIE EAST (reading newspaper)—Here's a college professor who says a mosquito can fly fourteen hours without settling.

Ralph Dumke (the other Sister of the Skillet)—Omigosh! Then why does it stop so often to put in its bill?

Lutherans to Hear Dr. W. L. Darby.

Dr. W. L. Darby, executive secretary of the Federation of Churches, will preach Sunday morning in the Lutheran Church of the Reformation in the absence of the pastor, Dr. John Weidley. His subject will be "The Leadership Our Day Demands."

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ELMER TWITCHELL TAKES ISSUE WITH AN OCEAN FLIER.

("My real purpose in making the flight was to stop those mean things men say about women airplane pilots and automobile drivers. When there is a traffic jam in Fifth avenue men always say, 'Oh, it's a woman driver!'" —Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam.)

DEAR MRS. PUTNAM: Well, I don't know anything about women airplane pilots as I have never flown behind one, but I am afraid your heroic flight will have been in vain if the idea was to show that women drivers of automobiles are above criticism. Even if you flew two planes abreast, one upside down, from New York to Cairo with your eyes blindfolded, I would still insist that once you put the average woman at the wheel of a motor car she becomes incompetent, irresponsible and thoroughly unreliable.

* * * *

There is something about the temperament of females that makes it impossible for them to become good auto drivers. For one thing, they regard a horn blown from behind them as a personal insult, and will not move off the middle of the highway under any circumstance. Now and then a man will interpret a horn as a hint that he is hogging the road, but a woman? Never!

* * * *

Another thing about women drivers is that when driving automobiles they consider themselves vested with the same rights and freedom as chickens, humming birds and pigeons, as far as sudden turns are concerned, and will never give a signal until after the collision. And as for stopping, they will jam on the brakes whenever the impulse seizes them.

* * * *

I have driven my boiler clear through the rear end of flivvers operated by women drivers before getting their signal that they were about to stop, and in one instance we had both landed in a distant field together before the lady indicated her intentions. Even then I couldn't understand her.

* * * *

What you should admit, Mrs. Putnam, is that airplane travel offers no test. It demonstrates courage and the ability to keep headed the right way, but there is no traffic congestion. Before I will concede that women make better drivers than men I want to see one driving a plane when the air is full of machines going to a picnic, a bridge party or a rummage sale.

And what is more important, I want to see the said plane when there is more than one woman in it. When a woman drives an auto alone she is not so bad. It is when she has a neighbor with her and is chinning about the latest community gossip that she is really dangerous.

* * * *

Complimenting you on your epic flight and assuring you of my best wishes, I am, sincerely yours,

ELMER TWITCHELL.

THE SPIRIT OF ADVENTURE.

Ending Necking Party Costs Father $25 Fine

Danville, Va., May 27 (A.P.).—It cost a father $25 today for breaking up a necking party in which his daughter was one of the participants.

The father, Police Detective W. C. Talley, who said he found his daughter, Mrs. Mildred Talley Brown, and Raymond Millner, 23, in a parked automobile at 11 p. m. Sunday, beat Millner with his fist. As a result he was found guilty of assault and fined in police court today. Mrs. Brown is separated from her husband.

Bishop DuBose Hits Modification.

Memphis, Tenn., May 27 (A.P.).—Bishop Horace M. Dubose, of the Methodist Church South, told his followers today he would turn his back on "the Angel Gabriel" if he should favor resubmission of the prohibition issue, to say nothing of a Democratic wet candidate. Addressing a church conference, he declared he would like to vote for the Democratic party, but would not cast his ballot for any candidate who favors modification of the eighteenth amendment.

Bible Class Plans Tomb Pilgrimage

Calvary Baptist Group to Honor Founder, Francis Vaughn.

In accordance with an annual custom, members and friends of the Vaughn Bible Class of Men of Calvary Baptist Church Sunday School will make a pilgrimage tomorrow morning, at 8 o'clock, to the grave, Rock Creek Cemetery, of Comdr. Francis W. Vaughn, founder of the class, who died in 1913.

Accompanied by Mrs. Mercer, daughter of Mr. Vaughn, and Dr. E. C. Rice, one of the original number of five men who was a member when the class started in February, 1889, the men of the class will carry flowers to the grave and hold an impressive memorial service. Comdr. Vaughn really pioneered the men's Bible class movement in the District of Columbia.

The service will be in charge of Freeman N. Stricklin, president of the class, and Linn C. Drake, its present teacher, who succeeded the late Dr. Homer J. Councilor. The group afterward, as is the usual custom, will adjourn to the nearby grave of the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Greene, late pastor of the church, and place floral tributes there also.

Patriotic Day Is Slated At First Congregational

Tomorrow is Patriotic Day at the First Congregational Church, Tenth and G streets, northwest, the church of civic history and of President Coolidge. Dr. Stockdale will be in his pulpit, preaching both morning and evening.

Tourists love to visit old First Church on their stay in Washington. The friendly vestibule after the services records visitors from all over the United States and across the seas. The A Capella Choir is famous for its matchless music.

So near the Memorial Day, Dr. Stockdale's subjects "America's Best" and 'Foes Within a Nation," for the 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. services, respectively, are highly appropriate.

Church Official Board Will Meet on Monday

The Rev. S. Carroll Coale, pastor of Brightwood Park Methodist Church, will preach tomorrow morning on "Helping the Church to Win."

The May meeting of the official board and the adjourned meeting of the quarterly conference will take place on Monday evening.

NEW 'FREE CHURCH' HAS 2 HOUSES HERE

Merger of Universalists and Unitarians Formally Approved.

A new church in the United States! It is to be formed by a certain union of the Unitarian Church and the Universalist Church, each of which has a large congregation and an imposing house of worship in Washington. The new body will be named "The Free Church of America."

At a meeting of the American Unitarian Association, held in Boston the last week, the plan of union was formally approved. The union in the beginning provides for cooperative effort in certain specific directions. The probability is that it will later be made more definite and finally attain to organic union.

The Unitarian Church has long had a congregation here. In the days when John Quincy Adams was in the White House the church was located on Four-and-a-half street, and its minister, the celebrated Dr. Little, was the most eloquent minister here and one of the most powerful and pleasing pulpit orators in the East.

Dr. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, the present Unitarian minister, has been in Washington for more than a generation. His monument is the stately colonial edifice on Sixteenth street and Columbia road, one of the handsomest and most frequently admired examples of ecclesiastical architecure in the Nation's Capital.

The Universalist Church is of later origin in this city. It, too, has a very beautiful church on Sixteenth street, the tower of bells, named for Owen D. Young, being the effective part of the architecture. Its minister is Dr. Frederick W. Perkins, who has served his congregation for a number of years. Dr. Perkins' church has a large choir, directed by Dr. Albert W. Harned, which is one of the foremost musical organizations in the city.

Both churches have fine organs and pay a lot of attention to music of the better sort. The 5 o'clock organ recitals at the Unitarian Church are regular Sunday afternoon affairs, at which some of the best soloists in the city appear. The programs cover a wide range of the best music.

In honor of the recent union, Dr. Perkins, minister of the Universalist Church, will preach at the All Souls' Unitarian Church tomorrow morning.

Dr. Pierce, the minister of All Souls', will preach at the Universalist Church in the morning.

Cuban Episcopal Bishop to Preach

Right Rev. Hiram R. Hulse to Speak at Christ Church Tomorrow Morning.

The Right Rev. Hiram R. Hulse, D. D., Episcopal missionary bishop of Cuba, will preach at Christ Church, Sixth and G streets southeast, at 11 a. m. tomorrow, and at St. Mark's Church, Third and A streets southeast, at 8 p. m.

Bishop Hulse is especially interested in educational problems in Cuba, which stands in the relation of an adopted daughter of the American people. Through the peculiar circumstances of Cuba's early history, practically all her industries—the railroads, banks, mercantile interests and the great sugar industries—are under the control of foreigners, leaving nothing to the growing youth of the island but a political career, which is not especially promising at the present time.

Education alone will remedy the situation, and Bishop Hulse is striving to build up in the interior of the island educatonal institutions which will not only train Cuban youth for an intelligent activity in politics, but will also rear a generation of Cubans equipped to play their part in the commercial future of the island republic.

"What Is Man?" Listed For Georgetown Church

The Rev. Frank S. Niles, pastor of the Georgetown Presbyterian Church, will preach at the 11 o'clock service tomorrow morning on the topic: "What Is Man?" There also will be a children's story-sermon that will be appropriate. The evening service at 7:30 will be in the charge of Robert Hulburt and the topic will be: "Why Should We Pray?"

On Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the midweek service, Mr. Niles will give a talk on: "The Message of the Second Book of Samuel."

Memorial Services Set For Mrs. H. S. Irwin

The Woman's Council of the Washington Federation of Churches is arranging for a memorial service for Mrs. Harvey S. Irwin, its former president, who died early in April. At the time of her death Mrs. Irwin was the president of the council, as she had been since its organization about eight years ago.

A special committee is now at work on the program for this occasion. The main address will be delivered by Dr. J. R. Sizoo. The service will be held on Thursday, June 9, at 2:30 p. m., in the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Christian Science Churches

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist tomorrow. The Golden Text is from Proverbs 14:22: "Do they not err that devise evil? but mercy and truth shall be to them that devise good."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Blessed is he that considereth the poor; the Lord will deliver him in time of trouble. The Lord will preserve him, and keep him alive; and he shall be blessed upon the earth: and thou wilt not deliver him unto the will of his enemies." (Psalms 41:1,2).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Text Book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "In Science, you can have no power opposed to God, and the physical senses must give up their false testimony. Your influence for good depends upon the weight you throw into the right scale. The good you do and embody gives you the only power obtainable. Evil is not power. It is a mockery of strength, which erelong betrays its weakness and falls, never to rise." (Page 192).

Baptists Encouraged On Group's Finances

Reports at the meetings of the Columbia Association of Baptist Churches of Washington and vicinity, held during the last week at Calvary Baptist Church, were encouraging especially from a financial point of view. Nearly all the churches have paid their missionary apportionments and have a balance in their treasuries. The program was a strong one throughout and was highly inspirational to the large number of delegates in attendance.

Next year it is now expected that the large conventions—the Northern and Southern—will hold their annual meetings in Washington. This will bring thousands of Baptists here from home and distant lands.

Several of the old songs will be used. The subject of the sermon by Dr. W. A. Shelton, the pastor, will be "Crowns of Glory."

At the evening service, at which a special welcome will be extended to those recently joining the church, Dr. Shelton will preach on "Springtime and Harvest." It is a custom at this church to serve tea in the parlors following the evening service, to increase the acquaintance and fellowship among the membership of the church and congregation. Some of the older members will form a receiving line to extend a welcome to the new members at the tea tomorrow evening.

Dr. Shelton's Bible study class, regularly scheduled for Monday evenings, will not meet next week, owing to the holiday.

Canadian Isolates Pure Sex Hormone

Great Step in Chemistry of Life Is Acclaimed by Scientists.

Ottawa, Ontario, May 27 (A.P.).—Dr. J. B. Collip, of McGill University, Montreal, announced to the Royal Society of Canada here today the isolation of a sex hormone in pure form. It was described as a great advance in the chemistry of life and was acclaimed by many biologists in attendance.

Hormones are the secretions of ductless glands. They are health regulators and include control over sexual developments.

Dr. Collip's announcement came during his presidential address to the biological sciences section of the Royal Society. He described the progress of this work, which has been conducted over a period of years by a group of young scientists at McGill University, headed by himself. The hormone just isolated in its pure form, ordinarily comes from the placenta and is particularly valuable to women during pregnancy.

"AS YOU DESIRE ME." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of the stage play by Luigi Pirandello, adapted to the screen by Gene Markey, starring Greta Garbo, with Melvyn Douglas, Erich Von Stroheim and Owen Moore. Directed by George Fitzmaurice. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Without the vividness and strength of the Garbo personality to buoy it to an interesting and sometimes exciting pitch, this somewhat abstruse love story of Luigi Pirandello's weaving would fall something short of engrossing entertainment. To the central character, however, this oddly endowed actress brings a warmth, a conviction and a power that manage to engender sympathetic interest and imbue the piece with a greater degree of fascination than it had upon the stage.

Pirandello has founded his drama upon the premise that it is easier to doubt than to believe and that true love can only be realized through faith. As the implements of his demonstration, the author has chosen a young count of high rank in the Italian army who has not seen his wife since the debacle of the invasion by a ravaging foe in the period of the war. A close friend believes that he has discovered the countess who so mysteriously dropped from the face of the earth when her home was made a shambles, singing in a public cabaret in Budapest. Invading the "home" she shares with a dissolute novelist, Tony succeeds in extricating the woman who has ostensibly been masquerading as "Zara" from the life she has indiscriminately shared with men from all strata of society.

She is accepted in the home of Count Bruno as his wife, yet there is always doubt in the minds of her former servants and even her sister that she really is the supposedly dead Maria. The nebulous relationship between the restored chatelaine of the estate and those by whom she is surrounded in the new life is never made definitely and unequivocally clear. It is sufficient in the mind of the playwright that a perfect love should develop between Zara—or Maria, if you will—and Bruno. There are, of course, complicating circumstances that kindle the smouldering fear that, after all, Zara may not be Maria. We never really know. All of which we can be positive is that Maria, or Zara, succeeded in making herself, as she told her lord and master she would be "as you desire me."

This enigmatic young woman is one to whom Garbo's own inscrutability lends itself naturally. From the gay coquette of the opening scenes, intent only upon consuming large quantities of champagne and eluding the intimate attentions of as many men as possible, to the eager and responsive matron intent upon achieving an earnest purpose in an opulent and well-ordered home is a transition that the star makes with as much ease and naturalness as the transformation in viewpoint and mood that marks her performance as Grusinskaya, the dancer, in "Grand Hotel." It is not her gayest or most profoundly impressive role, but it marks no appreciable recession from her accustomed eminence.

Three actors of worth support the star in this subject—Melvyn Douglas, who offers a sincere and intelligent portrayal of the harassed young count; Owen Moore, who reappears after a considerable absence from roles of importance as the articulate and amusing friend of the family, Tony, and Erich Von Stroheim, as Salter, the profligate writer, who seemed to me thoroughly commonplace for the first time in his life. Hedda Hopper, Rafaela Ottiano, Warburton Gamble and William Ricciardi are among those of consequence in the cast.

The principal auxiliary feature of the bill is an intermittently funny Charley Chase comedy, "The Nickel Nurser," in which Thelma Todd is conspicuously in evidence as the principal victim of an efficiency expert's domestic revolution.

A program upon which only Garbo matters is completed by a new issue of the Hearst Metrotone News and a "Scrappy" cartoon comedy, "Stepping Stones."

COLUMBIA

"GRAND HOTEL." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of the novel and play by Vicki Baum, adapted to the screen by William A. Drake, with all-star cast, headed by Greta Garbo, John Barrymore, Joan Crawford, Wallace Beery, Lionel Barrymore, Lewis S. Stone, Jean Hersholt, Robert McWade, Purnell Pratt and Tully Marshall. Directed by Edmund Goulding. Two performances daily; three on Sunday. All seats reserved.

Strengthening its claim to a place among the foremost photodramatic productions of all time, this distinguished film rendering of the novel and play by Vicki Baum enters its third week with public interest in its absorbing story and incomparable cast undiminished.

The skill with which the major episodes of the printed story have been translated to the screen reflects high credit upon the directorial acumen of Edmund Goulding and his deft handling of one of the most brilliant casts ever assembled for a single picture. Add to this the matchless settings devised by Cedric Gibbons and the incomparable photography achieved by William Daniels and you have a picture that has never been surpassed in any of its visual aspects.

There is scant need to dwell at this juncture upon the superlative merits of a cast that includes such consummate artists as Greta Garbo, John Barrymore, Joan Crawford, Wallace Beery, Lionel Barrymore, Lewis S. Stone, Jean Hersholt, Robert McWade, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Rafaela Ottiano and scores more of Hollywood's notables. Interest, of course, will center in Garbo's impersonation of Grusinskaya, the dancer; John Barrymore's Baron von Gaigern; Lionel's Kringelein, one of the greatest pieces of character acting the screen—or the stage either for that matter—has known; Miss Crawford Flaemmchen and Beery's Preysing, the futile industrial magnate who, in the end is hoist by his own petard, but no role fairs badly at the hands of so eminent a roster.

Not to have seen "Grand Hotel" is to admit a flagrant indifference to the cinema's most convincing evidence of its greatness. N. B. B.

Cyclone Kills 11 in India.

Calicut, Madras, India, May 27 (A.P.).—Eleven persons were killed and around $100,000 damage was done by a cyclone today which swept a 60-mile wide swath through the countryside in this section of the district of Malabar.

4 Stowaways Nearly Starve.

Falmouth, England, May 27 (U.P.). The veteran sailing ship Herzogin Cecilie arrived from Port Augusta, South Australia, today with "four absolutely starving towaways." Capt. Sven Ericksson said the ship made the trip in 107 days.

METROPOLITAN

"SO BIG." Warner Brothers picturization of Edna Ferber's novel of the same name, adapted to the screen by J. Grub Alexander and Robert Lord, starring Barbara Stanwyck with Dick Winslow, Bette Davis and George Brent. Directed by William Wellman. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

This picture strikingly presents all of its Pulitzer prize possibilities without, sadly enough, realizing many of them.

For Edna Ferber's compelling story moves along without aid of inspired direction or acting, regardless of vague adaptation, over great lapses of time which leave questions in the air. It holds your interest only to the extent of probably making you want much more of "So Big" than you have here.

Skipping, of course, is necessary in the story of a lifetime and for the first half of the picture this business of omission is rather neatly managed; but when it jumps from a young widow with a baby of 3 or 4 to a gray-haired, successful woman and her grown son, it's a bit of a tax on the imagination. There is also much guessing to be done about what manner of people these are, so objectively are they presented. Director Wellman may tell you once in a while, but rarely shows you what is going on inside their minds and hearts.

Selina Peake, first met as a little girl in the stiff dresses of the 80's, dining with her gambler father in the Palmer House, of Chicago, loses that father, becomes a country school teacher, farmer's wife and drudge, mother of little Dirk (So-big), struggling widow, then successful grower of asparagus, "the new vegetable," over which she was exclaiming at that first dinner with her Dad—all without losing her ideas of beauty.

However, as here presented:

If you haven't read the book, you'll want to know why Selina married Pervus, why she didn't want her boy to be a farmer, what her farm meant to her to hold her a lifetime, &c.

If you have read the book, you're going to wonder just why so much of importance is left up in the air, and you're going to wish for more inspired playing of your favorite characters.

Barbara Stanwyck's Selina is lovely to look upon as a young girl, rather graceful and moving as an older woman, and a nice departure from her usual roles, yet withal a creation seemingly pretty near the surface. (Colleen Moore was a trifle incongruous but rather good as Selina in the silents, remember?)

Really excellent performances are turned in by Dick Winslow as a neighbor's 14-year-old worshiping boy, Roelf, to whom Selina shows beauty; and by Bette Davis, as a modern young artist, friend of Selina's son, and very like Selina in her brisker, more outspoken way. George Brent in two brief scenes, as Roelf grown up to manhood, repeats the very pleasant impression made in "The Rich Are Always With Us." And our old friend Robert Warwick makes a short but beautifully spoken appearance as Gambler Simeon Peake.

Others who help are the adorable Dickey Moore, Hardie Albright, as the grown-up Dirk; Alan Hale, Earle Foxe and Dorothy Peterson.

Particularly well staged and cleverly directed are the scenes in the home of Klass Pool, where Selina boards while teaching school at High Prairie.

RKO-KEITH'S

"RADIO PATROL." Universal presentation of a screen story by Tom Reed, featuring Robert Armstrong, Russell Hopton, Andy Devine and Lila Lee. Directed by Edward Cahn. "THE FIVE-YEAR PLAN—RUSSIA'S REMAKING." Amkino Production's travelogue of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics' commercial and agricultural development. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

The latest development in criminal detection and apprehension—the short-wave radio—here comes into its own as a raison d'etre of film drama. "Radio Patrol" presents a most interesting phase of police work—interesting not only in the material with which the picture is concerned but in plot treatment as well.

Bill Kennedy and Pat Bourke join the police force and on the day they get their badges, Bill meets Pat's girl, Sue, and immediately proceeds to preempt any earlier claim on the girl's affections. He is successful—but in spite of that, the two get along well in their cruising car No. 32. A gang war breaks out in the stockyard district and car 32 is sent, among others, to quell the disturbance. On the way, Bill admits the taking of a "couple of grand" to stay away from that section, but duty calls and they respond. In the meantime (following an increasing habit of late) Sue is in a maternity hospital. During the ensuing battle, Bill is badly wounded, but manages to hear the radio broadcast of the advent of his son.

Put in cold type, the story does not look so hot, yet as it is unreeled from the opening practice battle, staged on heroic proportions, to the concluding scenes with Pat putting the quietus on public enemy No. umsteen with a stockyards stunning sledge, the picture is filled with action teeming with dramatic tenseness, admirably counterpointed with restrained comedy and love interest. It is to be regretted that the exegencies of the situation demanded the erasure of gangling Andy Devine and the genial John L. Johnson, but while they were on the scene they acquitted themselves nobly.

Robert Armstrong, as Bill, and Russell Hopton, as Pat, are well cast, and turn in especially good delineations. Harry Woods, as the gangster's right-hand man, is sufficiently oily and treacherous. Sidney Toler and Joe Girard are excellent as the sergeant and captain of police. The distaff side of the cast is distinguished by Lila Lee, as Sue, and June Clyde, as Vern.

Cofeaturing the program is "The Five-Year Plan—Russia's Remaking," a highly diverting and informative pictorial discussion of the advances the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics along agricultural and commercial (especially hydroelectrical), lines. Though there may be an honest doubt in the minds of some people as to the efficacy of the Soviet Union's plan, either in conception or execution, there can be no gainsaying the fact that here is the most gigantic sociological and economic experiment ever conducted by man. The great divergence in peoples and in topography are eloquently presented, adding more wonder that such a project could have been conceived and that the span from 1928 to 1933 could have resulted in such almost incredible advances.

Supplementing the two features are "Pots and Pans," an animated Tom and Jerry cartoon; a celluloid organlogue with Don Wallace at the console, Norman Brokenshire announcing and "Street-Singer" Arthur Tracy singing, and a release of Pathe News.

LOEW'S FOX

"SOCIETY GIRL." Fox picturization of the play by John Larkin and Charles Beahs, with dialogue and adaptation by themselves, featuring James Dunn, Peggy Shannon and Spencer Tracy. Directed by Sidney Lanfield. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Except, perhaps, that it bears a trifle too close resemblance to "The Big Timer," in which Ben Lyon was seen on the same screen not so long ago, this is an interesting, well acted and well made film fable of high society and the prize ring. It affords splendid opportunities for at least three members of the cast—James Dunn, Peggy Shannon and Spencer Tracy, although not necessarily in the order named.

While purportedly the pivotal figure of the play's developments, Jimmy Dunn, as the contender for the middleweight championship who is deflected from his major enterprise by the charms of a pert and persuasive young millionairess, contributes a character study that is more believable to the ear than to the eye. His lines are completely in character and he speaks them with disarming naturalness, but if he was the middleweight contender, he was the softest and flabbiest aspirant for pugilistic honors that ever entered the squared circle. A double chin, even!

Peggy Shannon, in the title role, on the other hand, offers an alert, vivacious and enjoyable performance that rather surpasses anything she has previously done for the cameras and microphones in authenticity and charm. But when all is said and done, it is Spencer Tracy who walks away with the acting honors of the film in a role that is by no means the "fattest" of the three. Merely the best.

The story is the one every tried and true moviegoer already knows—promising ring career, engagement at a smart party on the Gelett's Long Island estate, a bit of banter with the hostess, infatuation on both sides, broken training, lost fight, recriminations, reconciliation and a return bout with the champion in the offing. You know the formula by heart.

The action is punctuated with glimpses of life at opposite extremes of the social scale, lively dialogue, sprightly diversions that do not seriously interrupt the drama's major movement and teasing and torrid music. It is "good audience" all the way and obviously pleased yesterday afternoon's first crowd. Walter Byron, Marjorie Gateson and Bert Hanlon lead the supporting ensemble which grows to the proportions of a Madison Square Garden capacity house on occasion.

The stage portion of the bill is alive with vibrant personalities. Foremost among them, of course, is Johnny Weissmuller, world's champion swimmer and recent star of "Tarzan, the Ape Man," who makes his first entrance in the leopard-skin breech-clout he affected in that jungle jamboree and then changes to conventional swimming togs for an exhibition of his famous strokes in a tank of meager dimensions. The stage revue in which he participates is appropriately called, "Dive In" and features also as an aquatic star, Madeline Berlo, fancy diver, and four red-clad mermaids who likewise splash about gracefully but briefly.

Wesley Eddy, resident master of ceremonies, and Jack Pepper, traveling in the same capacity with the unit, both divide and combine honors, if you know what I mean. Each does his own specialty—Jack assisted by a pair of musical clowns new to Washington audiences—they sing a chorus or two together, wisecrack at each other and seem to have as much fun as they afford those out front. They are a smash hit, singly and en masse!

Also garnering their share of applause are Mack, Harold and Bobby, two boys and a girl, in tricky dances, acrobatics and tumbling—all in perfect rhythm—and the Chester Hale girls, who appear in a number of colorful and picturesque routines.

Phil Lampkin and the orchestra score another triumphant hit with a medley overture of wartime melodies covering the Republic's periods of belligerency beginning in 1776, 1862, 1898 and 1917, palpably prompted by the imminence of Memorial Day. This number is lent a patriotic pictorial quality by inspiring scenes thrown on the stage drapes.

The Fox Movietone News completes a fast-moving and frolicsome bill of vim, vigor and variety!

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THE establishment of a continuous vaudeville policy at the RKO-Palace Theater in New York has revived a demand for that most lowly of the theater's commodities, a "chaser" act. Probably few of the present generation of vaudeville attendants have the remotest idea of what a "chaser" act is. Those whose recollections date back to the old continuous days of the ten-twent-thirt era, when such names as Tony Pastor, Kohl and Castle, Oscar Hammerstein and other pioneers in the varieties were either fragrant memories or then-present actualities, will be left in no such quandary.

Under the continuous plan of presenting vaudeville, it is necessary to empty the house more frequently than when a two-a-day policy is in operation. If the show is too good, patrons will sit through two or more performances, just as they do through many of the better picture programs. So a few poor acts are booked for each bill to drive the laggards out of the house and thus make way for new customers and increased revenues at the box office. These are the "chaser" acts, sometimes known as "supper" acts.

In the old days of the Kohl and Castle houses out in Chicago, where your reporter was inducted into the vagaries of continuous vaudeville, there was no cessation in entertainment from 11:30 a. m. to 11:30 p. m., which is to say that something was going on up there on that stage every minute of a twelve-hour day, whether it could be conscientiously denominated entertainment or not. It worked like this: Usually sixteen acts were on the bill. At 11:30 a. m. the "chaser" acts would open and run until about 1 p. m. Then they would start over again and the bill would run off its entire sixteen turns, taking until about 5 o'clock, whereupon the "supper" acts would come on again. In the neighborhood of 7 o'clock the entire sixteen-act bill would be begun and run through uninterruptedly again—thus making four shows a day for the "chasers" and two for the big-time fellows.

It hasn't quite reached that stage at the Palace in New York, but an intensive search has been instituted for at least a few acts that can be utilized for the purposes of the old-time audience runner outers!

The only trouble is that vaudeville has progressed to a point of such high excellence that "chaser" acts are difficult to find. Since acrobats and gymnasts have become the show-stoppers of the stage bills in the picture houses, they can not be inveigled into the tough spot; animal acts aren't so numerous as they once were and too many people enjoy them, anyway; contortionists are few and far between nowadays, so altogether the all shoddy and not a yard wide "chaser" acts seem to be about extinct and the Palace is wondering what is going to be done about it.

I should say don't worry. As vaudeville comes back, so will they.

Speaking of old times—and I can't imagine what else we have been doing—Phil Lampkin's medley overture of martial airs at Loew's Fox this week will be agreeably reminiscent to many in the audiences;

For instance, in the melodies associated with the Spanish War era of 1898 was Paul Dresser's song hit, "The Blue and the Gray." It hasn't been heard in these parts in years and didn't occasion a ripple of individual applause yesterday afternoon, although it is still one of the most infectious tunes and in one of the most inspiring tempos ever written.

It was Paul Dresser, it will be recalled, who gave the stage the beautiful young singer who later became known as one of the most capable comediennes of either the stage or screen—Louise Dresser, whose name you have probably so often confused with Marie Dressler's.

When an unknown young woman presented herself before the most prolific and most popular song writer of his day and did one or two of his numbers for him, he was so impressed that he at once set about getting her professional recognition. To expedite matters, Paul Dresser introduced his new-found protege as a niece by the name of Louise Dresser—which, of course, was not her name at all.

However, it got her the job and you know the rest, although by this time you may have forgotten that she was the first Mrs. Jack Norworth.

In leading his overtures, Phil Lampkin may go through a lot of musically meaningless callisthenics, but he has the most graceful hands that have ever waved from a conductor's stand in the National Capital. Oh, very well, watch and see for yourself, then!

A sudden switch in bookings has deleted the M-G-M screen version of Eugene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude," with Norma Shearer and Clark Gable in the principal roles, as the attraction to follow Greta Garbo's "As You Desire Me" at Loew's Palace. Fredric March and Sylvia Sidney will occupy the screen there instead, beginning next Friday, in "Merrily We Go to Hell," a title which at least expounds a peculiarly optimistic sort of pessimism.

They may throw knives at each other backstage for all I know, but Wesley Eddy and Jack Pepper, both Washington favorites, make a great team when they get out there together behind those footlights at the Fox this week in the "Dive In" stage revue. And they share equally in the applause, according to my racket-ometer.

In case you hadn't quite made up your mind where you got those sniffles, the cooling plants in all the downtown, first-run houses were given a good workout yesterday and some of them got just a bit out of control. The back of my neck is still slightly frost bitten!

Glancing back to the paragraph about Phil Lampkin's hands reminds me that the most awkward ones that have been on view for some time are owned by Owen Moore playing Tony, with Greta Garbo at the Palace. This facile comedian reads his lines like a gentleman and a scholar, but he gesticulates with all of the easy grace of a Karl Dane or a Primo Carnera. What have you got those coat pockets for, fella?

It was a tough race, getting the lawn sprinkled before it rained yesterday, but I managed it!

4 OF 10 AUTO DEATHS AT LIGHTED CORNERS

Glassford Orders Closer Enforcement of Rules on Signal Obedience.

Stringent enforcement of regulations governing nonobservance of traffic signal lights was ordered yesterday by Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, police superintendent, after examination of statistics indicating that out of ten traffic fatalities during April, four occurred at light-controlled intersections.

Citing the report, Glassford said, "This clearly indicates that there is a disregard of traffic signal lights * * *" He told the force in a written order that "this very important violation of the regulations" should be given extra attention.

The police chief instructed personnel that in cases where immediate contact with the operator of a machine violating the light regulations is impossible, the tag number should be noted and proper police action taken.

Besides the ten persons killed in April, the survey revealed that 409 persons received injuries during the month.

Garner Applauds 'Throwing Bricks'

Tells Yale Daily News That Criticism of Congress Is Healthy Sign.

New Haven, Conn., May 27 (A.P.).—Bricks may be a bother to some, but Speaker John N. Garner terms them a "healthy sign."

"The country is throwing a lot of bricks at us, but I don't mind that a bit," the Speaker, one of the three leading candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination, said in an interview published today in the Yale Daily News.

"Do you know, I always have loved a good fight, and so all of the cartoons, editorials, letters and word of mouth attacks don't bother me. They rather please me. It's a healthy sign when people take so much interest in the affairs of the country."

There is one thing that does bother him, the Speaker said, and that is the large amount of "personal" mail he receives.

Garner's advice to young men is "get the best possible education and then go in for work they really like."

Veteran, Believed Dead 16 Years, on Way Home

Edingen, Baden, Germany, May 27 (A.P.).—Oscar Daubmann, 36, German war veteran, who for sixteen years has been believed dead and whose name is engraved on a monument to the World War dead here, has written his aged parents that he has arrived at Palermo, Italy, alive and well.

He said after sustaining serious wounds in the battle of the Somme in 1916 he tried to escape from a French war prison, was caught and deported to Africa, whence he now has reached Palermo. The German consul at Naples confirmed the story when Daubmann's parents believed they were being made victims of a hoax.

1,000,000 Barrels Oil Bought for Navy's Use

(Associated Press.)

The Navy Department yesterday awarded contracts for approximately 1,000,000 barrels of fuel oil to cost nearly $870,000. The oil is for delivery for use of the Naval Service on the East Coast.

The contracts included Colonial Beacon Oil Co., Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, Gulf Refining Co., Atlantic Refining Co., Magnolia Petroleum Co., Sinclair Refining Co. and the Continental Oil Co.

Ohioan Indicted in Bank Fraud.

Cleveland, May 27 (A.P.).—Thomas G. Sheets, former cashier of the Peoples National Bank at Wellsville, who was accused of embezzling $14,283, was indicted by a Federal grand jury late today on four counts. Two counts charged false entries, one embezzlement, and one making a false report to the comptroller of banks.

THE SATURDAY FOOD AND HOME ECONOMICS PAGE

Appearing Each Week in The Washington Post

FOOD PAGE IS FOUND TO BE IN HIGH FAVOR

Many Entries Being Sent in Food Budget Contest by Housewives.

Splendid progress has been made in the budget contest, and a number of entries have been received from housewives eager to pass on the lessons they have learned in food buying to other home makers.

That the Saturday food page of The Washington Post remains in high favor with the readers of The Post may be seen in the following letters from them.

In forwarding a recipe a home maker writes:

"Having prepared this recipe many, many times for my guests, and receiving compliments on it each time, I decided to place it in your hands for your recipe column. I know it will suit your taste if you have it tested, and appeal to your many readers that look forward to your column, as the housewife is always looking for something new to place before her family.

"I read your paper every day, find it interesting. Also the food space I find helpful in every way. I make use of your recipes, and they are worth while. And we do appreciate them so much. Thanks."

From another reader came the following voluntary testimony:

"I am a new housewife, just learning the art of buying and cooking. I can't tell you how helpful I have found your Saturday food page as a guide. Some of the recipes have found a place among my favorites, not only because they are truly delicious, but also because they are so economical—the keynote in cookery while Mr. Depression reigns."

(Awarded Book Prize.)

Carrot Loaf
Mashed Potatoes Buttered Cauliflower
Southern Spoon Bread, Butter
Asparagus Tip Salad
Lemon Chiffon Pie
Coffee

The carrot loaf tastes like a meat dish, though it contains none and depends for its protein on the eggs it contains. It is really a most excellent meat substitute, and I have known it to be served at church dinners as the main dish, and no one suspected that it did not contain meat.

The above menu contains Sanico fresh eggs, Kraft Mayonnaise, Land o' Lakes Butter, iceberg lettuce, and Town Club coffee, all advertised on the Saturday Food and Home Economics Page.

MRS. HARRY E. GORESLINE.
726 Richmond avenue,
Silver Spring, Md.

NEW ORLEANS LEMON PIE.
(Honorable Mention.)

2 boxes vanilla wafers (Sanitary).
1 can Eagle brand condensed milk (Sanitary).
3 Sanico eggs.
3 lemons (Sanitary).
3 tablespoons sugar (Sanitary).
½ teaspoon Davis baking powder (Sanitary).
1 teaspoon Sanico almond flavoring.

Roll the vanilla wafers very fine, and line the pan with them, patting them in with the back of a spoon in order to make them stick to the sides of the pan. Add the well-beaten egg yolks to the condensed milk, mixing thoroughly, then add the lemon juice and half the flavoring to the mixture. Mix very well and pour into the pan lined with the rolled vanilla wafers, which form the crust. Add the sugar and baking powder together with the balance of the flavoring to the egg whites and beat until stiff. Spread over the pie filling and place in a hot oven just long enough to brown the mesingue. Remove from the oven and keep in an electric ice box for nine hours before serving.

BEATRICE R. MILLER.
1236 Shepherd street northwest.

(Honorable Mention.)

¾ cupful flour (Sanico)
2 tablespoons lard
⅓ cupful ice water
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 cupful brown sugar
¼ cup cream
⅛ pound Sanitary butter
1 teaspoonful vanilla

Make pastry and bake a pie shell in an ordinary size pie pan. Boil the caramel icing until it will form a soft ball when tried in cold water. Then pour in pie shell to the depth of between ⅛ to ¼ inch deep. When cold slice like a pie and serve with a spoonful of sweetened apple sauce and rich cream.

MRS. JAMES F. DUNLOP.
203 Hammond court northwest.

SAUCE FOR MEATS.
(Honorable Mention.)

4 tablespoons vinegar (Sanitary)
4 tablespoons catsup (Sanitary)
8 tablespoons water
1 tablespoon Land o' Lakes butter (Sanitary)
1 tablespoon Washington flour (Wilkins-Rogers Milling Co.).

Mix together the vinegar, catsup and water and while they are heating on the stove, cream the butter and flour to a paste. Dissolve this mixture by adding a little of the heated vinegar, catsup and water to it. Pour this into the liquid on the stove, stirring constantly, and cook until thick (consistency of gravy). Serve on meat cakes, roasts or cauliflower, boiled onions or fish.

MRS. WILLIAM S. TORBERT.
3137 Twenty-fourth street northeast.

STRAWBERRY CREAM PIE.
(Honorable Mention.)

1 tablespoon gelatin
¼ cup cold water
3 egg yolks
½ cup sugar
Juice and rind of 1 orange
1 lemon
3 egg whites (District Grocery Stores).

Soak gelatin in cold water. Beat egg yolks until light, add sugar and beat well. Add orange and lemon juices and rind. Stir in top of double boiler until cooked to soft custard stage. Add soaked gelatin. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into baked shell and place in electric refrigerator to stiffen. When cold cover filling with a layer of sweetened crushed strawberries. Garnish with whipped cream.

This recipe makes a delicious shortcake and cream pie if made as directed.

A Day Devoted to Request Recipes.

TODAY we must attend to at least three request recipes waiting on the desk for their turn in the column—this because we feel that they may be needed before Monday, for they have about them, somehow, a holiday atmosphere. And may we wish you all a delightful two days to come, a pleasant surcease from the duties of the work-a-day world and, if a trip be planned, a safe and happy journey.

Now—first our Sunday's dinner recipes and then the requests.

Strawberry Cocktail.

Wash and hull strawberries and arrange in glasses. Pour orange juice over them and chill before serving. If strawberries are not sweet, sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Baked Ham With Pineapple.

Wash ham well and boil gently three-quarters of an hour for each pound. Add a bayleaf, a few peppercorns, celery and an onion to the water in which the ham is cooking. Place ham in baking dish, remove the skin and cover the top with slices of canned pineapple cut in halves across, leaving them just half as thick as when they are taken from the can. Secure these pieces in place with tootpicks. Stick cloves in exposed spots of the ham and sprinkle with brown sugar and cinnamon. Place in the pan the pineapple juice and half its amount of maple sugar, maple sirup or brown sugar. Baste frequently while baking that the sirup may candy the slices of pineapple. If it is served cold allow the toothpicks to stay in the ham until thoroughly cooled. If to be served hot, push the toothpicks down out of sight. The toothpicks may be broken in half, or even third length, and therefore not much of the wood will be forced into the ham.

Carrot and Cabbage Salad.

2 cupfuls raw carrots, cut in fine strips
2 cupfuls raw cabbage, shredded
1-3 cupful vinegar.
1-3 cupful mayonnaise
1-3 cupful cream, whipped
½ tablespoonful confectioners' sugar.

Allow the shredded cabbage and carrot strips to stand separately in ice water until crisp. Drain and dry. Add vinegar to cabbage and chill for fifteen minutes. Combine vegetables and toss lightly together with dressing made by folding the sugar and mayonnaise into the whipped cream. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves and garnish with paprika and parsley.

Homemade Biscuit Tortoni.

Roll into fine pieces enough macaroons to make three-fourths of a cupful. Then mix together three-fourths cupful of thin cream, one-half cupful macaroons, four tablespoonfuls of sugar and a dash of salt. Stir together well and allow to soak about one hour. Beat one cupful cream until thick and gradually beat in the macaroon mixture. Then add one-half teaspoonful of almond extract and one-half teaspoonful of vanilla. Fill paper cups, such as charlotte russe cups, with the mixture. Cover the top with the balance of the macaroons and freeze in the refrigerator pan four hours or longer.

Sandwich Fillings.
(For Mrs. R. M. Johnston.)

1. Chopped hard-cooked egg and mayonnaise on white bread.
2. Lettuce and mayonnaise on white bread.
3. Cottage cheese or Philadelphia cream cheese with currant or cranberry jelly on whole-wheat bread.
4. Cottage or Philadelphia cream cheese with shredded pineapple on whole-wheat bread.
5. Sliced chicken, ham or tongue on white or whole-wheat bread.
6. Peach jam on white bread.
7. Chopped olives and nuts on graham bread.
8. Swiss cheese on rye bread.
9. Peanut butter and strawberry or other jam on whole-wheat bread.

Scotch Eggs.
(For "A Column Reader.")

6 eggs, hard-cooked
1 cupful lean ham, chopped very fine
5 tablespoonfuls milk.
1 egg, uncooked
2-3 cupful breadcrumbs, stale
1 teaspoonful mustard
Cayenne to taste.

Cook the bread crumbs in the milk and rub to a smooth paste. Mix cayenne and the egg. Mix well. After removing the shells from the hard-cooked eggs cover them with above mixture and fry in deep, hot fat for two minutes. Drain. When cut in halves lengthwise and each half arranged on a bed of parsley the contrast of the green, white, red and yellow is very attractive. Eggs made in this way make a delightful addition to the picnic basket, or when served hot are a good luncheon dish.

Molasses Cookies.
(For M. C. Ridgely.)

1 cupful butter melted
2 cupfuls New Orleans molasses
1 teaspoonful cloves
1 tablespoonful ginger
Flour

Combine the butter, molasses and spices, sifted with a little flour. Then add sufficient flour to make a stiff batter and not a dough. Form into balls with the hands and bake on a well-buttered baking sheet in a fairly hot over, being careful that they do not burn. Remove immediately from the baking sheet, working quickly and using a spatula.

Answers to Readers.

Dear Miss Carey: Do you compute weight and height with or without shoes? My height without shoes is 5 feet 7 inches. I am 42 years old and weigh 153 pounds, dressed in the clothes one ordinarily wears about the house. Is this correct? Could you answer this in your column?

A PUZZLED READER.

Height and weight, my dear reader, are generally computed with shoes on and coat or other heavier outer garments removed. According to the charts, you should weigh about 150 pounds, so that even allowing for the shoes, your present weight is approximately correct. However, I do think it would be very advisable to watch your calories and your diet in order to prevent any possible gain in weight and while it will still be very easy to do so. It is rather difficult, you know, when faced with 10 or 20 or 30 pounds which do not rightfully belong to one to persevere over the time necessary to effect any great loss of weight. That is when our reducers need us and need us badly. We must constantly encourage and kindle anew the dying fires of their enthusiasm. But with you, it will be a very simple matter. Remember that those who weigh 10 or 20 per cent less than the average after middle age have the very best chances for a long life and a healthy one. And surely that chance is worth striving for.

BEEF LIVER RECIPE WINS AWARD OF $5

Mrs. Mildred R. Swan Sends Directions for Wholesome Meat Dish.

An interesting treatment of beef liver was the winning recipe in this week's Post recipe contest. It was "beef liver delight," submitted by Mrs. Mildred R. Swan, of Schley street, Maryland Park, Md.

Maryland Park, Md.

To Mrs. Swan went the $5 award. Her formula should provide a new and toothsome dish.

To be eligible for The Post's weekly prizes, recipes which are submitted must use some product which is advertised on the Saturday Food Page of The Post.

Mrs. Swan's recipe follows:

Beef Liver Delight.
(Awarded $5 Prize.)

1 pound of beef liver
1 can Peter-Pan corn
1 box of noodles (District Grocery Stores).
Season to taste
About 1 cup Washington flour, self-rising.

Grind the liver and celery together, then add flour enough to stiffen the mixture to make patties. Boil the corn in 1½ quarts of water, add the beef patties and boil 20 minutes, then add the noodles and cook until they are finished. Serve the patties on a platter covered with the corn and noodles. Serves six.

Sturgeon steak in at least one shop in the Municipal fish market, sells very reasonably at 45 cents a pound. It is only at this time in the spring that Washingtonians may enjoy sturgeon at such a low price, for the big fish "run" in the lower Potomac only at this season. The sturgeon never weighs less than 150 pounds, and the Meanderer saw sturgeon steak today that came from a 285 pound fish. It's head alone weighed 87 pounds.

OUR DAILY FOOD

By COLONEL GOODBODY

DUTCH PEA SOUP—FAVORITE FOOD OF THE HOLLANDERS.

WHAT does Holland mean to you: Dutch ovens, tulips, wooden shoes, windmills and Franz Hals' picture, the "Laughing Cavalier?"

To a friend in Amsterdam, Holland means pea soup. This friend sent me a recipe for real Dutch pea soup, which, she writes, "is the favorite dish of all right-thinking Hollanders. You have as much fun making the soup as eating it, and it's an ideal dish for a cold winter night."

There is a sad story of a foreigner who ordered Dutch pea soup in a Holland restaurant, and two other famous Dutch dishes besides.

This man began with soup; then he had some stampot, which is a hearty mixture of cabbage, potatoes and smoked sausage. And then he concluded his meal with a very rich rice pudding known as rijstebrij. Whereupon—to put it in simple, if inelegant, language—he burst.

When the Hollanders serve their favorite soup for dinner, they serve nothing else. I'm going to read you the recipe my friend sent. It looks to me as if making Dutch pea soup would take as much time as baking beans, in the old New England manner.

"Soak a pound of split dried peas in water overnight. Next morning take the biggest covered pot you have, put the beans in, add two hoofs of a pork and half a pound of bacon, and four quarts of water. Cook for two hours, then add a pound of smoked sausage, and the following vegetables: A bunch of celery with the biggest root you can find, a small bunch of parsley, and some leeks. Add any other vegetables you like. Now cook the soup at least ten hours. The longer it cooks, the better it will taste. Some people think the flavor improves if the soup is allowed to stand a day. Serve with dry bread."

That is a hearty dish. Just the kind of fare that is needed in a country like Holland, where the climate is cold and damp. You know, most of the Netherlands, or low countries, are below sea level, and my friend, who was brought up in New England, says it's pretty hard to get used to winters where the sun never shines. And, of course, there's a tremendous amount of wind—a moisture-laden wind, from the sea.

The Dutch have only one real hot meal a day. Breakfast usually includes oatmeal, with bread and butter and cheese and tea. At noon they eat more bread and butter, with cheese, slices of sausage, jam or grated chocolate and coffee. The bread is cut up and eaten with a fork.

Dutch housewives also drink coffee at 11 in the morning—a popular hour, incidentally, for paying calls over there—and in the afternoon they serve tea, with cookies.

The big meal of the day comes at 6 o'clock, or even earlier. There are two kinds of Dutch home dinners—one-dish meals and more elaborate dinners. For one-dish meals the favorite foods are Dutch pea soup, pancakes with bacon, brown beans with fat salt pork, or stampot.

The other typical Dutch dinner consists of meat, boiled potatoes and gravy, and another vegetable. Sometimes this is preceded by soup and fish or croquettes, and it is generally followed by a sweet and a fruit.

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY

Capital Dealers Receive Thousands of Chickens for Holiday Tables and Picnics; Watermelons Now Reasonable and Strawberries Are Plentiful.

Holiday picnics and dinners for Memorial Day, trailing the week-end, necessitate a full market basket today for the busy housewife. In her rounds this week the Meanderer kept the busy housewife in mind and found many seemingly helpful suggestions.

Thousands—literally thousands!—of chickens have been made ready for the holiday feasting. The Meanderer saw one truck from lower Virginia unloading 8,000 fowls in one wholesale market in the Southwest section of Washington. And there will be many other truck loads, of course. One chain store alone has placed a week-end order for 7,000 chickens. The present low cost of poultry puts chickens in the available list of meats for menu planning.

Angel-food cake, always expected on festive occasions in the normal home, should not be lacking on these special May time festivals. Eggs continue to be very low in price, although the price per dozen crept slowly upward this week. Many retail markets which have been selling eggs for as little as 15 or 17 cents a dozen, labeled them 20 cents or more during the last few days, but even with eggs at 20 cents a dozen, angel food cake is an inexpensive delight.

Watermelons for 60 cents each are, for the first time this season, not formidable in price. The 60-cent watermelons were in huge green barrels of ice water soon after having been delivered at a Southwest market. They were shipped in car loads from Florida and other far Southern sections. The melons average 25 pounds in weight. At this reduced price watermelons should rival ice cream as holiday dessert.

Any holiday barbecue where many persons are to be fed with roasted meat can advantageously be supplied from a wholesale dealer's meat storage plant that the Meanderer visited this week. In one of the refrigerated rooms of this plant 40 dressed beeves were hanging, high and cold and clean. The 40 beeves do not constitute an unusual number for this dealer to handle—in fact, it is his average daily sales output and is just one carload, 23,000 to 25,000 pounds of meat.

Each piece of beef was stamped as belonging in one of four classifications—fair, good, choice and prime. This classification enables the housewife to ask her butcher for the precise quality of meat which she desires. The three higher grades bore also the stamp which testified that they had been inspected by Government inspectors.

Often the housewife believes that her meat shopping has been most thrifty when the meat shows a minimum amount of fat. But the cuts of prime grade porterhouse that the Meanderer examined were streaked with lines of fat through the red, smooth-fibered lean. "Marbled with fat," the dealer described them. The choice or second grade did not have this marbling of fat. That was one reason the Government inspectors had graded it "choice," instead of "prime."

Strawberries, large and luscious, are, of course, on the celebration food calendar. The are selling rapidly this week, to add their bright bit to the meal. The Meanderer can not quote a definite price per quart this week, for on her rounds of inspection she saw the berries priced at all the way from 10 cents to 20 cents a quart.

The strawberry shortcake for Sunday or Monday may be truly short in texture—we hope not short in quantity—with butter selling for less than 25 cents a pound in some markets.

Soft-shelled crabs, popular for picnic use, are selling in some markets today for 50 cents a dozen, or two dozen for 95 cents. Large chowder clams sell for $1.25 per 100. Fancy Mississippi crab flakes, for the Sunday night supper, perhaps, may be had today for 50 cents a pound.

A compound of cheese and ground ham, made of high-grade cheese and fine quality ham, is suggested by a downtown market dealer, as a new sandwich filler.

Sugar corn, the first of the season for Washington, is expected to come into market next week, probably at the high-hat price of about $1 per dozen ears, and too late for a place at the Sunday or Memorial Day dinner.

WHEAT VALUES SINK ON SUPPLY REPORTS

Trade Predicts Carry-Over Will Be 400,000,000 Bushels on July 1.

Chicago, May 27 (A.P.).—Bumped by trade forecasts of a 400,000,000-bushel United States carry-over of wheat on July 1, grain values underwent late tumbles today.

The huge carry-over suggested would be 65,000,000 bushels in excess of the total a year previous. Another disturbing element was uncertainty as to what would be shown in monthly private crop reports expected next week.

Wheat closed shaky, ⅜ to ¾ cent under yesterday's finish, corn unchanged to ⅜ cent lower, oats unchanged to ¼ up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5 cents.

Preceding the late decline, wheat had mustered considerable buying support, based largely on reports that France was engaged in an effort to purchase United States hard winter wheat afloat and would be in need of liberal quantities of foreign wheat the next two months. Predictions were current also that a further increase of the wheat import quota in France soon would be essential. It was reported also that a prompt revision of generally accepted figures on European import requirements could not be escaped. In this connection, it was pointed out that figures on these requirements allowed for 33,600,000 bushels from Russia, the Balkans and Hungary, an amount now apparently out of the question, and that North America was the only available source instead, as Southern Hemisphere shipments to capacity had already been counted upon.

Tending to unsettle bullish confidence, however, was the fact that North American spring wheat news appeared favorable, although some sections of southern Saskatchewan and in the American spring wheat belt reported rainfall subnormal.

Another handicap to bulls was a disposition on the part of many traders to take a preholiday attitude pending the issuance of June monthly private crop summaries. Much of the late selling pressure was ascribed to a Government-sponsored agency, with commission buying largely confined to the setbacks in prices.

Markets and Business in Review and Outlook

By Lawrence Sullivan

CURRENT reports from London are to the effect that public opinion in England is displaying a keener interest in American affairs than at any time since the World War. It is incomprehensible to the lay mind overseas how a nation which was rich enough to finance the most costly and devastating war in human history, and then to supply all the credit for Europe's reconstruction, really can be suffering the agonies of a serious economic depression. The inquiring public mind seeks the answer in American politics.

Reminding its readers that, as difficult as the times seem in England, "we are faring better than America," the London Daily News summarizes the thoughtful opinion of Britain in these words:

"Yet that America should really be unable to recover is quite incredible. Her natural resources are so vast it is difficult to understand how a nation with such untold wealth at her command can be in this state at all. She produces more than half the world's total cotton supply, nearly half the world's coal, three-quarters of the world's oil. In the production of wheat, oats, tobacco, iron ore and a long list of other commodities she is the first country in the world. It is not America's wealth but her political system which now is on trial. It is for politicians, by sane finance and firm leadership, to arouse the confidence which the facts undoubtedly warrant."

* * * *

A Case in Point.

THE history of the home loan banking bill in the present session of Congress serves well as an illustration of the sort of political ineptitude and legislative paralysis which has prolonged the depression on every front.

A detailed outline of the projected home loan banking system was announced, it will be recalled, as long ago as last October. It was specifically recommended in the President's message to Congress in December, and again in a special message, later.

The Senate banking and currency committee held interminable hearings, and then let the matter drift. It is still drifting, with the Honorable James E. Watson, of Indiana, at the helm.

In the House, a subcommittee was appointed to report to the banking and currency committee, which it did early in March. Again there were hearings ad nauseam. Finally, on May 24, the committee reported out a bill, which may or may not be considered by the honorable House in this session.

Meanwhile, the emergency committee of bankers and industrials set up in New York last week to advance the Federal Reserve's credit expansion policy, has taken steps to rescue the small home owners of New York State. The arrangement contemplates adequate financing of repairs and improvements, the refinancing of sound mortgages, and other steps to check the disastrous mania of small bankers for excessive liquidity. The new funds will be made available immediately through the Savings and Loan Bank of the State of New York, which functions as a central bank for savings and loan associations in the Empire State.

The plan worked out and put into operation by the Young committee in New York State in less than ten days is precisely the scheme recommended in the national home-loan banking bill. The only difference is that it applies to one State instead of 48.

It is debatable whether the record of the Seventy-second Congress contains a more impressive example of indifference to a task which literally shrieked for attention—and action.

GENERAL ELECTRIC'S DIVIDEND IS SLASHED

Company Will Pay 10 Cents on Stock, Instead of 25 Cents Quarterly.

New York, May 27 (A.P.).—The General Electric Co. today declared a quarterly dividend of 10 cents on the capital stock. The company previously paid 25 cents quarterly.

The dividend is payable July 25 to stock of record June 24.

This is the second reduction in the dividend this year. Three months ago the company reduced quarterly payments to 25 cents from a rate of 40 cents quarterly which had been in effect since the stock was split four for one in January, 1930.

The downward readjustment was not unexpected in Wall street in view of the fact that earnings in the March quarter failed to meet the 25-cent dividend by about 10 cents a share.

Directors also declared the regular quarterly dividend of 15 cents on the par special stock, payable July 25 to stock of record June 24.

Cities Service Passes.

Cities Service Co. today announced omission of dividends on the common and preferred stocks of the parent company, and its two large subsidiaries, Cities Service Power & Light Co., and Empire Gas & Fuel Co.

In one of his infrequent interviews, Henry L. Doherty, veteran head of the Cities Service organization, said directors considered dividend omission as advisable conservative action. He said that present market conditions were unfavorable for new financing and that any company, having maturities to meet, should conserve its cash. In 1932, he added, he looked for an increase in net income over 1931 due to the recent increases in oil prices.

Mr. Doherty also explained that dividends omitted today cover the monthly payments which ordinarily would be scheduled for next July 15. Payments due on June 15 will be paid, these dividends having been declared a month ago.

New York, May 27 (A.P.).—The Standard Oil Co. of Kentucky today declared a quarterly dividend of 30 cents on the capital stock, placing it on a $1.20 annual basis, compared with $1.60 previously.—The dividend is payable June 30 to stock of record June 15.

The Nevada Consolidated Copper Co. for the first three months of 1932 reports a loss of $559,001, after ordinary taxes and inventory adjustments but before depreciation and depletion. In the same quarter of 1931 the company made a profit of $395,212 before inventory and adjustments, depreciation and depletion.

Continuing its campaign for fuller publicity from corporations whose securities are listed, the New York Stock Exchange is seeking to obtain earlier publication of annual reports by getting definite agreements, when applications are made for listing additional securities, that reports will be published not later than specified dates.

Twenty-one banks with deposit liabilities estimated at $6,750,000 discontinued business in the past week, the American Banker reports. One bank which had closed in 1931 reopened. Closings in the week before totaled 12. For the year to date the figure is 683, affecting deposit liabilities of about $295,000,000. By months the closings this year have been: January, 361; February, 128; March, 53; April, 74, and May through the 25th, 67.

Arrangements were made today for seat at $19,000, an increase of $500 the sale of a New York Curb Exchange over the previous transaction.

Shipments of crude rubber to consuming countries by the Dutch East Indies during April amounted to 17,952 tons, compared with 18,350 tons in March and 21,687 tons in April, 1931, the Rubber Exchange of New York reports.

The decision of the stock exchange to remain open on Saturday preceding Memorial Day will not alter the plans of many brokers to extend the holiday from Friday until Tuesday, and consequently Saturday's session is expected to be marked by extreme dullness. Some of the commodity exchanges will be closed on Saturday.

Collateral held by William Fox against a note for $2,300,000 of General Theaters Equipment, Inc., has been sold at auction for $450,000. The note was part of the consideration paid to Mr. Fox in April, 1930, for his controling interest in the Fox Film Corporation, represented by 151,000 shares of Fox class B stock.

Statistically the market for copper has been barely holding its own, says Metal and Mineral Markets. During April, according to private reports, stocks of refined copper actually increased slightly, owing to the slow movement of metal into consumptive channels, this authority says.

Directors of Montgomery Ward & Co. at a meeting today decided to omit the quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the class "A" stock due at this time.

Cash dividend payments by the Standard Oil group of companies for the second quarter will total $46,308,873, says a compilation by Pforzheimer & Co., specialists in oil shares. This total compares with $46,801,053 in the first quarter and $57,843,467 in the second quarter of last year.

Electric Power & Light Corporation's income statement for the twelve months ended March 31 shows balance of $3,382,162 applicable to the common stock, against $5,350,102 in the previous year. Earnings on the $7 and $3 preferred stock were equal to 1.8 times the dividends for the period on those issues, the statement said. The only bank loan in the company's group is the $21,250,000 loan of United Gas Corporation which has been extended one year from July 20, its original maturity.

The further drop of $21,000,000 shown in the weekly brokerage loan statement, reducing the total to a new low for the tabulation at only $393,000,000, gives further evidence of the extreme degree of liquidation reached in the two and one-half year deflation of marginal accounts. This total contrasts with a peak of $6,804,000,000 in October, 1929. But impaired loan envelops of banks still provide a source of selling as long as the urge toward liquidity persists.

The latest statement of the weekly reporting member banks of the Federal Reserve System shows loans on security collateral of $4,950,000,000. This item, however, has been sharply reduced since the peak of $8,568,000 reached in June of 1930, but selling from this source may subside, if the Federal Reserve credit expansion program can be made effective.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK DIVIDING OPINIONS

Dun's Survey Is Encouraging for Future While Bradstreet's Is Pessimistic.

New York, May 27 (A.P.).—The week's developments in trade and industry are viewed in a somewhat divergent light by the weekly mercantile reviews.

According to Dun's Review much of the business news of the week has been of an encouraging nature. In many respects, this authority asserts, it has been the most stimulating week thus far this year, with good weather and the requirements of the Decoration Day holiday bringing exceptionally large crowds into retail stores in most parts of the country.

The Bradstreet report, on the other hand, refers to the abnormally slow state of trade and commerce, accentuated in many lines by seasonal conditions; the gravity of the unemployment situation, and the lack of recovery in industry.

The most cheerful advices to Bradstreet's are from the Central West and refer to a slight upturn in retail trade.

Automobile Production.

Early estimates of May output of automobiles are being revised upward as a result of increasing outturns by the Ford Motor Co. It is said in the trade that indications now are that production will exceed 190,000 units, a 33 per cent gain over the April production of 146,584 units, as estimated by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. The May production of the industry last year was 329,091 units.

Steel Prices Firm.

Trade circles hear that several independent producers of finished sheets are preparing to announce an increase of $1 a ton for third-quarter business. Manufacturers of wire products also are reported considering an increase, though no specific amount has been decided upon.

Magma Copper.

The Magma Copper Co. will close down its mine and smelting on July 1, the company announced today. It is the company's plan to reopen the mine on October 1, but the smelter will remain closed until January 1, 1933, at the earliest.

Complete suspension of mining operations by Magma will be one of the most drastic curtailment steps taken by any of the major copper producers in consequence of the present unsatisfactory copper situation.

Cotton Mills Curtail.

New business in gray goods during the latter part of May was small, but the trade is hoping that new curtailment efforts will strengthen the statistical position, says the Textile World. The acute condition in April has taught many mills the need of drastic reduction in outfit, the review states.

New Bond Offerings.

New bond offerings in the New York district last week totaled $18,066,950, compared with $17,236,000 in the preceding week and $92,554,000 in the corresponding period of last year.

The International Paper & Power Co. reports 1931 earnings of $618,239, against $4,206,524 for 1930. After payment of preferred dividends of $1,632,565 there was a net deficit to surplus of $1,014,326.

BROWN AND WEAVER TO FACE YANKS IN TWIN BILL

Pennock and Allen Hurl For New York Today in First Double-Header Here

3,000 Women Fans Disappointed by Rain Yesterday; Lazzeri Returns to Yankee Line-up.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

THIS afternoon, for the first time this season, Washington fans will be given two games for one admission, a double-header with the league-leading New York Yankees being scheduled because of while "Marse Joe" McCarthy is battling an attack of flu, plans to use yesterday's downpour. Play starts at 1:30 o'clock. Acting Manager Art Fletcher, who is handling the reins of the New Yorkers the pitching combination which took a twin bill from the Nats in New York last Saturday, the veteran southpaw, Herb Pennock, and the promising rookie, Johnny Allen.

Lloyd Brown, who holds two decisions over the Yankees, and Prof. Monte Weaver, both of whom should be fit as fiddles folowing a few days' rest, will do the flinging for the Nationals. The latter are now trailing the big town team by four games and have hopes of cutting this margin in half by earning the decision in both contests today. They may not do so, but you can not arrest a fellow for hoping.

Rain Cheats 3,000 Women of Game.

The postponement of yesterday's game was a great blow to the feminine fans section. More than 3,000 were squealing and cheering in the stands as the players warmed up and great was their disappointment when rain started falling about half an hour before game time. And it was a real rain, too, after it once hit its stride. The water came down by the bucketful, finally flooding the dugouts and running the players to their locker rooms. Those who waited until they were chased to shelter found the passageway under the stands resembling a swimming pool and had to wade through water higher than their shoetops.

It was fully an hour before the fans could leave the stadium, and then most of them were soaked to the skin.

Lazerri May Return To Line-Up Today.

Indications are that Tony Lazzeri, who was missing from the Yankee line-up in Thursday's game, will be back at second for the New Yorkers this afternoon—and this will be anything but good news for the Nationals. Saltzgaver, who filled in for "Push 'Em Up, Tony," failed to live up to press notices as regards fielding, making two errors, while he was almost helpless at bat.

With Lazzeri on the job today, the visitors not only will get better fielding around the middle sack, but they also are bound to have added punch. In the series in New York last week, the Washington pitchers could hardly get Lazzeri out. Last Saturday, in the two games played, he was at bat seven times and cracked out no less than six hits, these including two doubles, a triple and a homer, and he hit them to all fields. He is now the second highest hitter in the league with an average of .409.

Lazerri on Market Last Winter.

And under the "Strange As It Seems" heading is the fact that the Yankees had Lazzeri on the market during the off-season, but none of the other teams was willing to give anything worth while for him. McCarthy kept Tony on the bench much of the season and did not figure him in his 1932 plans until the season started, when the Italian made Saltzgaver, slated for the job, look like a novice. Now McCarthy probably could name his own price for Lazzeri and get it.

Lazzeri is not the only Yankee going at a fast clip this season who could have been bought for a song last off-season, as Outfielder Earl Combs was on the market, too. In the training series and soon after the season started, Sammy Byrd was hitting the ball far and often and it looked as though Combs was doomed to hold down the Yankee bench. Byrd suddenly stopped hitting, though, and when Combs was given a belated chance he made the most of it and is now the regular once more.

All of which shows the element of luck in baseball. Had McCarthy disposed of this pair, as he would have done had any other team made serious bids for them, his average as a judge of players would have been zero, or thereabouts.

Driver Killed In Speedway Accident

Auto of Ira Hall Also Wrecked in Tryout at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 27 (A.P.).—The treacherous turns of the Indianapolis motor speedway claimed another victim today, Milton Jones, 38, of Cleveland, Ohio, dying from injuries he received while practicing for the annual 500-mile automobile race to be run next Monday.

Harold Gray, 24, also of Cleveland, who was riding with Jones, was critically injured. Their car, dashing into the second turn of the track at high speed, got out of control, turned around and slid backward into the upper retaining wall, ripping off 15 feet of concrete railing before falling 18 feet to the ground outside the track. It turned over several times before finally ploughing into the ground tail first and righting itself. Both Jones and Gray were thrown clear of the car before it finally came to a stop.

The accident occurred shortly before 1 o'clock and Jones died almost five hours later. Gray's left arm was broken in two places and he was believed to be suffering from internal injuries.

Was Trick Rider at County Fairs.

Jones, who had raced here before, was a former trick motorcycle rider. His wife, according to speedway officials, participated with him in an act in which he rode around within a silo-shaped housing at county fairs.

Jones' death was the second of the training season here this year, Harry Cox, an Indianapolis mechanic, being killed almost instantly Wednesday when the car in which he was riding and which was driven by Benny Benefield, also of this city, leaped the wall on the first turn and crashed to the ground eighteen feet below. Benefield was injured seriously.

Jones' car went into its fatal slide just a few yards from the point where Ira Hall, Terre Haute, Ind., crashed earlier in the day. Hall and his riding mechanic Johnny Apple, Indianapolis, were uninjured, but the car was damaged badly.

Third Accident Is Averted.

Another near-accident occurred late today when the front axle of a car driven by Paul Rice, of Indianapolis, broke in two just as the speedster was turned into the home stretch. Had the body of the car dropped two more inches, Rice would have been unable to control it. He succeeded in bringing the machine to a stop, however.

Seven more cars qualified for the race today, among them one driven by Juan Gaudino, of Buenos Aires, Argentina, the only foreign entrant in next Monday's race. Gaudino averaged 107.466 miles per hour over the 10-mile qualifying route. His average was next to the lowest of the 37 drivers who have met the speed requirement to date. George Howie, Brooklyn, N. Y., put his eight-cylinder rear-drive part-stock car over the bricks at 103.490 today for the slowest average of all qualifiers.

40 Fastest Cars To Compete.

Between fifteen and twenty drivers have only six more hours in which to qualify for the race. They must take their trials between 10 a. m. (Central standard time) and 4 p. m. tomorrow. The 40 fastest cars will comprise the starting field. There was some chance that Howie, Gaudino and one or two others might be eliminated from the field by pilots driving faster cars tomorrow.

Browns Get but 5 Hits as Tribe Wins

St. Louis, May 27 (A.P.).—Cleveland widened the margin between the Indians and the Browns today as Clint Brown allowed only five safeties in Cleveland's 6 to 3 defeat of the St. Louis Americans. Goose Goslin's homer, his first this year, produced two of the Browns' runs.

Blaeholder, who accounted for three victories in eleven games of the Browns' recent road trip, lasted seven innfngs today.

Miss Orcutt Tops British Golf Field

Brilliant 73 Is Best in First Day of Qualifying.

Mrs. Vare Shoots 80 as Scores Soar in Rain, Wind.

By FRANK H. KING.

SAUNTON, Eng., May 27 (A.P.).—Blonde Maureen Orcutt, playing in the best weather of a nasty day, shot a brilliant 73 this morning to lead the field by two strokes through the first half of the qualifying round of the British women's golf championship.

The long-driving girl from Englewood, N. J., went out in the early sunshine to tame completely the sandy wastes and midget greens of the Saunton course. She stroked the eighteen holes only two over par.

The wind came up then, and rain swept the bleak stretch, sending the scores of the remainder of the American contingent, as well as the British entrants, soaring. There seemed little danger, however, that any members of the United States squad that defeated a British team at Wentworth several days ago, would fail to pass the final eighteen-hole qualifying test. Apparently a pair of 90's will qualify.

Mrs. Rene Lacoste Second With 75.

The former Simone Thion de la Chaume, now the wife of the famous French tennis player, Rene Lacoste, also took advantage of the early calm to shoot a 75 for second honors of the day. Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, took a 77, while Mrs. Leona Cheney, of Los Angeles, tied with Mrs. J. B. Watson, of England, at 78 strokes.

Glenna Collett Vare, former United States women's champion, and Helen Hicks, present titleholder, failed to break 80, Mrs. Vare shooting just that with the aid of a fine 38 on the outgoing nine, while Miss Hicks, playing around in blue oilskins in the drenching rain, turned in a harassed 88.

Enid Wilson, British champion, turned in a card of 79, a stroke behind Mrs. Watson, but other leaders of the homebred defense were less fortunate. Molly Gourlay took an 83, Elsie Corlett 81 and Diana Fishwick an 87. They played in the rain when the course was several strokes more severe than when Miss Orcutt set the early pace.

Four American women, none a member of the official invading team, seemed destined for elimination tomorrow. Rosamond Sherwood, of New York, with 93; Mrs. William Ferris, of Newton, Mass., with 96; Ruth Batchelder, of Boston, 98, and Virginia Holzberger, of Baltimore, 102, needed exceptional scores tomorrow to qualify.

Robins' Win Sends Giants to Cellar

New York, May 27 (A.P.).—The Brooklyn Dodgers moved into sixth place in the National League standing and dropped the Giants to the cellar today as they won their second straight game from the New Yorkers, 5 to 2.

A five-run rally, started by George Kelly's homer in the fifth inning, sent Hal Schumacher to the showers. Van Mungo gave only seven hits in winning his third game within a week, but walked seven. Mel Ott hit a homer for the Giants.

Klein Hits 10th Homer In 8-5 Phillie Victory

Philadelphia, May 27 (A.P.).—Continuing their slugging tactics, the Phillies pounded out an 8 to 5 triumph over the Boston Braves today for their second straight victory over McKechnie's men.

Battering Ed Brandt from the start, they finally sent him to the showers in the seventh. Holley also failed to go the route, being replaced by Berly when the Braves threatened in the eighth. Klein hit his tenth home run of the season.

Play Today for U. S. and Australia

Ellsworth Jack Vines, America's foremost Davis Cup hope, and Jack Crawford (inset), ace of the Australian Team, were forced to halt their match yesterday due to rain, with Vines having won two of the three sets played. Crawford rallied and was tied with the American in the fourth set at 3—3 when rain fell.

6-RUN BLAST WINS FOR CUBS, 6-4

Lead Is Increased as Reds Bow; Home Run by Grimm.

CHICAGO, May 27 (A.P.).—A six-run blast in the third inning today gave the Cubs a 6-to-4 victory over Cincinnati and increased their margin over Boston for the National League leadership to 1½ games. The Braves failed to keep pace by losing to Philadelphia, 8 to 5.

Lonnie Warneke was hit hard, yielding twelve hits, but was in serious trouble in only two innings, and won his sixth victory of the season. He struck out six batsmen, and the Reds had men left on the bases in every inning.

The climax of the third-inning splurge was a home run into the right field bleachers by Charlie Grimm with a man on.

MACKENZIE BEATEN IN TOURNEY

Pitt Plays Stevinson in Baltimore Semi-final Today.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 27.—Miller B. Stevinson, veteran sharpshooter from the Columbia Country Club, and the defending title holder, Harry G. Pitt, of the Manor Golf Club, will carry the hopes of Washington into the semifinal round of the Baltimore Country Club invitation golf tournament at Five Farms tomorrow morning, for Stevinson and Pitt are the surviving players in the first sixteen from the Capital after two rounds of play today. Roland Mackenzie, after winning in the morning round, was defeated by Chris Brincke, of Philadelphia, 2 and 1.

The other survivor is Ernie Caldwell, tall, hard-hitting representative of Hillendale Golf Club, Baltimore.

Caldwell will play Brincke, the only man in the tournament with a handicap of scratch, while the Washington pair will battle in the other semifinal. The final round is scheduled for the afternoon.

The fury with which an electrical storm hit the course during midafternoon, when lightning struck a tree directly adjacent to the caddy house, as well as several others farther removed from the headquarters, was matched by the manner in which the less-favored golfers took toll of the leaders in early-round play.

First 16, first round—Harry G. Pitt, Manor, defeated David Crook, Rolling Road, 1 up. Miller B. Stevinson, Columbia, defeated Charles F. Shaw, Woodland, 1 up. Roland Mackenzie, Columbia, defeated W. M. Leonard, Public Park, 3 and 2. Second round—Pitt defeated Max Marston, Merion, 3 and 2. Stevinson defeated J. Wood Platt, Aronimink, 2 up. Chris Brincke, Aronimink, defeated Mackenzie, 2 and 1.

Third 16, first round—J. W. Gitt, Hanover, defeated F. G. Butler, Indian Spring, 3 and 2. Consolations—Butler defeated A. W. Reid, Sparrows Point, 2 up.

Fourth 16, first round—W. N. Baldwin, Manor, defeated Harry West, Maryland, 2 and 1. Second round—Baldwin defeated Francis Carnes, Maryland, 3 and 2.

PAIRINGS FOR TOMORROW.

First 16—10 a. m., Pitt vs. Stevinson; 10:10, Caldwell vs. Brincke. Third 16, consolations—9:25, Butler vs. J. McRoberts, Fox Hills. Fourth 16—9, Baldwin vs. J. V. D. Tweedy, Elkridge.

U. S. Leading Australian Netmen

Shields Easy Victor; Rain Halts Vines-Crawford Match.

American Ace Wins First 2 Sets But Loses Third.

By HENRY M'LEMORE.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 27 (U. P.).—Frank Xavier Shields, of New York, and Mother Nature, in the form of extraordinarily wet rains, scored decisive victories in the first day's Davis Cup play between the United States and Australia here today.

Shields, playing his best tennis of the season, had decisively whipped Harry Hopman, 6—4, 6—1, 6—2, to give this country victory in the first singles skirmish, and Ellsworth Vines, of California, was leading Jack Crawford two sets to one in the second, when a miniature cloudburst descended upon the Country Club and environs. As a result 2,000 smartly dressed Philadelphians got the soaking of their lives, and an opportunity to see a bargain bill tomorrow, when the Vines-Crawford match will be completed along with the doubles engagements.

Crawford and Vines Resume Today.

Despite the fact that Vines was leading when the storm set in, only the most biased spectators denied that its arrival was a blessing, inasfar as the United States team was concerned. For Crawford, after losing the first two sets, 2—6, 4—6, had taken the third at 6—2 and was going great guns in the fourth. The games stood at 3-all when play was abandoned, and 3-all it will be when things are resumed on the morrow.

The postponement is likely to cost Crawford the match. Slow to start, he undoubtedly will be whipped tomorrow before he can get started. He was just hitting his stride when forced to quit today. Vines took the first three games of the fourth set, but his game collapsed at that point, and Crawford started surging ahead. Had the storm waited another 30 or 40 minutes to arrive, the Australian might well have pulled the match out of the fire.

Crawford Nervous, At Start.

Vines' triumph in the first two sets was due not so much to his strong play as to miserable work by his opponent. Crawford was nervous at the start, and his shots lacked accuracy and power. Not until the third set, when he threw caution to the winds and began whipping his drives for the corners and storming the net, did he look like the player he is. Once the Australian began to attack, Vines' game went steadily downhill. At the finish the national champion was playing like a tyro, overdriving the baseline on the simplest forehand shots and muffing the overhand smashes he customarily puts away with dispatch.

Shields' beautiful play against Hopman was the standout of the afternoon. The big New Yorker, who was a last minute substitution for Wilmer Allison, more than justified his selection. Only once did he falter, Mitchell - Hermann, Considine-Smith in Semifinals.

Men's and Women's Doubles Teams Also Resume.

FOUR survivors of a week of hectic tennis will fight it out this afternoon on the Reservoir courts for the right to go into the final round of the fourth City of Washington championship, where the title will be decided and a year's lease on the massive Jock McLean trophy signed.

Dooly Mitchell, defending champion, will meet Gene Hermann, cagey public parks player, in one semifinal match at 2 o'clock, followed by Lieut. Gerald Smith, Navy Leech Cup player, and Bob Considine, former city champion, at 2:30 o'clock. Both matches will be the best two out of three sets.

Semifinals Scheduled In Doubles.

Semifinal doubles also are carded for today, bringing the first seeded team of Alan Staubly and Frederico Sendel against Joe Rutley and John Ladd, and the No. 1 seeded women's team of Mrs. Ruth Martinez and Frances Walker against Reba Kirson and Sara Moore. These matches are at 3 o'clock. At 4 o'clock Pat Deck and Bill Seidel meet the dark horses of the doubles meet, Lieut. Smith and Maj. Dorst.

The meeting between Dooly Mitchell and Gene Hermann promises to offer splendid tennis fare for local audiences. With the exception of Gilbert Hunt, Hermann is the most improved player in Washington. Although nearing 30 years of age, his game has increased 100 per cent in caliber in the last year. He makes use of a deceptive chopstroke, the length of which he varies masterfully.

Hermann's Net Game His Chief Weapon.

Hermann's net game is his chief weapon, however. Not an offensive volleyer he plays his shots with great angles which makes up for speed and retains steadiness. If he can maintain his inherent steadiness in the face of Mitchell's withering speed, a splendid match will follow.

Lieut. Smith's game is founded on the premise that each shot should be an attempt at a placement. On form he is well-nigh unbeatable, among local net fraternity. He charges the forecourt upon the slightest provocation. Considine will be extremely fortunate if he manages to pull this match out of the fire.

DEAD HEAT AND DISQUALIFICATION RECORDED AT BELMONT

Algeria and Indiantown In Duel

Fator and Garner Are Even After Great Stretch Battle.

Marooned Disqualified for Swerving in Fast Finish.

BELMONT PARK, May 27 (A.P.).—A dead heat, the first of the metropolitan turf season, was run at Belmont Park today when Joseph E. Widener's Algeria and Lew Brown's Indiantown finished on even terms in a 4½ furlong sprint for 2-year-olds.

The race was a battle of two veteran riders, Laverne Fator and Mack Garner, aboard two youthful thoroughbreds. Fator and Indiantown took an early lead, but released the advantage to the Garner-Algeria combination at the head of the stretch.

Through the final furlong, the race was a nip and tuck affair. Algeria was the second choice at 9 to 5 while Indiantown was quoted at 5 to 1. How High, the favorite, finished far back in third position.

Marooned Disqualified For Swerving.

Through a disqualification Idealist was placed first in the second race with Sun Captor second and Fusina third. Marooned, the real winner, was set back for foul. Sun Captor led the field to the final furlong when Marooned came with a good burst of speed but swerved over a bit, interfering with Idealist, then drew away to win by three lengths. Idealist beat Sun Captor a length for the place.

Homewood, Ill., May 27 (A.P.).—Jockey Melvin Knight piloted Flag Bearer to a length and one-half victory over the favored Goldstep in the Woodlawn Handicap, featured event at Washington Park today.

Jockey Knight sent Ed McCuan's Handicap star in front at the rise of the barrier and made every post a winner, staving off a hard challenge by Goldstep down the stretch. Hyman finished third in the six furlong dash, which was reeled off in 1:15 over the muddy strip. Flag Bearer, second in favor, paid $8.60.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—EVELINE F., $7.50, $3.44 $2.70; BLUE LAW $4.10 $3.82; GABBO, $4.82.

EVELINE F., well rated in the early running, improved her position gradually on the back stretch and, coming fast in the stretch to find an opening, passed GABBO in the last furlong and won easily. BLUE LAW raced on the outside most of the way and was going gamely at the end. GABBO was taken back slightly in the early running to permit CHEHALIS to make the pace, then went to the front after leaving the back stretch to open up a good lead, but tired in the last eighth. CHEHALIS weakened in the stretch. OUTPOST and THE SHOW OFF could not keep up. SOUR MASH was outrun.

600 IN SCHOOL MEET TODAY

Playgrounds To Hold 22d Contest

63 Teams to Compete at Central High Stadium.

Park View's Strong Group Will Defend Championship.

THE Department of Playgrounds twenty-second annual elementary school field and track meet will be held today at 10 o'clock in Central Stadium. The fact that it is the twenty-second year of competition makes it one of the few sporting events in the city to have such a long consecutive run.

The meet will have an added significance this year, as it is officially known as the Department of Playgrounds Elementary School Bicentennial meet. Playground officials estimate that about 600 boys will vie for honors. These lads have reached the finals by qualifying in the seven divisional meets which have been held during the past two weeks.

Park View School will be the defending champion and again has a strong squad to represent it. But playground officials say that the Warder street boys will have plenty of keen competition today. In all, 63 schools took part in the preliminaries and many of these qualified strong teams for the city finals.

Richard S. Tennyson, assistant supervisor of playgrounds, will be in charge of the meet, and he will be assisted by the following:

RAIN DELAYS SCHOOL MEET

Central Refuses to Compete; Shifted to Wednesday.

REFUSAL of Central High to compete, on the ground that the condition of the track and field at Central Stadium was not conducive to a good meet, yesterday caused the postponement of the annual interhigh track meet until next Wednesday afternoon.

A torrential downpour hit the stadium nearly an hour before the scheduled start of the games. When the rains abated the call for the opening field events was made, at which time Central's veteran coach, Bill Foley, refused to permit his fledglings to compete.

Coaches of the four teams entered met after the cancellation of the meet to determine the all-high track team which will be sent to Annapolis today to meet the Navy Plebes. Central did not choose to name any of its sprinters for the team, but made it plain that its field men might be given consideration.

This offer was turned down by the high school athletic officials, who ruled that Central would either compete in all events or none at all.

A Central spokesman said last night that Central's action on today's meet with Annapolis was predicated upon the fact that it did not wish its runners to spend their energies, in view of the proximity of the interhigh meet next Wednesday.

Weissmuller, in Act Here, Plans 3 More Tarzan Films

"I'M going to make three more Tarzan pictures, if I don't lose that Tarzan look," Johnny Weissmuller said last night as he stripped off a beautiful white bathing suit and vigorously rubbed the massive chest and bronzed limbs that overnight yanked him off the sports pages into the hearts of the Nation's gigantic movie audience.

Appearing currently at the Fox Theater and at Kann's department store this morning, the young man who broke every world's speed record from 50 yards to a quarter of a mile, is still in championship shape, after three years of professionalism. He weighs 210 pounds and stands 6 feet 4. His giant hands and feet, that could propel him through the water so fast that he could swim yards without wetting his back, still have their old thrust. Less than a year ago he unofficially broke his world's record of 0:51 for the 100 yards by more than a second.

He concludes his present tour about the time the Olympics open games and will offer his services as adviser to the American swimmers. He doesn't care particularly for the stage, but he thanks his lucky stars that he does not have to come out and talk. He performs in an 8-foot tank. He can touch his toes and fingers across the length of it.

Four shows a day are beginning to tell on his ears, and last night they pained him considerably. He said they hurt almost as much as it did to sit on top that elephant's head in "Tarzan." Rosie, the elephant, had a head full of stiff, short hairs, and the inside of her trunk, by which she hoisted him unceremoniously aboard, raised havoc with his waist. The lions scratched him about the legs. "It's lucky they didn't have any teeth," he boomed, brandishing one of the most genuine smiles the sporting world has ever known.

"Spike" Webb Renamed Olympic Boxing Coach

New York, May 27 (A.P.).—The appointment of H. M. (Spike) Webb, of the Naval Academy, as head coach of the American Olympic boxing team, for the fourth straight time, was announced today through Olympic headquarters by William P. Kenney, of Boston, manager of the boxing team.

Maryland Plays 2 Games With Navy

Maryland University concludes its competitive sport program this afternoon at Annapolis, where the Old Liners meet Navy in baseball and lacrosse. The ball game begins at 2:30 o'clock, with the lacrosse tilt starting at 4 o'clock.

Both games are viewed importantly by the opposing teams. Navy and Maryland each has compiled a good record this year and each is anxious to finish the season with triumphs.

Maryland is out for its eighth victory in baseball and its eighth win in lacrosse. The Old Line Baseball Team has lost six games, while the lacrosse combination has won all but one of its eight engagements to date.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

JACK QUINN, "the oldest veteran in the major leagues," does not know what it is to have a sore arm. He has been in baseball for at least 30 years, and in the major leagues since 1909.

Besides being the oldest veteran in the game, Quinn is the mystery man of the big-time baseball. Record books show him to be 47 years old. He admits 40, pointing out: "I'm old enough."

In 1908, at least five years after he went with Connellsville, Quinn was drafted from Richmond by the New York Yankees. Four years later he was released to Rochester, and in 1913 sold to Boston. He ignored the Boston reserve and signed with the Baltimore Federals. In 1916, under a peace agreement, he was sent to Vernon, in the Pacific Coast League. The league suspended in 1918 because of the war, and Quinn finished the season with Chicago, by permission. In 1919 he was claimed by the Yankees, and in 1921 was traded to the Boston Americans. He went with the Philadelphia Americans in 1925, and is now with the Brooklyn Nationals.

Quinn is one of the last of the spitball pitchers. He stoutly defends this now banned type of hurling.

Strange as it seems, Quinn was in professional baseball at 14, when, he says, he was drawing $30 a month for pitching.

Any reader wanting further proof of anything depicted here should address the author, care of The Washington Post, and inclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope for reply.

GROSS-NET SYSTEM OF TAXING UTILITIES INDORSED BY P. U. C.

QUOTES FROM FINDINGS OF NEW YORK EXPERTS

Hears Protests by Representatives of Companies Operating Here.

A gross-net system of taxing public utilities in Washington was suggested yesterday by the Public Utilities Commission as a substitute after disapproving the Capper ad valorem tax bill in a lengthy report to the chairman of the Senate District committee. The recommendation was made only after the commission had heard a protest from local utility representatives and had conferred with the District Commissioners.

Quoting a report made ten years ago by a special joint committee of the New York legislature, which made an intensive study of the problem of taxing public utilities, the utilities body stated:

"Without indorsing the precise percentages named by this New York committee, nor the manner in which its percentages are determined, this commission believes that such a gross-net tax method is the most equitable and most easily applied and recommends that it is substituteed for the 'ad valorem-franchise tax' method suggested in the proposed measure."

Would Adjust Tax Burden.

"The adoption of the gross-net method would adjust the tax burden in accordance with the earning ability of the utilities in question, bear more heavily upon those which are prosperous, and less drastically upon those which are in difficulties."

The Capper bill proposes that all District utilities be assessed and taxed on their real estate and tangible personal property in Washington and in addition shall pay a franchise tax of 2 per cent upon their gross earnings.

Among the objections advanced to this method of taxation by the New York legislature committee and quoted by the commission in its report are the following:

"Whatever the process employed for obtaining the value of the corporation's property, the operation is difficult and expensive. It requires a large staff of experts familiar with the technical details of the business of the corporations involved. At the best, the element of personal judgment must always enter to a large degree.

Apt to Become Arbitrary.

"Another objection is the rigidity which generally attends the ad valorem method. Valuations when once made are apt to remain for years without serious difficulty and expense of a thoroughgoing valuation.

"The ad valorem basis lacks simplicity. It it apt to become arbitrary. The administration is difficult and expensive. It is not an accurate measure of the obligation or ability to pay taxes. It does not succeed in placing the burden of taxation equitably."

The gross net tax, on the other hand, the committee stated, "possesses the advantage of certainty, simplicity and equity. It offers a method of insuring a permanent stable revenue as well as a means of weighing the burden against the more prosperous companies."

The commission further explains the gross-net tax thus: "The actual percentage of such gross earnings to be taken as taxes, depending upon the relation between gross and net earnings, was recommended by this committee as a sliding scale.

Rate Cut on Low Earnings.

"For example, when the utility has no net earnings, or its net earnings do not exceed 5 per cent of its gross earnings, the committee recommended that the rate should be 1 per cent of the gross. This tax then varied as the net earnings percentage increased."

The utilities body also reminds Senator Capper that the local utilities pay "an income tax based directly upon their net incomes." It also suggests that the bus companies be eliminated from the utilities specified because of a pending bill in the House which provides a basis of taxation of motor bus companies.

The commission also expresses the opinion that "very great difficulty will be experienced in determining the basis—trat is, the assessed value—of the real estate and tangible personal property of these utilities upon which it is proposed to tax them. For example, the commission has been engaged for some twenty months in an effort to determine the value of the property of the street railway companies. This task is still incomplete."

Mansfield Pushed For Police Captain

Lieutenant Is Recommended for Promotion; Truscott Listed for Uniform.

Recommendation that Lieut. Richard Mansfield be promoted to the captaincy vacancy created by the retirement of Capt. Michael Raedy, of the Ninth Precinct, on June 1, has been made to Brig. Gen. Glassford, superintendent of police, by the inspectors of the department.

Included in the recommendations was approval of the transfer of Detective Sergt. Floyd A. Truscott, to be a uniformed sergeant. Sergt. Truscott performed noteworthy work on the Wimbley drowning case, and is regarded as one of the most promising of the younger men of the Detective Bureau. However, he has asked, because of a recent illness, to be transferred to a position with more regular hours.

The inspectors recommended that Detective Sergt. Ben Kuehling be promoted to a lieutenancy, and Detective Charles H. Warder, of the Fifth Precinct, to a detective sergeantcy.

Mounted Giant Grizzly Bear Is Displayed Here

A mounted specimen of a giant grizzly bear weighing nearly 800 pounds is drawing hundreds of admirers to the Interior Building at Eighteenth and F streets northwest, where it is on display in the lobby from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m.

The bear is a specimen of the fast-disappearing variety which roam the forests of Yellowstone National Park. It was mounted by the James L. Clark Studios, of New York, as a contribution to the conservation work carried on by the Government through the National Park Service of the Department of the Interior.

Following a month's display, the specimen will be taken to the Yellowstone National Park, where it will be lodged in the Lake Museum as the first exhibit in its Roosevelt collection of Yellowstone mammals for the five park museums.

A capacity audience at Wardman Park Theater last night enjoyed the dancing program of Marian Chace and Lester Shafer with their school dance group. Miss Chace and Mr. Shafer conduct the local branch of the Denishawn School of Dancing.

One of the most effective presentations was a rhythmic interpretation of Blum's "Song of the Bayou." The finale, in which nearly all of the school's dancers took part, was a colorful and beautiful "East Indian Festival." It was received enthusiastically.

The featured performers in addition to Miss Chace and Mr. Shafer included Miss Anna Moore Converse, Miss Betty Chown, Miss Katherine Sipple, Michael Logan, Miss Lois Balcom, Miss Tania Gnoocheff, Miss Olga Lofgren, Miss Ruth Raine and Miss Ella Calvert Nelson.

Diagnosis Machine Shown at Conclave

Naturopaths Hold Device Is "Hundred Years Ahead" in Field.

A demonstration of the "homo-vibra ray," a device claimed by its partisans to be "a hundred years ahead" in the field of curative and diagnostic medicine, featured the evening session last night of the thirty-sixth annual convention of the American Naturopathic Association. The instrument is said to be the only one in the eastern part of the United States.

The machine is said to work on the principle that everything in the universe is but a separate form of vibration. The homo-ray, appearing not unlike a family radio, determines the negative or abnormal presence of vibratory units in the various organs of the body, its proponents claim. The device is the invention of Dr. Ruth Brown, of Los Angeles, Calif.

Dr. Benedict Lust, life president of the association; Dr. Schippell, and Dr. Carl S. Frsichkorn, were the speakers of the evening. The convention is being held at the Shorehapm Hotel and will continue through Sunday evening. The convention opened yesterday afternoon. Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, delivered the address of welcome.

CRIME PREVENTION CAMPAIGN OF POLICE HIT BY FUNDS LACK

Poor Detention Facilities Are Also Impeding Drive on Undesirables.

CROWDED CELLS FORCE RELEASE OF SUSPECTS

Legislation for Relieving the Situation Is Hope of Officials.

Waning appropriations and inadequate detention facilities have developed into a serious impediment in the path of the drive of Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, to rid the city of undesirables.

Approximately a dozen men, who police believed were deserters from the armed services, were among nearly 100 persons rounded up in the course of the police head's project.

This group was released because station house cells became overcrowded and because money was not available to feed the prisoners. Many others were released, although police were confident that they were wanted in other cities on various charges. Time for communication with other jurisdictions was not allowed under conditions here.

Obstacle to Work.

Detectives said last night that the situation was forming a serious obstacle in the work of the new crime prevention bureau which ferrets out potential criminals and persons of disrepute, pending an investigation of their presence here.

It was learned by The Post last night that despite information that a certain rendezvous of criminals here sheltered two suspects in a serious Federal case, decision was forced not to raid and round up more than 100 men there because of the lack of facilities.

Other Facilities Lacking.

Another embarrassing factor, it was pointed out, was the lack of enough photographic personnel and material to photograph prisoners, in addition to fingerprinting them for identification purposes. Even money for postage on lookout circulars and other police communications with other cities is becoming scarce and officials are being forced to various makeshift devices to finance this work.

It is the hope of police officials that legislation eventually will be obtained to provide better and larger detention facilities here. With the beginning of the new fiscal year on July 1 it is expected that the situation will be somewhat improved.

Thirty Negroes, of various ages, were taken into custody by a squad of detectives last night headed by Detective Sergeant Larry O'Dea. They were booked on investigation charges and were said to be arrested in connection with Brig. Gen. Glassford's announced purpose to rid the city of undesirables.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN IS KILLED BY AUTO

Inquest Scheduled Today in Death of Retired U. S. Employe, 89.

A coroner's jury today will inquire into the death yesterday of Stephen F. Hamilton, 89-year-old retired Government employe and Civil War veteran, as the result of being struck by an automobile at Rhode Island avenue and Mills street northeast.

W. F. Scanlon, 32, of 1019 Twenty-second street northeast, driver of the car that hit Hamilton, was arrested by Fifth Precinct police and later released on $1,000 bond for his appearance before the coroner's jury. He said that he was unable to avoid striking Hamilton, who, he claims, stepped in the path of the machine.

Hamilton was instantly killed, physicians said. He was taken to Sibley Hospital in a passing taxicab, but pronounced dead by Dr. R. E. Dunkley at that institution.

Surviving Mr. Hamilton are his 89-year-old widow, Mrs. Katie Hamilton, and two daughters, Mrs. Frank Beech and Mrs. John A. Radcliffe. The elderly war veteran's home was at 1905 Jackson street northeast. He retired from a post in the Pension Office about fifteen years ago.

Two men involved in the theft of a large quantity of prewar liquors from the home of Horace H. Westcott, prominent real estate operator, were sentenced to jail for 30 months each yesterday by Justice James M. Proctor in the District Supreme Court. They are Benito Castillo and James J. Mangan.

Fourteen bottles of champagne and 122 bottles of other liquor were stolen from Mr. Westcott's home February 18, it was testified. Castillo, a former employe of the real estate operator, allegedly stole the liquor and gave it to Mangan to sell.

SALESMAN, BATHING ALONE IN POTOMAC, SINKS TO HIS DEATH

Douglas Jones, 38, Drowns in Upper River, 3 Miles Above Key Bridge.

VICTIM WAS ATTACKED BY CRAMPS, IS BELIEF

Body Recovered 30 Minutes Later in 4 Feet of Water by Police Craft.

The treacherous waters of the upper Potomac River yesterday claimed another victim when Douglas Jones, 38-year-old automobile salesman, was swept to his death while swimming near the Virginia shore about 3 miles above Key Bridge.

Apparently seized with cramps, Jones was seen floundering about in the water, but before aid could reach him he disappeared beneath the surface. It was not until half an hour later that his body was recovered some distance away.

Jones Swimming Alone.

According to W. Paul Hamm, of 4200 Wisconsin avenue northwest, who first noticed the man earlier in the afternoon, Jones was alone and had been diving from a large rock on the Virginia side of the river. Hamm, cruising about in a small launch, said he saw Jones sitting on the rock as he passed en route upstream toward Chain Bridge.

When he returned, Hamm said, Jones was in the water. As he drew closer, Hamm told police, Jones suddenly threw up his hands and sank below the surface. He failed to reappear and Hamm went to the Driftwood Boathouse, 4500 Canal road northwest, and summoned aid.

Policeman Recovers Body.

A police boat from the Harbor Precinct, manned by Private R. C. Ault, was hailed some distance down the river and went immediately to the scene. The body later was recovered by Private Ault in less than 5 feet of water.

Jones was identified by Mrs. F. W. Rest, of the Driftwood Boathouse. She said he often swam from her wharf. Efforts of the Fire Rescue Squad proved futile and he was pronounced dead by a physician from Emergency Hospital.

Jones was employed by the De Soto Motor Co., 1529 Fourteenth street northwest. He had been there about a year. He lived with his wife, Mrs. Helen Jones, at 1724 Seventeenth street northwest.

Girl's Scream Wards Off Attack.

An attack by a colored man was warded off last night by Hattie Gibson, 11 years old, of 1327 Maryland avenue northeast, when she screamed as the man entered by the back door and grasped her by the arm. Her mother, Mrs. Flora Gibson, fainted, but refused hospital treatment.
